History of the College

Hamilton College had its beginnings in a plan of education drawn up by Samuel Kirkland, missionary to the Oneida Indians, almost 200 years ago. The heart of the plan was a school for the children of the Oneidas and of the white settlers, who were then streaming into central New York from New England in search of new lands and opportunities in the wake of the American Revolution.

In 1793 the missionary presented his proposal to President George Washington in Philadelphia, who “expressed approbation,” and to Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton, who consented to be a trustee of the new school, to which he also lent his name. The Hamilton-Oneida Academy was chartered soon thereafter. On July 1, 1794, in colorful ceremonies attended by a delegation of Oneida Indians, the cornerstone was laid by Baron von Steuben, inspector general of the Continental Army and “drillmaster” of Washington’s troops during the War for Independence.

The Academy remained in existence for nearly 20 years. It faltered, almost failed, and never came to serve Samuel Kirkland’s original purpose, which was to help the Oneidas adapt to a life in settled communities. In fact, few Oneidas came to attend the school, and its students were primarily the children of local white settlers. Yet the Academy remained the missionary’s one enduring accomplishment when, a few years after his death, it was transformed into Hamilton College.

The new institution of higher learning was chartered in 1812. The third college to be established in New York State, it is today among the oldest in the nation. Its history has been both long and eventful. After surviving dire difficulties in its early years, the College began to flourish in the period prior to the Civil War. Throughout the nineteenth century, however, it remained steadfast in its adherence to a traditional classical curriculum. Its students (all male), drawn almost entirely from the small towns and rural areas of upstate New York, were expected to enter well prepared in Greek and Latin. They continued to receive generous instruction in those languages, as well as in philosophy, religion, history and mathematics, throughout their stay on the Hill. In that respect, Hamilton was not unusual among colleges of the time. However, there was a greater emphasis on “rhetoric and elocution” than at other schools, and public speaking became, and to some extent remains, a Hamilton tradition.

College life in the nineteenth century was rigorous. Students studied by lamp and kept warm by fires fueled with wood that they themselves had gathered. Each morning, they met in Philip Hooker’s unique three-story chapel to hear a lesson, usually from the president. Although the requirement of chapel attendance has long since disappeared, this most beautiful of the College’s buildings continues to dominate the central quadrangle. The social activities of undergraduates, left mostly to their own ingenuity and direction, led to the early growth of literary societies which sponsored programs of declamation and debate. Social fraternities were first formed on campus during the 1830s, and several continue to exist today. Athletic activities of the informal variety were the rule until the end of the century, when organized intercollegiate sports began to appear.

As the College entered its second century in 1912, Hamilton was preparing itself for the modern era. An ambitious building program under President Melancthon Woolsey Stryker (1892-1917) had given the College facilities that were the envy of peer institutions, and the curriculum had been substantially revised to accommodate modern languages and the sciences.

However, it was under President Stryker’s successor, Frederick Carlos Ferry (1917-1938), that Hamilton achieved solid academic status among America’s leading liberal arts institutions. Actively supported by Elihu Root, the distinguished statesman and Nobel prize laureate who was chairman of the board of trustees, President Ferry nurtured Hamilton as a place of quality teaching and learning. The work of modernizing the curriculum was continued, and a comprehensive and innovative athletic program giving encouragement to amateur enthusiasm and widespread participation was introduced.

In the aftermath of World War II, the pace of change accelerated. The student body was expanded and, thanks to a large and ever-growing pool of applicants, its quality was enhanced as well. The faculty also grew in size and stature, and the social sciences became a more vital part of the curriculum through incorporation of course offerings in anthropology, economics and government.

Perhaps the most revolutionary change of all occurred when Hamilton established a sister institution, Kirkland College, in 1968. The faculty of this new college thought seriously about what liberal arts education should be like for women and developed a curriculum that fostered independence, creativity and self-reliance. As an experimental institution, Kirkland offered programs that supplemented and enhanced the traditional liberal arts curriculum. Students on College Hill enrolled at either Hamilton or Kirkland, but selected courses from both institutions and shared facilities, such as the new Burke Library. The two colleges merged in 1978. Today Kirkland's legacy includes an extraordinary faculty and facilities in performing and studio arts, and a strong commitment to experimental education and to interdisciplinary perspectives.

In recent years the curriculum has been further expanded to incorporate interdisciplinary studies such as Africana, American, Asian, Latin American and Women's Studies, as well as computer science and a program in public policy. Also, the physical plant has been continuously renovated and expanded, providing students with access to exceptionally modern facilities and equipment for both academic and extracurricular pursuits. Among recent developments are extensive renovations of facilities for the sciences, new language laboratories, an audio-visual center, a writing center, the Emerson Gallery for the exhibition of works of fine art and the expansion of the Robert E. Jones Computer Center. The latest major projects to be dedicated, the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts and the William M. Bristol, Jr. Swimming Pool, were constructed in 1988. Construction on the Walter Beinecke, Jr. Student Activities Village was completed in the summer of 1993.

In 1997 the College that evolved from Samuel Kirkland's plan of education celebrated the 185th anniversary of its charter. Far from the modest frontier school for white and Oneida Indian children that the missionary envisioned, it has become an institution of higher education that draws its students from all areas of our country and even beyond its borders. Although Hamilton remains small by present-day standards and currently has a student body of only 1,650, it provides resources and facilities for a quality education that compare favorably with those offered by undergraduate institutions substantially larger in size. While faithfully maintaining the tradition of liberal learning in a comfortably intimate environment, Hamilton has responded to changing needs and circumstances in preparing its students for a world unimagined by Samuel Kirkland in the days of our nation's infancy.

College Purposes and Goals

College Purposes and Goals

Commitment to the intellectual and personal development of students is Hamilton College's most important and enduring tradition. The faculty is dedicated to the promotion of academic achievement, integrity and personal growth. Hamilton students spend much of their time with their teachers and fellow students identifying problems, clarifying questions, thinking creatively, experimenting with solutions and frequently undertaking collaborative work. The College seeks mature and motivated students who desire to join this academic community and who are willing to take the responsibility for shaping their academic careers through intense consultation with their advisors.

A Hamilton education is characterized by academic rigor and intellectual engagement. Faculty members provide opportunities for students of unusual gifts to realize their fullest capacities, for their own benefit and that of the world in which they will live. To that end, professors design programs, courses and assignments within courses that foster self-education and produce that intellectual toughness, creativity and flexibility necessary to excel in a rapidly changing world. Graduates should be poised to investigate new avenues of knowledge, to respond creatively to new and unexpected situations and to address problems and challenges in a morally and intellectually courageous manner.

The College expects its students to develop the ability to read, observe and listen with critical perception, and to think, write and speak with clarity, understanding and precision. Students should develop their appreciation for inquiry, combined with the confidence to evaluate arguments and to defend their own positions. They should learn to question creatively, derive information from and analyze data, and formulate hypotheses. They should recognize the limits of factual information and become attuned to how such information can be used and misused. Above all, students should develop respect for intellectual and cultural diversity because such respect promotes free and open inquiry, independent thought and mutual understanding.

At Hamilton, students are accorded freedom to pursue their own educational interests within the broad goals of a liberal arts education. In intensive consultation with their advisors, Hamilton students regularly plan, assess and re-assess their educational progress and their success at fulfilling the ideals of the liberal arts.

Starting with the Class of 2005, education in the liberal arts at Hamilton College comprises:

- I. Foundations: The faculty expects that students will attain a high level of engagement early in their studies and will develop as creative and critical thinkers, writers and speakers. To achieve these aims, the College encourages all students to participate in at least four proseminars and requires all students to complete the Writing Program, the Quantitative Literacy Requirement and the Sophomore Program.
 1. The Proseminar Program: Proseminars emphasize active participation and engagement in learning. Proseminars offer intensive interaction among students, and between students and instructors, through emphasis on writing, speaking and discussion, and other approaches to inquiry and expression that demand such intensive interaction. Descriptions of proseminars are available through advisors and the Office of the Registrar.
 2. The Writing Program: Students must pass at least three writing-intensive courses, each taken in a different semester. The writing requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year. For further details about the Writing Program see "Standards for Written Work" (p. 17).
 3. The Quantitative Literacy Requirement: Students must demonstrate basic quantitative literacy by passing a quantitative skills examination given during Orientation, or by passing a designated quantitative course or by completing a non-credit tutorial. For a detailed description and list of courses, see “Standards for Quantitative Work” (p. 18).

4. The Sophomore Program: Students must pass a sophomore seminar that emphasizes inter- or multidisciplinary learning and culminates in an integrative project with public presentation. A common, public presentation period for projects is held each semester, and individual sections are encouraged to participate. Students normally complete the Sophomore Program during the sophomore year. Descriptions of seminars in the Sophomore Program are available through advisors and the Office of the Registrar.

II. Breadth in the Liberal Arts: As a liberal arts college, Hamilton expects students to undertake coursework in a wide variety of disciplines, to explore areas unfamiliar to them and to make connections across courses and disciplines. A liberally educated person studies in the traditional academic divisions of the arts, foreign languages, the humanities, mathematics, the sciences and the social sciences. Hamilton also emphasizes cultural analysis, including the study of non-western traditions and of diversity in the United States. Students will work with their advisors to determine how best to achieve this intellectual balance.

III. Concentration: Each student must meet the requirements for a concentration.

Students in the Classes of 2002, 2003 and 2004 must fulfill the following requirements:

I. Fundamental Skills: The College expects its students to attain a satisfactory level of achievement in written, oral and quantitative work.

1. Writing skills. Students are encouraged to take writing-intensive courses. The Writing Program requires that every student pass at least three such courses, each taken in a different semester. For further details on the requirement, see “Standards for Written Work” (p. 17). This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.
2. Oral skills. A high proportion of courses at Hamilton help students develop their skills in oral communication, through class discussion and/or formal presentations.
3. Quantitative skills. Students must demonstrate basic quantitative literacy by passing a quantitative skills examination given during Orientation, or by passing a designated quantitative course, or by completing a non-credit tutorial. For a detailed description, and list of courses, see “Standards for Quantitative Work” (p. 18). This requirement should be completed by the end of the first year.

II. Breadth of Coursework: Each student must earn a minimum of two course credits in each of the four academic divisions listed below. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.

1. Arts (Art, College 300, Creative Writing, Dance, Music and Theatre). Course choices in this division must include at least one full-credit course.
2. Historical Studies and Social Sciences (Africana Studies, American Studies, Anthropology, Economics, Government, History, Public Policy, Russian Studies, Sociology and Women’s Studies). Course credits in this division must be earned in at least two different departments or programs.
3. Humanities and Languages (Classics, Comparative Literature, Critical Languages, East Asian Languages and Literature, English, German and Russian Languages and Literature, Medieval and Renaissance Studies, Philosophy, Religious Studies, Romance Languages and Literature, and Rhetoric and Communication). Course credits in this division must be earned in at least two different departments or programs. Furthermore, the faculty urges all students to develop proficiency in at least one foreign language.

4. Sciences and Mathematics (Archaeology, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Geology, Mathematics, Physics and Psychology). Course credits in this division must be earned in at least two different departments or programs.

III. Cultural Diversity: The purpose of this goal is to help students become better aware of the diversity of human cultures and of assumptions about social relations, power and authority, and world view connected with their own sociocultural heritage. Progress toward this goal must be made by one or more of the following:

1. studying at the college level in a foreign country;
2. completing a course in a foreign language department that focuses on a representation of society in its own language;
3. completing a course centrally concerned with social relations, power and authority from diverse sociocultural perspectives;
4. any course offered under Africana Studies, Asian Studies, Latin American Studies, Russian Studies or Women's Studies, including cross-listed courses.

A course chosen to count toward this goal may also count toward Goal 2.

This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year. Courses that fulfill this requirement are published each semester in the pre-registration booklet available from the Office of the Registrar.

IV. Ethical Issues: To ensure that students think about ethical choices, about ways of approaching them and about ways the range of choices may be shaped by society and culture, each student must complete at least one course that addresses such matters. Courses that may be appropriate to this goal are offered by many departments and programs. A course chosen to count toward this goal may also count toward Goal 2. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.

V. Concentration: Each student must meet the requirements for a concentration.

Students make progress toward meeting these goals by studying broadly across diverse areas of inquiry, guided by their advisors, and investigating a particular area of study more thoroughly by completing a concentration of their choosing. A faculty advisor assigned to each student provides information, advice and dialogue about choice of courses as the student strives to meet the five goals. For many faculty members and students, this relationship will be as important as any they form. As the primary intellectual guide, the faculty determines the fundamental structure and the basic requirements of the curriculum in light of the liberal arts tradition and its appropriate adaptation to the contemporary world.

In sum, Hamilton's mission is to provide an educational experience that emphasizes academic excellence and the development of students as human beings. This experience centers on ready access to an exceptional faculty and can be shaped to meet each individual student's interests and aspirations. A Hamilton education will prepare you to make choices and to accept the responsibilities of citizenship in a democratic world of intellect and diversity. It will be the foundation on which you build a lifetime of personal and professional achievement and satisfaction.

Academic Programs and Services

The College Year

The College's calendar consists of two 14-week semesters. Students will normally elect four full-credit courses each semester to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 32 credits.

Students elect courses from among the offerings of 24 departments and 14 interdisciplinary programs. For qualified upperclass students, the College's Term in Washington, Program in New York City and programs in China, France and Spain provide rich off-campus educational experiences.

Academic Advising

The Hamilton College curriculum affords students a wide range of courses and disciplines within the liberal arts. The College relies heavily on a system of academic advising designed to assist students as they establish their academic goals and in the selection of their courses. Each advisor is a member of the faculty with a term of service beyond one year. Although students ultimately decide which courses to take, their advisors help them determine the level and sequence of courses appropriate to their needs and guide them in planning a balanced four-year program.

Each first-year student is assigned a faculty advisor who provides guidance during the first and second years. Utilizing the results of placement exams during Orientation, the student and advisor discuss and agree upon appropriate courses to develop a balanced academic program.

Preregistration for each semester takes place near the end of the preceding semester. At such times of academic advising, students are encouraged not only to plan for the coming semester but also to look ahead to their entire course of study, with special attention to the educational goals of the College.

In the second semester of the second year, students elect their concentration, after which time advising becomes the responsibility of a faculty member in the student's field of study. Student and advisor continue to work on the student's plans to satisfy the goals of the College, to fulfill the requirements of the concentration and to prepare for the senior program of the concentration. Certain members of the faculty offer counsel to students preparing for particular professions and careers.

Hamilton's advising system is distinctive among colleges and universities in its reliance upon the faculty to do all academic advising. The advisor is more than a casual faculty contact: advisor and advisee are expected to meet frequently and discuss the advisee's academic needs and problems. The performance and course selections of each student are reviewed carefully by the student's advisor, who may also consult with other advisors about his or her advisees' curricula and ways of strengthening them. Students may seek additional advice about their academic programs from the deans in charge of academic advising.

Students with learning disabilities may request special arrangements for academic activities. Students who request special arrangements must provide to the associate dean of students (academic) a professional diagnosis of the disability. In consultation with the student and with appropriately qualified psychologists in the Counseling Center, if necessary, the associate dean will determine what accommodations (such as extended times to complete examinations) are reasonable. Students who are allowed special arrangements must inform their instructors well in advance of the time the arrangements will be needed.

Academic Support Services

The Library—The Burke Library contains 556,000 volumes, and the collection is constantly expanding with new acquisitions in response to ever-changing academic interests and curricular needs. The main collection is particularly strong in the areas of history, the social sciences and the humanities. A science collection is maintained in a separate science library in the Science Building. In addition to books, the Burke Library regularly receives approximately 1,800 periodicals, together with an increasing amount of materials in microform. Additional materials for research purposes are available through interlibrary loan and document delivery from various online systems. A library network with the online catalog, numerous research databases, electronic reserves and many other Internet resources is available. There is a separate Media Library, which houses videos, slides and films, and a Music Library with music compact discs and audio cassettes, and an archival collection of LPs.

Among the library's special collections are the Rare Book Collection, the Ezra Pound Collection, the Beinecke Lesser Antilles Collection and the Alumni Collection of books written by and about graduates of the College. In addition, an area of the first floor of the library contains easy chairs and a collection of books selected for leisure-time reading. Seminar rooms for small classes are also located in the library.

Information Technology Services—Information Technology Services (ITS) provides a variety of support services for faculty, staff and student users of computers, the telephone system and the campus data network. The campus data network provides more than 3,000 high-speed ethernet connections to the Internet, including one for each student living in the residence halls.

There are approximately 1100 college computers located in offices, classrooms departmental laboratories, and public computing clusters.

ITS offices are located on the lower level of the Burke Library.

The Language Center—The Language Center, located on the third floor of the Christian A. Johnson Building, supports all levels of language acquisition. It provides access to advanced multimedia computing facilities, as well as to traditional audio and video equipment. The networked computers provide access to World Wide Web resources such as international newspapers, magazines and radio programs. In addition, the computers offer word processing capabilities in many languages as well as high-end interactive software.

The Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center—Located in the Kirner-Johnson Building, the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center assists faculty members and students in examining public issues. The center also brings prominent speakers to campus to address public issues and arranges video conferences between off-campus speakers and student groups. Hamilton students in all concentrations are selected for the Levitt Scholars Program and present their research work to high school classes. The center provides support for faculty and student research on public affairs. In particular, the Oneida County Human Services Resource Center coordinates student projects with public and private agencies who have specific research needs. The center also maintains a cluster of six computers and a small library of newspapers, journals and references. The services of the center are available to everyone in the College community.

Nesbitt-Johnston Writing Center—Designed to support writing in courses throughout the curriculum, the Writing Center offers individual writing conferences with peer tutors for students who wish to discuss any writing, at any stage of its development, whether or not it is part of a course. Writing conferences are sometimes incorporated into the requirements of writing-intensive courses, but many students also request conferences on their own. In addition, the Writing Center, located in the Kirner-Johnson Building, offers faculty consultation, word processing facilities and a resource library on writing in different disciplines.

Quantitative Literacy Center—Located in 223-224 Christian A. Johnson Hall, the Quantitative Literacy Center was established to offer drop-in peer tutoring in courses that have a mathematics/quantitative component. The center is staffed by students majoring in Biology, Chemistry, Economics, Geology, Mathematics, Physics and Psychology. Students may drop in to review mathematics topics as needed, or to use the resources of the computer and video library. Other programs offered by the center include the non-credit-bearing tutorial for students who do not pass the Quantitative Skills Exam, a review for the mathematics portion of the Graduate Record Exam and workshops designed to accompany specific courses.

Peer Tutoring Program—The Peer Tutoring Program, located in 223 Christian A. Johnson Hall, offers one-on-one peer tutoring and academic skills assistance. Students may be referred to the program by faculty members or may seek assistance on their own by meeting with the coordinator of peer tutoring and completing a tutor request card.

Program in Public Discourse

The Program in Public Discourse exists to support every student in achieving the College's standard for oral communication by encouraging and supporting the integration of effective oral communication throughout the curriculum. By offering variable credit courses and discipline-specific workshops, the program links the study and practice of oral communication with the contexts and uses of communication in the society-at-large. In consultation with their advisors, students should discuss their speaking abilities relative to the competencies the College expects and, if necessary, utilize the Program in Public Discourse to attain necessary aptitudes and abilities.

Kirkland Project

The Kirkland Project for the Study of Gender, Society and Culture is an on-campus organization committed to intellectual inquiry and social justice, focusing on issues of race, class, gender, sexuality, as well as other facets of human diversity. Through educational programs, research and community outreach, the project seeks to build a community respectful of difference.

Past events have included performances by students (Shange's "for colored girls who have considered suicide"), lectures by novelist Anna Quindlen and Dr. Susan Love, as well as a community performance of "Undesirable Elements" by renowned performance artist Ping Chong and, most recently, a series titled "Southern Accents" focusing on performances and story-telling from the South. Plans for the future include a series on "Science/Technology and Democracy." In addition to lectures and Brown Bag lunches, the Kirkland Project offers a first-year seminar ("Coming of Age in America"), a student associates program (teaching, research and service), as well as an artist/scholar-in-residence program.

Concentrations

Among the requirements for graduation is the successful completion of a concentration (major) offered by several departments and programs of instruction.

The number of courses comprising a concentration normally ranges from eight to 10, depending upon the department or program. Specific descriptions of each concentration appear in the entries under "Courses of Instruction." Every student is required to complete a senior program as defined by his or her concentration. For more information, see the sections titled "Concentration" (under "Academic Regulations") and "Senior Program" below.

The specific disciplines and programs in which a student may concentrate are Africana Studies, American Studies, Anthropology (Cultural Anthropology or Archaeology), Art (History of Art or Studio Art), Asian Studies, Biochemistry/Molecular Biology, Biology, Chemical Physics, Chemistry, Classics (Classical Languages or Classical Studies), Communication Studies, Comparative Literature, Computer Science, Dance, East Asian Languages and Literature (Chinese), Economics, English (Literature or Creative Writing), Foreign Languages, French, Geoarchaeology, Geology, German, Government, History, Mathematics, Music, Neuroscience, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Public Policy, Religious Studies, Russian Studies, Sociology, Spanish, Theatre, Women's Studies and World Politics.

Minors

The specific disciplines and programs in which a student may minor are Africana Studies, Anthropology, Art (History of Art or Studio Art), Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, Classics (Classical Languages or Classical Studies), Communication Studies, Comparative Literature, Computer Science, Dance, Economics, Education Studies, English (Literature or Creative Writing), Environmental Studies, French, Geology, German, Government, History, Latin American Studies, Mathematics, Medieval and Renaissance Studies, Music, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Public Policy, Religious Studies, Russian Studies, Sociology, Spanish, Theatre and Women's Studies. Specific descriptions of each minor appear in the entries under "Courses of Instruction."

Senior Program

All students are required to complete the Senior Program in their concentrations. Each department and program of concentration has designed a senior program that serves as an integrating and culminating experience for the concentration by requiring students to use the methodology and knowledge gained in their first three years of study. Building on their courses and showing their increasing ability to work independently in terms of both motivation and subject matter, seniors are required to produce a significant synthesis of knowledge by means of one of the following: a research project leading to a written, aural or visual creation; a seminar for concentrators, including a major presentation and research paper by each student; or comprehensive examinations ideally involving both written and oral components. This requirement allows seniors to demonstrate at an appropriate level their mastery of content and the methods of the discipline and their continuing development of the essential arts of educated men and women.

Senior Fellowship Program

Each spring, the vice president for academic affairs/dean of the faculty designates up to seven academically outstanding members of the junior class as Senior Fellows. Students in the junior year may become candidates by submitting a proposal for a senior year of independent study. The proposal usually grows out of previous academic study and is framed in consultation with two faculty advisors of the student's choice. Senior Fellows are exempt from taking a normal course load in the conventional curriculum, and they need not complete concentration requirements; they may take such courses as are appropriate to their fellowship projects and their educational goals. A written thesis is required at the close of the fellowship year, along with a public lecture to the College community. Evaluation is made by the advisors and an examination committee.

Hamilton College Junior Year in France, Academic Year in Spain, and the Associated Colleges in China Program

The Associated Colleges in China Program and the Hamilton College programs in France and Spain are distinguished for their thorough preparation and total immersion of students in the language, history and culture of those countries.

The Associated Colleges in China Program is both sponsored and administered by Hamilton College in collaboration with Kenyon, Oberlin and Williams colleges and Lawrence University. It offers students the opportunity to pursue the intensive study of Chinese in Beijing, China. The Capital University of Economics and Business in Beijing is the host institution. Open to academically successful students who have completed at least one year of study in Chinese, the program has a summer, a fall and a spring session. A combination of two semesters is recommended. Interested students should consult with a member of the faculty in East Asian Languages and Literature.

Enrollment in the Junior Year in France Program is open to students whose preparation in French is sufficient to enable them to profit from courses taught in French in the humanities, fine arts, social sciences and sciences. To be admitted, students must demonstrate a strong academic record and an adequate knowledge of French. The program, directed in France by a member of the Department of Romance Languages, begins with a three-week orientation program in Biarritz in September. The balance of the academic year is spent in Paris, where students may enroll in courses at the Université de Paris III, the Université de Paris VI, the Ecole du Louvre, the Institut d'Etudes Politiques and other selected institutes of higher education.

In collaboration with the faculties of Williams and Swarthmore colleges, Hamilton also sponsors a program in Madrid, the Academic Year in Spain. The program is open to sophomores, juniors and seniors who wish to pursue studies in Spanish language, literature and civilization. To be admitted, students must demonstrate a strong academic record and an adequate knowledge of Spanish. Hamilton is the primary organizer and sponsor of the program, while directorship rotates among faculty members of the three collaborating colleges. Students may be admitted for one term, but they are encouraged to spend one full academic year in Spain. Each term begins with a 10-day orientation program in the coastal villages of Comillas (fall) and Nerja (spring). Each term, an academically structured internship may be taken in lieu of one of the regular program courses.

Students who intend to apply to either of the programs in Spain or France should pursue study in the relevant language and consult with a member of the Department of Romance Languages. For further information, see "Romance Languages and Literature" under "Courses of Instruction." Applications are available through the Programs Abroad Office.

Hamilton College Term in Washington Program

Each year Hamilton offers a one-semester program in Washington, DC, for qualified juniors and seniors. The program is directed by a resident member of the Government Department. It consists of internships in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government that are integrated with coursework involving research and writing. The term is designed for students who have demonstrated ability to work on their own initiative, and who have particular interest in the problems of government and public affairs. The program is not restricted to those concentrating in Government, and it is open to selected students from other colleges.

A Hamilton student who participates in the program will be appointed to the Dean's List for that semester if that student earns a grade point average of 90 or higher in the three conventionally graded courses in the program and completes the required internship with work evaluated as "excellent" by the director of the program.

Hamilton Program in New York City

Through internships, independent projects and coursework, this program gives participants an understanding of global politics, economics and culture while living in a global city. Each semester a Hamilton faculty director designates a theme that will provide a focus for integrating each student's internship and independent study into classroom learning. The program selects motivated, mature students who are willing to share their internship experience and independent projects with each other.

The fall semester is open to juniors and seniors; the spring semester to sophomores, juniors and seniors. Criteria for rolling admission include an interview, two references, a transcript and course prerequisites chosen by the faculty director for that semester.

Participants receive up to two courses of concentration credit in the director's academic department or program. See Anthropology department (fall 2001), Government department (spring 2002) and College 398E,S course listings for descriptions applicable for 2001-02.

A participant is eligible for the dean's list if she or he earns a grade point average of at least 90 in the three graded courses and completes the required internship with work evaluated by the director as "excellent."

Cooperative Programs

Hamilton has established cooperative arrangements with several other institutions to expand the educational opportunities open to students. Several instances are described below. Students enrolled in cooperative programs receive a Hamilton degree only upon demonstrating to the department in which they concentrate that they have fulfilled concentration requirements and have satisfied the goals of the College. If the concentration requirements have not been met by the end of the junior year, they may, with the approval of the department, be completed at the cooperative institution.

American Council of Teachers of Russian Undergraduate Program—

Hamilton has been designated as a host institution for students from the Russian Federation and other nations of the former Soviet Union. Each academic year, one or more Russian students will have the opportunity to study at Hamilton. In the past the College has hosted students from Kazan, Voronezh, St. Petersburg, Moscow, Alma-Aty, Everan and numerous other cities in the New Independent States (NIS). The program is funded by the United States Information Agency and the governments of the NIS.

Assurance of Admission: Master of Arts in Teaching—As a result of an agreement with Union College, well qualified Hamilton students are afforded the opportunity of gaining assurance of admission to Union College's Master of Arts in Teaching Program. The M.A.T. degree will normally require two summers and one academic year in residence at Union College, and carries with it secondary school teaching certification. Students interested in pursuing this option should contact Susan Mason, chair of the Education Studies Program Committee, preferably no later than the fall semester of their junior year.

Cooperative Engineering Program—Liberal arts-engineering (3-2) plans are in effect with Columbia University, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and Washington University of St. Louis, whereby the student spends three years at Hamilton and then two years at the cooperating engineering school. At the end of this period, the student earns an A.B. from Hamilton and a B.S. from the engineering school. Admission to these programs in the traditional divisions of chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical engineering, and now many others such as biomedical, computer and environmental engineering, is based on obtaining a G.P.A. of 3.0, or a B average, and the positive recommendation of the Department of Physics. Various 4-2 plans lead to different degree options. For details, consult with the engineering advisor, Professor J.W. Ring, in the Department of Physics.

Cooperative Law Program—The Hamilton cooperative law program permits highly qualified students to enter the Columbia University School of Law after completion of their junior year. The program in Accelerated Interdisciplinary Legal Education (AILE) permits these students to earn both the Hamilton baccalaureate degree and the Columbia juris doctor degree after three years of study at each institution. Interested students should consult with Professor Robert Simon in the Department of Philosophy.

Early Assurance Program in Medicine—This cooperative effort by a small group of Northeastern liberal arts colleges and medical schools provides an opportunity for selected students, at the end of their sophomore year, to gain assurance of a place in a selected medical school upon graduation from Hamilton. It is intended for students who are confident of their career choice and who have completed two of the four science courses required for admission to medical school. In addition, applicants must propose a plan of study for the third and fourth years of college that would not be possible if they were to follow the usual pathway, in which the additional science course scheduling, the medical college admission test (MCAT) and interview requirements limit options for exploring broader educational opportunities. Although this program may reduce the academic pressures that premedical students often experience, its major purpose is to provide greater choices for personal development. More detailed information can be obtained from Professor Robin Kinnel in the Department of Chemistry.

Hamilton Cooperative Learning Program with the New England Center for Children—Hamilton students who are interested in applied psychology and education of children with special needs may study during the fall or spring semester at the New England Center for Children. NECC conducts a national-recognized program of intensive intervention using the methods of applied behavior analysis. The facility, located near Boston, offers Hamilton students a semester's academic credit for study and practical work with children with autism. The program is open to sophomores, juniors or seniors. Interested students should consult with the chair of the Department of Psychology or see <http://www.hamilton.edu/academics/psych>.

Study at Neighboring Institutions

With appropriate approval (see “Transfer of Credit” under “Academic Regulations”), a Hamilton student may take coursework toward the baccalaureate degree at neighboring institutions during the fall and spring semesters. In recent years students have enrolled in courses at Colgate University and Utica College. Usually one course is taken at a neighboring institution while the rest of the work is done at Hamilton.

Study Away from Hamilton

Each year approximately 175 Hamilton students study abroad, either with the College's programs in China, France and Spain or with other approved programs. Hamilton has special relationships with a number of these programs, such as those listed below. Students who think they may wish to study abroad, usually during the junior year, should consider early in their college careers and in consultation with their advisors, how such study will fit into their academic planning. They should also be developing the self-reliant habits of study and a level of academic achievement that will qualify them for study abroad and enable them to perform successfully in unfamiliar conditions. Students who plan to study in a non-English-speaking country are advised to develop their proficiency in the language of that country.

Students who intend to earn transferred credit for study abroad must meet certain academic requirements, which are specified under “Study in a Foreign Country” (see pp. 25-26). It is also possible to study for a semester or more at other colleges and universities in the United States. Interested students should consult the procedures outlined in the sections on “Transfer of Credit” and “Leaves of Absence” under “Academic Regulations” and should confer with the coordinator of study abroad programs well in advance of the semester or semesters during which they hope to study at any off-campus institution, either in the United States or abroad.

Classical Studies in Greece and Rome—Hamilton is an institutional member of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome, Italy (the Centro), through the Empire State Consortium, and of the American School for Classical Studies in Athens, Greece.

The Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome is open to students who have been trained in Latin or Greek. The program lasts for one semester and is offered during the fall and the spring. The center provides an opportunity to study Greek and Latin literature, ancient history and archaeology, and ancient art in Rome itself. The Duke University Foreign Academic Programs administers the center, and the faculty is chosen from among college and university teachers in the United States and Canada. The language of instruction is English.

The American School of Classical Studies in Athens operates summer programs that are open to undergraduates, graduate students, and high school and college teachers. There are two six-week summer sessions that focus on the topography and antiquities of Greece. Scholarships are available. Students interested in the programs in Greece or Rome should contact Professor Carl Rubino in the Department of Classics.

Pembroke College of Oxford University—Hamilton has an exclusive agreement with Pembroke College of Oxford University, one of the 39 independent and self-governing colleges that comprise the University of Oxford. This agreement enables qualified Hamilton students to study abroad at Pembroke for a year. In addition, selected Hamilton faculty members have an opportunity to teach and conduct research at Pembroke, while Pembroke sends senior fellows (faculty members) to Hamilton twice each year to give lectures and seminars, and to meet with students and professors. A second bachelor of arts program at Oxford, which is equivalent to a master's degree in the United States, is also being developed.

Students interested in studying at Pembroke should contact the study abroad coordinator in the dean of students office. Applications are due by January 15 for fall enrollment.

The Swedish Program at Stockholm University—Hamilton is one of 17 American colleges and universities sponsoring a program that enables students to enroll directly in Stockholm University and take courses in English with Swedish and other international students. Course offerings are diverse. Living arrangements are with host families or in the university dormitory. Participation is either for one semester or for the full academic year. For additional information, contact the associate dean of students.

Institute of Antarctic and Southern Ocean Studies—The Geology Department encourages students to study abroad and to consider enrolling at the University of Tasmania (Australia) where a cooperative agreement with the Institute of Antarctic and Southern Ocean Studies and Hamilton College has been established. For additional information, contact Professor Eugene Domack in the Geology Department.

SEA Education Association—Hamilton is an affiliated institution of the SEA semester program out of Woods Hole, Massachusetts. The shore component includes courses in oceanography, nautical science and maritime studies. The sea component includes six weeks aboard ship learning new skills and conducting research. A student may receive a maximum of four Hamilton units by transferred credit for participation in the SEA program. One unit will be awarded in each of the departments of Biology, Geology, History and Physics. Each award is conditional on the student's earning a grade of C or higher in the work pertaining to that department. Each department will determine whether the single transferred unit allocated will count toward a concentration or a minor in that department. For further information, contact the associate dean of students (academic).

MBL Semester in Environmental Science—Hamilton is an affiliated institution with the Semester in Environmental Science of the Marine Biological Laboratory Ecosystem Center in Wood's Hole. Participants engage in a 14-week program of rigorous field and laboratory work, lectures and independent research in environmental and ecosystem science. For additional information, contact the chair of the Environmental Studies Program.

Academic Regulations

Baccalaureate Requirements

To qualify for the baccalaureate degree, a student must meet the degree requirements established by the faculty for the class in which he or she has matriculated.

Course Units—The number of full-credit courses (or the equivalent) required for graduation is 32. They must be completed with passing grades; a grade of C- or higher must be achieved in at least one-half of the courses taken at Hamilton. No more than 15 course credits in a single department earned after entering the College, including transferred credits, may be counted toward the courses required for graduation. Each unit of credit is equivalent to four semester hours.

Residence—A student must complete at least one-half of the courses required for graduation while in residence at Hamilton and be in residence for the final semester of study. Residence means enrollment in programs conducted by the College, on or off campus.

Time for Completion of the Degree—The normal pattern for earning the baccalaureate degree is four consecutive years of study. The requirements must be completed within seven calendar years from the date of matriculation.

Concentration—A student must complete the requirements for a regular concentration, a double concentration or an interdisciplinary concentration with a cumulative average of at least 72 in all courses taken at Hamilton that are approved for the concentration. Seniors must take at least one course each semester in their concentrations unless granted an exemption by the departmental or program chair. All students must complete the Senior Program in their concentrations.

Each student elects a concentration in the second semester of the sophomore year. For each student the requirements for the concentration elected are those specified in the edition of the College Catalogue published for that student's sophomore year.

Regular Concentration—Students declare their concentrations in the spring of their second year, before preregistration for fall semester courses. By the end of the second year, a student must have completed at least two courses in the department or program of concentration, and must have received a cumulative average of 72 or higher for all work taken in that department or program. The concentration is listed on the official transcript. A student may change from one concentration to another only with the approval of the departments or programs involved and the Committee on Academic Standing.

Double Concentration—While students normally declare a single concentration, it is possible for a student to complete and gain recognition for concentrations in two departments or programs, provided that approval to elect a double concentration is granted by the departmental or program chairs involved. A student may not count a course as part of the concentration requirements in more than one department or program. When approved, both concentrations are listed on the official transcript. Those who have been granted permission for a double concentration may drop one of them at any time by informing the appropriate departmental chair and the registrar.

Interdisciplinary Concentration—A student may design and declare an interdisciplinary concentration involving two or more departments. After consulting with and gaining approval from the appropriate departmental chairs, the student must submit the proposed interdisciplinary concentration in writing for approval by the Committee on Academic Standing, which will evaluate the proposal according to standards similar to those for a regular concentration. The student must have a cumulative average of at least 72 in all courses approved for the concentration. The student must specify a Senior Program that meets the approval of the committee.

Regular Concentration with Option of a Minor—A student with a concentration in a single department or program may declare a minor in any other department or program that offers a minor, or in an interdisciplinary minor program previously approved by the Committee on Academic Policy. Students declaring a minor must consult with and gain the written approval of the appropriate departmental or program chair. Declaration of a minor in the same department or program as the student's concentration requires approval of the Committee on Academic Standing. To enter a minor, a student must have completed at least one course in the discipline and must have earned a cumulative average of at least 72 in all courses counting toward the minor. This average must be maintained if the minor is to be listed along with the concentration on the official transcript. A minor consists of five courses as approved by the department, program or committee under which the work is undertaken. A student may not count a course as part of both the concentration and the minor. A student may not declare a minor after the add period of the second semester of the senior year.

Senior Program—All students must complete a Senior Program in their concentrations. For additional information, see “Senior Program” (p. 11).

Standards for Written Work—The College requires satisfactory standards of correctness in all written work. Students are encouraged to take writing-intensive courses, which are offered by most departments and programs of the College. Writing-intensive courses include any so designated by the Committee on Academic Policy. The description of each course indicates whether it is writing-intensive.

The Writing Program requires that every student pass at least three writing-intensive courses, each taken in a different semester. One must be taken during the first year of study and a second completed by the end of the second year. At least one course must be outside the student's area of concentration. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.

Writing-intensive courses in Mathematics or courses in which assignments are written in a language other than English may total no more than one of the three required courses. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year. Students should earn all three of the required writing-intensive credits by completing courses designated by the Committee on Academic Policy as writing-intensive. In exceptional circumstances, the Committee on Academic Standing will allow a student to earn no more than one writing-intensive credit by completing a suitably constructed independent study.

The College offers peer-tutoring in writing at the Nesbitt-Johnston Writing Center. Many courses require first-draft writing conferences; such conferences are also available on request. Many students find the conversation about their work so helpful that they return often.

Students who experience difficulties with the writing components of a particular course are encouraged to seek such assistance and to consult with their instructors and advisors. They may also consult with the director of the Writing Center about other services available to them. See “Academic Support Services” (pp. 8-10).

Writing Program—Courses that fulfill the Writing Program requirements are published each semester in the pre-registration booklet available in the Office of the Registrar. They are also listed as writing-intensive in the course descriptions. See “Courses of Instruction” (pp. 58-215).

English as a Second Language—Hamilton offers courses in English as a Second Language for its matriculated students. The College offers a fall semester course in writing for students whose first or native language is not Standard English. Any student seeking further experience and training in the use of Standard English may elect to take the course. Work in the course is graded, and regular academic credit toward graduation is given for it. In addition, the course satisfies the College-wide requirement of one writing-intensive course during the first year. Further, student tutors with training in English as a Second Language will be available to assist students with work in all of their courses including the regular English as a Second Language course, throughout the academic year. See also “English as a Second Language” (p. 123).

Standards for Oral Communication—The College requires effective use of public and academic discourse as defined and appraised by the faculty and the College community. Many courses across the curriculum, including proseminars and seminars, require class participation through discussion, performance and debate, as well as through individual or group presentations. All students are required to participate in a public presentation through the Sophomore Program; most departments require a public presentation of their concentrators’ Senior Projects. Students may develop their speaking abilities and public presence through courses in Theatre Arts, Rhetoric and Communication, and the Program in Public Discourse. Students who experience difficulty in meeting the College’s expectations for effective oral communication are encouraged to pursue a plan for progress in consultation with their instructors, advisor and/or associate dean of students (academic).

Standards for Quantitative Work—Each student must demonstrate basic quantitative literacy by passing the quantitative skills examination given during Orientation, passing a course having a significant quantitative/mathematical component or completing a non-credit-bearing tutorial through the Quantitative Literacy Center. The Quantitative Skills Exam tests basic mathematical and quantitative knowledge, including computation, algebra, analysis of graphs and charts, and probability.

During Orientation, the advisors of first-year students will be informed of their advisees’ scores on the quantitative skills examination. Students who do not pass the quantitative skills exam will meet with academic advisors during Orientation Week to plan how to fulfill the requirement. Courses currently designated as containing a significant quantitative/mathematical component are Biology 110, Chemistry 120, Geology 112, Math 100, 103, 107, 108, 113 and 114, and Physics 100 and 190. Tutorial help for students taking quantitative courses is available at the Quantitative Literacy Center.

The non-credit-bearing tutorial offered each semester contains four modules: Basic Computation, Algebraic Expression, Graphs and Charts, and Proportional and Functional Reasoning. Students meet weekly with their tutors to prepare to take a final module exam. Participation in tutorials and the exam score are taken into consideration for the fulfillment of the requirement.

This requirement should be completed by the end of the first year.

Physical Education Requirement—Every student must participate in the program of instruction offered by the Physical Education Department. Each student is required to pass tests in swimming and physical fitness. A complete specification of the requirement is stated in the “Physical Education” section under “Courses of Instruction.” Instruction is available in aerobics, badminton, cross-country skiing, fitness, golf, inline skating, jogging, lifeguard training, outdoor pursuits, power walking, racquetball, skating, squash, swimming, tennis, toning and volleyball. Except under unusual circumstances, it is expected that the requirement will be completed in the first year. All students must complete the physical education requirement no later than the end of the sophomore year and must complete the requirement before studying abroad.

Transfer students should register for a physical education course upon matriculation and consult with the departmental chair about completion of the requirement. Prior instruction may be applicable to Hamilton requirements.

Conferral of Degrees—All qualified students receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts, which is conferred once a year at the graduation ceremony. The degrees are conferred only upon students who have completed all the baccalaureate requirements described above, who have no outstanding bills at the College and who are present to receive their diplomas (unless they have requested and received authorization from the Committee on Academic Standing for conferral in absentia). Only students who have completed all the requirements for the degree may participate in the graduation ceremony.

Honor Code

Matriculation at Hamilton is contingent upon a student's written acceptance of the Honor Code regulations. The code covers all coursework and course examinations at Hamilton College during a student's college career. Complaints alleging violations of the Honor Code shall be submitted in writing by instructors or students to the chair of the Honor Court or to the associate dean of students (academic).

Independent Study

After the first semester of the first year, a student may engage in independent study during the school year in place of a regular course. The student's independent study proposal must receive the approval of the faculty supervisor, the appropriate departmental chair, the student's faculty advisor and the Committee on Academic Standing. Normally, arrangements are completed in the semester preceding that of the independent study; late petitions may be denied. Independent study requires discipline and responsibility, and therefore the faculty takes into account the maturity of the student and the level of his or her knowledge and academic background when it considers proposals for independent study. A student normally will not engage in more than one independent study in any one semester, and may not engage in more than two independent studies in any one academic year.

Independent study may take many forms, but normally it consists of the study of material unavailable in the formal College curriculum, of laboratory or field research, or of the creation of some body of work in the creative arts, such as poetry, fiction, musical composition or visual arts.

Internships

The College recognizes that off-campus internship and apprenticeship experiences can be a valuable supplement to a student's academic program. Students beyond the first year (eight courses) who are in good academic standing are eligible to engage in such internships and apprenticeships. Students may seek to earn academic credit based on an internship or apprenticeship experience in one of two ways. First, students may apply to the Committee on Academic Standing, prior to beginning an internship or apprenticeship, for approval to earn $\frac{1}{4}$ credit (using the credit/no credit option only) for such an experience. The committee's determination to award credit/no credit is based on a letter of evaluation submitted by the project supervisor and, at the discretion of the committee, an interview with the student conducted by the associate dean of students (academic). The Office of the Dean of Students will place the project supervisor's letter of evaluation in the student's permanent file. Students may not apply credits earned for their internship experiences in this manner toward the requirements for their degree, including the regulation requiring the completion of a minimum of 32 credits. Second, under the direction of a regular member of the faculty, and with the approval of the Committee on Academic Standing, students pursuing off-campus internships and apprenticeships approved by the College may use their off-campus experience as the basis for a $\frac{1}{2}$ credit or one-credit independent study conducted during a regular semester once the student returns to the College. Such an independent study will be governed by the same policies that apply to all independent studies.

Independent Coverage of Coursework

Under certain circumstances, a student may cover a course independently and receive credit on the basis of demonstrated proficiency. The course covered in this manner must be one that is normally offered in a regular semester. Such study is ordinarily undertaken during the summer recess and permits the student to move rapidly into advanced courses for which there are prerequisites, or to make up a course failed during a preceding semester.

A student wishing to cover a course independently must obtain the approval of a faculty supervisor, the appropriate departmental chair, the faculty advisor and the Committee on Academic Standing.

Course Election

Both Hamilton's commitment to excellence and its need to operate within its resources have implications for course enrollment policy. Except for independent studies and courses with limited enrollments, a student shall be free to elect, during the calendar periods for registration, any course for which the prerequisites have been met. However, a senior who desires to elect a 100-level course must first obtain the permission of the chair of the department that offers the course.

Full-time students normally elect courses equal to four credits during both the fall and spring semesters. During each of these semesters, students may carry no more than five and no fewer than three, full-credit courses. Any exception must be approved by the Committee on Academic Standing (see also "Overelection Fee," under "Tuition and Fees").

Part-time study at Hamilton is available only to special students and to those participating in the Hamilton Horizons Program (see "Admission").

Course Changes for Fall and Spring Semesters

A student may change (add or drop) courses during the first four calendar days of the fall and spring semesters after consultation with the advisor. An add/drop form must be completed and returned to the Registrar's Office within the four-day period.

Classes may not be added after the first week without permission of the Committee on Academic Standing. After the first four calendar days of either semester, a student who is taking four or more courses may drop a course up to one week after midterm, after consulting with the advisor and the instructor of the course. The dropped course counts as one of the 37 courses that a student can elect without extra charge (see "Overelection Fee").

After the drop deadline, a student may drop a course without the penalty of failure only if approval to do so is granted by the Committee on Academic Standing. Only extraordinary circumstances warrant the committee's approval of such a request.

Grades

A student's academic performance is graded by the instructor at the close of the semester with one of 14 grades. Each of these grades is used to determine a student's average and class standing, according to the table below. The lowest passing mark is D-.

Excellent	=	A+ (98)	A (95)	A- (92)
Good	=	B+ (88)	B (85)	B- (82)
Satisfactory	=	C+ (78)	C (75)	C- (72)
Poor	=	D+ (68)	D (65)	D- (62)
Failure	=	F (55)
Serious Failure	=	FF (40)

The foregoing numerical equivalents of the letter grades are established to enable the registrar to construct students' grade point averages and class ranks, which are necessarily numerical. An instructor assigns a letter grade to indicate his or her qualitative (not numerical) assessment of a student's work.

Thus, for example, an instructor would assign "C+," "C" or "C-" to indicate assessments of "satisfactory," and the instructor may use any information he or she considers appropriate, including, but not limited to, numerical information to decide whether a student's work is "satisfactory." The registrar's conversion of the instructor's letter grade into an element of a student's grade point average is a separate matter.

After the end of the semester, reports of final grades are sent by the registrar to the student, the advisor and the parents or guardians of students who are claimed as dependents for income tax purposes. The registrar may not send grade reports to anyone else without a written release from the student.

Evaluation of performance in a course is represented by a single grade which combines grades for work in the course and for the final examination in a ratio determined by the instructor. When a student elects to take a course on a credit/no credit basis, standing in the course is represented by the notation of Cr, NC, F or FF (see "Credit/No Credit Option"). When an independent study or an appropriately designated course is carried for two semesters, the grade reported at the end of the first semester is tentative. The grade assigned by the instructor at the end of the second semester becomes the final mark for both semesters.

Failure in a Course—Students who fail a course may repeat that course; if the failed course is repeated, however, both grades will be included both on the permanent transcript and in the cumulative average. A failed course may not be counted toward the course credits required for graduation, but it is counted toward the 37 courses that a student may elect without extra charge.

After the drop period, and following a warning to the student, an instructor may request the Committee on Academic Standing to remove from the course a student who is willfully and consistently neglectful of assigned work or other course obligations. If the committee concurs, a grade of F will be entered on the student's permanent transcript.

Grades of Incomplete and Grade Changes—Any grade of incomplete reported by an instructor must first be approved by the Committee on Academic Standing. Such approval is given rarely and only in circumstances beyond a student's control, such as a medical or familial emergency. Approval permits the student to complete the required work for the course by a deadline set by that instructor and the chairperson of the Committee on Academic Standing. Normally this deadline will be no later than six weeks from the end of the semester for which the grade of incomplete was assigned. If all remaining work is not submitted by the deadline specified when the incomplete is granted, the grade will automatically be changed to F.

An instructor may not change a grade, other than the removal of an incomplete within the deadline, without the approval of the chair of the Committee on Academic Standing.

Credit/No Credit Option—To encourage greater breadth in course election, the faculty has adopted a rule that allows a student to elect four courses over the four-year period on a credit/no credit option. No more than one such option may be exercised in any given semester. Graduate and professional schools generally look with disfavor on the use of this option in coursework considered crucial to the graduate field.

The credit/no credit option is subject to the following rules:

- 1) No first-year student is permitted to use the credit/no credit option in the first semester.
- 2) Unless the instructor asks, he or she will not be informed which students are taking a course on the credit/no credit option.
- 3) The student must inform the registrar of his or her intention to use the credit/no credit option no later than the first four calendar days of the fall and spring semesters.
- 4) No junior or senior may exercise the credit/no credit option in the department of concentration or minor.
- 5) To qualify for a credit (Cr), a student must earn a C⁻ or better. The grade will not enter into the computation of the overall average.
- 6) If a student earns a grade of D⁺, D or D⁻, then the transcript will show the designation NC. The grade will not enter into the computation of the overall average.
- 7) If a student earns a failing grade, then the transcript will show an F or FF, and the grade will enter into the computation of the overall average.

In certain courses designated by the faculty, students may be evaluated “satisfactory” or “unsatisfactory.” The College Catalogue description of the course will include the notation “Evaluated Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory,” which will apply to all students registered for the course. The recorded evaluation (S or U) will under no circumstances be convertible to a conventional grade.

Under this option, full-credit courses that are evaluated satisfactory/unsatisfactory may be counted, but may not be required, for the concentration or minor, and they may not be elected by students in their first semester at Hamilton. The combined number of full-credit satisfactory/unsatisfactory and credit/no credit courses that a student may elect is limited to four.

Academic Average

Based on grades submitted by instructors, a numerical academic average is determined for each student for each semester and cumulatively for all work taken at Hamilton. A student is assigned a specific ranking in the class, which appears on the permanent record. This information is available to the student and to those parties authorized by the student to receive it. Grades in courses accepted for transferred credit are excluded from the student’s average.

Grades earned in courses taken by independent coverage are included in the cumulative average. Grades for the Hamilton Junior Year in France Program, the Academic Year in Spain Program, the Associated Colleges in China Program, the Hamilton Program in New York City and the Hamilton Term in Washington are included in the cumulative average.

Class Attendance

Every student is expected to attend class regularly. A student who must be absent because of medical or family emergency should notify the Office of the Dean of Students and his or her instructors. Absence for any reason does not remove the student’s responsibility for learning the material covered during the absence, for turning in assignments, for obtaining materials distributed in class and for knowledge of the next assignment. Instructors may drop students from a limited-enrollment course if they are absent from the first class meeting.

When an instructor believes that lack of attendance is proving injurious to a student’s academic performance, the instructor may warn the student or ask the Committee on Academic Standing to do so. The committee may drop from the course a student who fails to heed such a notice. If the committee drops the student from the course, a grade of F will be recorded.

Excuse of Illness—Students who are indisposed by illness that might inhibit their academic work should contact their instructors directly and before assignments are due. The instructors will determine whatever alternative arrangements, if any, will be available to the student. Except for confinement to bed upon the order of the College physician or nurse, the Health Center will not excuse a student from academic obligations.

Examinations—Hour examinations normally shall not be given during the last two weeks of the semester. In-class final examinations shall not be given before the beginning of the final examination period; out-of-class final examinations shall not be due prior to the beginning of the final examination period.

The final examination period consists of six days, with two scheduled examination sessions per day. If a student is scheduled to take more than one examination in a single session, the student should ask an instructor to reschedule his or her final examination. If the rescheduling presents a problem for the student or the instructor, the student should consult with the Office of the Dean of Students. Other reasons for rescheduling will be evaluated by the instructor, who must approve the time change.

Academic Standing

The faculty assumes that every student admitted to Hamilton will be able to qualify for graduation. However, the opportunity to continue at Hamilton is a privilege that a student must earn by academic achievement. A student separated from the College for academic deficiency (see below) is not in good academic standing. A student on academic probation (see below) is not in good academic standing but remains eligible for financial aid.

Hamilton College reserves the right, at any time, to suspend for any period or to separate from the College any student whose academic performance or personal conduct on or off the College campus is, in the sole judgment of the College, unsatisfactory or detrimental to the best interests of the College. Neither the College, nor any of its trustees, officers, faculty or administrative staff shall be subject to any liability whatsoever on account of such suspension or separation. A student who is separated or suspended from the College or who withdraws is required to leave campus within 48 hours, unless permission to remain longer is granted by the dean of students.

Academic Warnings—Instructors may at any time during the term submit written reports for all students whose standing in a course is unsatisfactory (borderline or failing). Students and their advisors receive copies of these warnings. A student who receives two or more such warnings in the same semester must consult with the associate dean of students (academic).

Class Status—The Registrar's Office determines class status by the number of courses a student has completed satisfactorily.

Academic Probation—The Committee on Academic Standing will place on academic probation for the succeeding semester of attendance a student whose substandard achievement is reflected in the semester's final grades in any of the following ways:

- 1) failure in a full-credit course in each of two consecutive semesters;
- 2) receiving grades below C⁻ in courses totaling two or more units;
- 3) failure to maintain a cumulative average of 72 or higher in those grades earned since accumulating 16 credits (including AP, transfer and HEOP credits);
- 4) failure in any course (whether for full or partial credit) by a student on probation.

A student who is on academic probation is ineligible for study abroad. The Committee on Academic Standing may also prevent or limit participation by students on academic probation in prize competitions, intercollegiate athletics and other extracurricular activities, including the holding of offices in chartered undergraduate organizations.

If a senior's academic record during the final semester at Hamilton would have resulted in probation, the senior's degree may be withheld for one year upon the recommendation of the Committee on Academic Standing.

Suspension from the College for Academic Deficiency—The Committee on Academic Standing will normally suspend from the College for a period of one year a student who has:

- 1) failed two or more full-credit courses during a semester; or
- 2) accumulated failures in a total of five courses; or
- 3) incurred a third academic probation.

A student suspended for academic deficiency will be notified in writing of the committee's decision, the reasons for the suspension, the length of the suspension and the conditions under which he or she will be considered by the committee for readmission to the College.

A student readmitted from a suspension for academic deficiency will be placed on academic probation for the semester immediately following readmission.

Expulsion from the College for Academic Deficiency—The Committee on Academic Standing will normally expel from the College:

- 1) any student who is readmitted from an academic suspension and whose record subsequent to readmission makes him or her subject to academic probation or to another suspension;

- 2) a senior who has failed to maintain a cumulative average of 72 in all courses taken at Hamilton as part of the concentration.

Expulsion is permanent dismissal from the College. A student who is expelled may not be readmitted and will have no further opportunity to qualify for a degree from Hamilton College.

Permanent Record—A student who is suspended or expelled from the College as a consequence of an action taken by the Committee on Academic Standing (academic failure), the Judicial Board (social infractions) or the Honor Court (academic dishonesty) will have recorded on his or her permanent transcript a note explaining the reason or reasons for the suspension or expulsion as follows: “suspended (or expelled) from the College on (date) _____ for the reason of _____.”

Transfer of Credit to Hamilton for Study Away

With faculty approval, qualified students may spend one to three semesters of study in an approved program overseas or at another American institution, or may receive credit for part-time study while on personal leave or during summers. The College tries to be responsive to the needs of students seeking diverse educational settings or courses not offered at Hamilton. At the same time, transferred credit can have a significant effect on the meaning and value of the Hamilton degree and thus must represent work that meets Hamilton’s standards. The College considers the opportunity to earn transferred credit a privilege, rather than a right, and evaluates carefully the merits of all transferred credit petitions.

Every student intending to study away from Hamilton should prepare in advance by taking the appropriate foundation courses. Consultation with the appropriate departmental chairs and the associate dean of students early in the sophomore year is strongly advised.

The conditions for transferred credit are as follows:

- 1) Students planning study away from Hamilton must register their intentions with the Dean’s Office by February 15 for the following fall semester or by October 18 for the spring semester. They must complete the transferred credit petition and receive the approval of their advisor and the appropriate departmental chairs before they begin the course of study away from Hamilton. Students who change their programs after leaving campus should discuss substitutions in their programs with the associate dean of students (academic) by e-mail or telephone.
- 2) Courses must be taken at an accredited institution and must be considered by the faculty at Hamilton to be in the liberal arts. Students are encouraged to study at four-year institutions. Students who have earned 14 or more Hamilton units (including units earned by all forms of transferred credit) may present for transferred credit only courses taken at a four-year institution.
- 3) Each course must be approved by the chair of the Hamilton department or program that would offer the course at the College. To obtain approval, students must provide a copy of the catalogue description of each course. If a course is not clearly within the purview of a Hamilton department or program, the Committee on Academic Standing will determine its acceptability. The appropriate chair should indicate if a course will apply toward a student’s concentration or minor.
- 4) Correspondence courses are not acceptable for transferred credit. Courses in which a substantial portion of the enrollment consists of high school students are not acceptable for transferred credit, even if they are college-level courses taught by a university-approved instructor or visiting professor.
- 5) Grades must be the equivalent of C or higher.
- 6) Students who carry out independent studies at another college or university in the United States must submit a separate form indicating that a Hamilton faculty member has evaluated and approved the completed project.

- 7) Transferred credits may account for no more than one-half of the total graduation credits. No more than two course credits will be granted for study during a summer.
- 8) Seniors must take their final semester at Hamilton College. Matriculated students may spend no more than three semesters studying away from Hamilton.
- 9) The quantity of transferred credit that a student may earn toward a Hamilton degree for work done at another school is determined by a proportionality between the 32 Hamilton units required for a Hamilton degree and the number of units required at the other school to earn a degree. For example, if a school requires 120 semester-hours for a degree, a course worth three semester-hours at that school is .025 of the total work required for a degree at that school. By proportionality, that three semester-hour course would generate .8 of a Hamilton unit, because $(.025)(32) = .8$. The registrar will use this rule to evaluate the totality of a student's transferred credit for a given semester or summer.
- 10) The Committee on Academic Standing grants final approval of all transferred credit petitions. Any requests for exceptions to the above conditions must be submitted to the committee.

Transferred credit, including summer school and advanced placement credit, is counted toward the courses required for a degree. Such credit is entered on the transcript. The grade, however, is not included in the student's average and, therefore, does not affect class rank, which is determined solely on the basis of grades awarded for courses taken in Hamilton programs.

Once transferred credit has been entered on a student's transcript, that credit may not be removed from the transcript without the approval of the Committee on Academic Standing.

Foreign students who enter Hamilton as first-year students and desire transferred credit for work done at a foreign college or university should consult with the associate dean of students (academic) during their first year.

Study in a Foreign Country

- 1) Students planning to study in a foreign country must follow and complete the procedures specified above for off-campus study and transferred credit. (These provisions do not apply to the Hamilton programs in France, Spain, New York City, Washington, DC, or the Associated Colleges Program in China. See the appropriate departments for the relevant information.)
- 2) All students planning to study away must discuss their plans with the associate dean of students in charge of off-campus study well before February 15 for the fall semester, or October 18 for the spring semester. Only students in good academic and good social standing at the College may receive an approved leave of absence for foreign study.
- 3) As in the case of other off-campus programs, final approval of foreign study programs and transfer of foreign study credit is granted by the Committee on Academic Standing.

Upon returning to Hamilton, the student must have an official transcript sent to the Office of the Registrar documenting completion of the approved program. No credit will be approved for courses taken credit/no credit. Students must receive letter grades or equivalents from off-campus programs.

To earn credit toward a Hamilton degree for study abroad, a student must:

- 1) earn a grade point average of 82 or higher calculated over the two consecutive semesters at Hamilton immediately preceding that student's last semester at Hamilton before leaving for the study abroad.
- 2) receive no final grades of F or FF in the semester immediately preceding the proposed period of study abroad.

Students applying to the Hamilton College programs in France or Spain or the Associated Colleges in China Program may, with the support of the appropriate program director and the concentration advisor, apply to the Committee on Academic Standing for a waiver of the 82 average rule.

To earn credit toward a Hamilton degree by work transferred from study abroad in a country whose language is not English, a student must meet both of the following requirements:

- 1) prior to studying abroad, pass a course (or otherwise demonstrate proficiency) in the language of that country at:
 - a. the fourth-semester level for French, German, Russian, Spanish, Latin and Greek;
 - b. the second-semester level for Italian, Chinese and Japanese;
 - c. the second-semester level, if the Critical Language Program at Hamilton offers instruction in that language regularly.
- 2) while studying abroad, undertake for credit work that is either conducted in the language of that country or that increases the student's proficiency in that language. The student must earn a grade of C or higher, and the work must be worth at least one-fifth of the total work presented for transferred credit from that study abroad.

The Committee on Academic Standing may, upon the recommendation of an academic department at Hamilton, modify these requirements for specific students or programs of study abroad.

Evaluation of Credit for Transfer Students

Transcripts of college work to date will be reviewed by the registrar, in consultation with the Committee on Academic Standing, to determine the courses that will be accepted for transfer. (See the preceding section for the criteria used.) Transfer students must complete at least half of their undergraduate program at Hamilton to receive a Hamilton College degree.

When the transcript has been evaluated, the registrar will send the transfer student a statement of accepted courses and an estimate of the Hamilton credit equivalency, and upon matriculation will enter the courses and grades on the student's Hamilton record. The registrar will assign a class year based on the number of credits accepted for transfer. A transfer student is governed by the academic regulations that pertain to the class in which he or she has been placed.

All transfer students must take the quantitative skills proficiency examination. They must consult with the Physical Education Department regarding completion of the physical education requirement. If awarded junior standing, a transfer student must declare a concentration upon matriculation. Courses taken elsewhere may be counted toward the concentration if approved by the appropriate department.

Acceleration

Acceleration permits students to graduate one full year ahead of the normal date of graduation. Students wishing to accelerate must apply to the Committee on Academic Standing for permission to do so no later than the end of the first semester of the sophomore year. The committee will consider both the advisability of acceleration and the means of achieving it. Approval will be granted only to those students whose academic ability and personal maturity are judged adequate.

Leaves of Absence

A student may request an academic or personal leave of absence from the associate dean of students (academic). A student may request a medical or psychological leave from the dean of students. Students should consult with their academic advisor and the appropriate dean prior to requesting leave. Leaves of absence may be granted for a specified period of time, normally one or two semesters. Students on leave are expected to return to Hamilton at the conclusion of the approved leave.

While on leave, students will be informed of preregistration at the appropriate time in the semester preceding their return, and are responsible for meeting the same deadlines as currently enrolled students. Arrangements for housing must be completed before students leave campus. In order to do this, students must complete a proxy form and register it with the Office of Residential Life. Students who fail to preregister or who leave Hamilton without formally being granted a leave of absence will be withdrawn and must reapply to the dean of students. A request for a change in a student's leave, or cancellation, must be made to the appropriate dean. Should the dean approve the request to cancel a leave, the student must pay the continuation fee and then may exercise his or her own on-campus options, to the extent that the College schedule allows.

All requests for a leave of absence must be received by February 15 for the following fall semester, or by October 18 for the following spring semester. Students with an approved leave do not pay the continuation fee, preregister or participate in the housing or meal plan lotteries. The continuation fee is refundable until May 1; after that date it is forfeited.

Students may occasionally need to arrange a leave of absence after the spring or fall deadlines for reasons beyond their control. These students should apply to the dean of students, who may allow financial and other regulations to be waived. When a leave is granted, the dean of students may also specify special conditions for the student's readmission to Hamilton.

Academic Leave of Absence—Students intending to pursue an academic program at another institution, either at an American college or in a foreign study program, must request an academic leave from the associate dean of students (academic). Requests must be made in writing.

Personal Leave of Absence—Students may request a leave for personal or financial reasons from the associate dean of students (academic). Requests must be made in writing.

Medical or Psychological Leave of Absence—Students who have a professionally diagnosed medical or psychological condition that interferes with their academic or social life at Hamilton may request a medical or psychological leave of absence from the dean of students. For such a leave to be considered, the student must authorize the director of Student Health Services and/or the director of Counseling and Psychological Services, as appropriate, to provide confirmation of the presence and severity of the condition to the dean of students.

Students whose behavior is either disruptive or presents a danger to themselves or to others may be referred to the Health Center or to the Counseling Center for evaluation and diagnosis if the dean of students suspects that a medical or psychological condition may underlie the behavior. If the consultation confirms the presence of such a condition, the dean of students may decide to place such students on involuntary medical or psychological leave of absence. Students who refuse to cooperate with such evaluative procedures will be subject to involuntary leave until such evaluations are completed. Students who face involuntary leave have the right to request a member of the faculty or administration to act as an advisor or advocate.

Students who have been on medical or psychological leave of absence must apply to the dean of students to return. Normally this request should be made 30 days in advance of the proposed date of return. Requests will be granted only after the director of Student Health Services and/or the director of Counseling and Psychological Services informs the dean of students that he or she is satisfied that the student is ready to return; this will normally require the student to supply documentation from appropriate professionals confirming that the condition leading to the leave has been resolved.

Suspension, Withdrawal and Readmission

Academic Suspension—A student suspended for academic deficiency will be notified in writing of the decision of the Committee on Academic Standing, the reasons for suspension, the length of the suspension and the conditions under which he or she will be considered by the committee for readmission to the College.

A student readmitted from a suspension for academic deficiency will be placed on academic probation for the semester immediately following readmission.

Disciplinary Suspension—Students may be suspended from the College for disciplinary reasons. Readmission to the College after the semester of suspension is not automatic, but requires application to the dean of students. A student readmitted from suspension for disciplinary reasons will normally be placed on disciplinary probation for the semester immediately following readmission. Readmission will normally be denied if the conditions specified at the time of suspension have not been met. Hamilton reserves the right to defer readmission if space is not available.

Withdrawal—Students who leave Hamilton while a semester is in progress or at the end of the semester, and who do not wish to return at a future date, are required to withdraw formally from the College. A student who wishes to withdraw from the College must meet with the associate dean of students (academic) and follow the proper exit procedures.

Readmission—Former students or students who have completed withdrawal procedures may apply to the dean of admission for readmission to the College. Applications for readmission are to be submitted at least one month prior to the beginning of the semester in which the student wishes to return.

Continuation at Hamilton

Continuation Fee—A continuation fee of $400, deductible from the fall tuition bill, is required of all students who intend to continue at Hamilton. This fee is due by March 1 of each year. It may be refunded up to May 1; after that date it is forfeited.

Preregistration—Preregistration is held in November for the following spring semester and in April for the following fall semester. In order to preregister for the fall semester, students must have paid the continuation fee. Students who have not preregistered may be withdrawn from the College.

Housing Lottery—In order to continue in college housing, returning students select their rooms for the next academic year through participation in the housing lottery process at the end of the spring semester. In order to be eligible for the process, students must have paid the continuation fee, have their accounts clear and have preregistered for classes for the fall semester. The housing lottery information booklet, published in the middle of the spring semester, contains additional requirements pertaining to the process and student eligibility.

Students wishing to live off campus must participate in a separate process which is normally offered only to rising seniors. Any permission to live off campus is granted on a yearly basis only. Students are advised to not sign a lease until they have been granted permission to move off campus by the College during the spring.

Meal Plan Placement—Each student must participate on a meal plan while classes are in session. All first-year and sophomore students must participate on the 21-meal plan. Most junior and senior students will participate on the 7-, 14- or 21-meal plan, depending on where they live. Certain housing locations permit students to take fewer meals in the dining halls. However, all students (including off-campus residents), at a minimum, must participate in the five-lunch plan, known as the Common Meal Plan. Students with medical restrictions need to consult with the director of residential life. (For more information on Meal Plan Placement, see the Residential Life site on the Hamilton Home Page at <http://www.hamilton.edu/html/studentlife/reslife/mealplan/mealplan.htm>)

Student Records

College regulations defining access to student records under the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (“Buckley Law”) are described in the “Appendix.”

Honors

The College recognizes academic achievement with a variety of honors. Specific awards, fellowships, scholarships and prizes are described in the “Appendix” of the College Catalogue.

Commencement Honors

Those students who complete the entire College course with a standing in the first five percent of the graduating class will earn general honors and receive the baccalaureate degree summa cum laude; those in the next ten percent, magna cum laude; and those in the next ten percent, cum laude.

The two students who attain the first and second highest standings for the College course shall be given, respectively, valedictory and salutatory honors. To be eligible for valedictory or salutatory honor, a student must have earned at least 23 units of credit at Hamilton College.

Departmental Honors

Honors in the concentration are awarded by vote of the faculty in the area of concentration to those seniors who have completed courses that satisfy the concentration with an average of not less than 88 and who have also met with distinction the additional criteria established for honors in the concentration. Individual departments and programs may require a higher average. These criteria are listed in the departmental entries which appear in the section on “Courses of Instruction.” Matters of character constitute legitimate considerations for a department to deny an award of honors in the concentration.

Dean’s List

The College also recognizes academic achievement at the conclusion of each semester. At those times, the dean of the faculty makes public the names of those students who have carried throughout the semester a course load of four or more graded credits and who have completed that course load with an average of 90 or above. (A special criterion for the Dean’s List applies to the Term in Washington and Hamilton in New York City programs; see “Academic Programs and Services.”)

Phi Beta Kappa

The Hamilton College chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, known as the Epsilon Chapter of New York, was established in 1870. Students are elected to membership primarily for academic distinction in the liberal arts and sciences. In the fall, the chapter may choose not more than ten seniors having especially distinguished records during their first three years. Other seniors are elected in the spring and at Commencement time. Transfer students may be elected on the basis of two years’ grades in Hamilton courses. However, no more than one-eighth of the graduating class shall be elected altogether. In examining the academic records of candidates for election, the chapter takes into consideration their fulfillment of the academic purposes and goals of the College.

Sigma Xi

The Hamilton College chapter of Sigma Xi, the national honor society for scientists, was installed in 1965. The goals of Sigma Xi are to advance scientific research, to encourage companionship and cooperation among scientists in all disciplines and to assist the wider understanding of science. Students who show marked aptitude for research and who are continuing in research at the graduate level are elected to associate membership. Students not continuing on to graduate school are awarded certificates of recognition. Nominations are based on the student’s performance in an independent study or a senior research project.

Lambda Pi Eta

The Hamilton College chapter of Lambda Pi Eta, known as Epsilon Kappa, was established in 1996. Membership in Lambda Pi Eta is based on academic excellence in and commitment to communication studies. The purpose of the society is to recognize, foster and encourage outstanding scholastic achievement in communication studies.

Omicron Delta Epsilon

The Hamilton College chapter of Omicron Delta Epsilon, the international honor society in economics, was established in 1990. The society recognizes scholastic attainment in economics, encourages the establishment of closer ties between students and faculty in economics and emphasizes the professional aspects of economics as a career in the academic world, business, government and international organizations.

Phi Alpha Theta

Alpha Epsilon Upsilon, the Hamilton College chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, was installed in 1991. This international honor society recognizes academic excellence and promotes the study of history through the encouragement of research, good teaching, publication and the exchange of learning and thought among historians.

Phi Sigma Iota

Iota Nu, the Hamilton College chapter of Phi Sigma Iota, was installed in 1977. This national honor society encourages scholarship and recognizes achievement in foreign and classical languages and literatures.

Pi Sigma Alpha

Known as Tau Kappa, the Hamilton College chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha was established in 1993. This national political science honor society recognizes academic achievement in various fields of political science and encourages intellectual discourse on public affairs and international relations among students and faculty.

Psi Chi

The Hamilton College chapter of Psi Chi, the national honor society in psychology, was established in 1977. The purpose of the society is to advance the science of psychology and to encourage, stimulate and maintain members' scholarship in all fields, particularly psychology.

Fellowships, Prizes and Prize Scholarships

In addition to the honors listed in this section, the College awards fellowships, prizes and prize scholarships in recognition of academic and other kinds of achievement.

Fellowships are awarded to graduating seniors to permit them to continue their education.

Most prizes are given for academic achievement in a particular discipline, either in general coursework or in an essay or other exercise. A few prizes recognize personal character or service to the College community.

Prize scholarships are competitive and are awarded to students in recognition of outstanding achievement. A number of endowed scholarship funds, established by alumni and friends of the College, support them.

Postgraduate Planning

Just as Hamilton provides academic advisors to its students during their undergraduate years, so it endeavors to assist them in their plans for postgraduate study and employment. The staff of the Career Center regularly advises students on postgraduate planning. Many individual faculty members are available for consultation concerning study or careers in their particular fields of interest.

In recent years, approximately 15 percent of those graduating have entered graduate or professional schools directly after college. Some 50 percent enter graduate programs within five years after receiving their college degrees. Since most Hamilton students undertake postgraduate study, proper education for such work is an important aim of the curriculum. About 70 percent of recent seniors elected to take jobs immediately after graduation. As they begin to plan for their postgraduate years, all undergraduates are encouraged to use the resources and counsel available at Hamilton.

Career Center

The Career Center offers a number of workshops, individual appointments and other services to assist students in exploring career options, preparing for job searches and planning for graduate and professional schools. Students are strongly urged to visit the center in their first or second year at Hamilton. Information on career development and career field choices, and data on all recruiting opportunities, is available online at the Career Center website (www.hamilton.edu/college/career). The office maintains a library of reference books concerning graduate study in the United States and abroad, as well as information on internships, volunteer programs and summer employment. Also, the center acts as a clearinghouse for students who wish to establish a permanent file of credentials.

In addition to arranging career seminars and campus visits by employers and representatives of graduate and professional schools, the Career Center coordinates a program of assistance, with the participation of alumni, who are an integral part of the career advising process. Each year a number of alumni return to campus to discuss career options with students in a variety of formal and informal settings, and students often visit alumni at their places of employment during school vacations.

Graduate Study in Arts and Sciences

Students contemplating graduate study should consult as early as possible with the chair of the department in which they plan to concentrate. Knowledge of requirements for the primary field of interest and of appropriate related courses is essential to planning a solid program. For example, students considering a career in chemistry need to know the courses that will enable them to qualify for a certificate issued by the American Chemical Society, as well as the courses most helpful toward graduate work in chemistry. A student considering geology as a concentration should be aware that the other natural sciences are useful both to the potential concentrator and to the future geologist. A solid grounding in mathematics, including analytical geometry and elementary calculus, is particularly important to the scientist, the economist and very frequently to the social scientist.

Any student planning on graduate work should be aware that many programs require a reading knowledge of at least one foreign language for the master's degree and often two for the doctorate. A student should consider whether French, German, Greek, Latin, Russian, Spanish or a non-Western language will be helpful.

A student contemplating graduate work should consult the catalogues of major universities for the requirements. (A wide selection may be found on microfiche at the Burke Library.) The knowledge so gained will permit useful planning in consultation with the appropriate departmental chair.

Health Professions

All accredited medical and dental schools require one year of English, one year of biology, two years of chemistry (including organic) and one year of physics. Additional requisites vary widely, but often include “competence in mathematics” and broadly stated background in social sciences and humanities. The requirements for schools of veterinary medicine are generally more rigid; those for the allied health professions, including physical therapy, optometry, podiatry and nursing, are somewhat more flexible. Students interested in any career in the health professions should consult with the health professions advisor as early as possible to plan a course of study to meet the requirements of the schools of their choice. (See “Early Assurance Program in Medicine” under “Academic Programs and Services.”)

Law

Many Hamilton students enter law school immediately upon graduation or within a few years thereafter. While law schools do not prescribe any particular courses or program of study as part of a formal pre-law curriculum, they seek graduates who demonstrate analytical reasoning powers, skill in oral and written forms of expression, and the ability to comprehend and organize large amounts of factual data. Students interested in entering law school are advised and assisted by the Pre-Law Committee composed of faculty members and the assistant director of the Career Center.

Education

Hamilton is proud of the number and quality of its graduates who have pursued careers in the field of education. Students interested in teaching, school administration, student services and other careers in education should consult with the staff of the Career Center, the Office of the Dean of Students, the director of the Education Studies Program and/or their advisor.

Business and Government Service

For many careers and professions, no prescribed program is necessary. The best preparation for business or government service is probably well-developed skills in reading, speaking and writing; a wide choice of courses, including economics and/or mathematics; and a concentration in the area which the student finds most interesting. Students who intend to enter a graduate school of management or business administration are strongly advised to take mathematics at least through calculus. In addition, many employers look for well-rounded students who also have demonstrated leadership, community service and involvement in extra curricular activities during their time at Hamilton.

Engineering

Students interested in engineering as a career may pursue this interest at Hamilton in a number of ways. Among others, the cooperative program (see “Cooperative Engineering Programs” under “Academic Programs and Services”) leads to the B.S. or M.S. degree in engineering in either a 3-2 or 4-2 plan. Other arrangements may also be made. In order to keep this career option open, it is necessary to take courses in physics, mathematics and chemistry. The usual pattern is at least one course in science and one in mathematics for each of the first five or six semesters.

Admission

As a liberal arts institution, Hamilton encourages applications from young men and women of diverse talents and intellectual promise. Prospective students are selected not only on the basis of their performance in high school and their ability to profit from Hamilton's various programs, but also on the basis of their capacity to enrich college life in some fashion—be it scholastic or extracurricular.

The Admission Committee reviews each application individually and reaches a decision by consensus. Since the number of qualified candidates far exceeds the number of openings available each year, admission to Hamilton is highly competitive.

Requirements for Admission

Because Hamilton's academic program is rigorous, applicants for admission must demonstrate highly developed learning skills. The candidate should, therefore, complete a formal secondary school program, including such preparatory subjects as English, mathematics, foreign language, science and social studies. Although the distribution of these subjects may vary, a minimum of four years of English, three years of mathematics, three years of science and three years of one foreign language is desirable. Nonetheless, since the prime criterion for admission remains the candidate's ability and desire to perform at intellectually demanding levels, Hamilton will consider applications from highly recommended individuals whose preparation does not conform to these guidelines.

The deadline for submitting applications through regular decision is January 15. An application consists of the following pieces of information: the application form itself (Hamilton's application is the common application), Hamilton's one-page Application Supplement, a secondary school report, a mid-year school report and a teacher reference form. In addition, applicants must write an essay and submit a graded sample of expository prose. Applicants are offered a variety of ways to meet Hamilton's standardized test requirement. They include: SAT 1; or the American College Testing assessment test (ACT); or three SAT 2 tests in different areas of study, to include the writing test, a quantitative test (chemistry, math or physics) and one test of the student's choice; or three Advanced Placement (AP) tests in different areas of study, to include English, a quantitative test (computer science, chemistry, economics, math or physics) and one test of the student's choice; or three International (IB) Standard or Higher level tests in different areas of study, to include an IB Language (A1, A2 or B in English only), one quantitative test (chemistry, computing studies, economics, math, physics, or physical and chemical systems) and one IB test of the student's choice; or three scores in different areas of study from any mix of the above, to include an English test, a quantitative test and a test of the student's choice.

Because the Admission Committee wants to know as much as possible about each applicant, a personal interview on campus is strongly recommended. Interviews may be scheduled from spring of the junior year through February 15 of the senior year. The candidate should write or telephone the Admission Office (800-843-2655) to request a specific date for an appointment. Because interview slots are limited and are often booked weeks in advance, students are urged to arrange an appointment well ahead of their intended visit. The Admission Office schedules interviews Monday through Friday from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. The office is also open on most Saturday mornings from July through December (but candidates are encouraged to visit the campus on a weekday if possible). For those unable to visit the College or schedule an interview during their visit, an off-campus interview with an alumna or alumnus of the College may be arranged. An off-campus interview should be requested as early as possible during the senior year. Alumni interviews cannot be scheduled after January 10. The phone number is 800-791-9283.

A campus visit should involve more than just an interview. Applicants are also encouraged to take a tour of the campus, visit classes, talk with faculty members and students, and eat in one of the dining halls. Overnight accommodations are available (Sundays through Thursdays, starting October 1) with student hosts or in the Bristol Center. In either case, the Admission Office recommends that students make reservations ahead of time and will be glad to assist them with any arrangements.

Hamilton is a member of the National Association of College Admission Counselors and adheres to its Statement of Principles of Good Practice in the admission process. Applicants are expected to be aware of their rights and responsibilities as delineated in the Statement of Students' Rights and Responsibilities as promulgated by NACAC. Copies of either or both of those statements may be obtained by writing or calling the Admission Office.

Early Decision

The Early Decision program is designed for students who have investigated their college options thoroughly and have decided that Hamilton is their "first choice." Hamilton College values the commitment and enthusiasm demonstrated by students who choose this program. Our statistics show that Early Decision candidates have received a slight advantage in the admission and financial aid process. The program enables students to clearly indicate that Hamilton is their first choice, and allows admitted students to conclude their college search early in the senior year.

A student may apply for Early Decision under the following plans:

Plan I: November 15—Deadline for application
December 15—Notification of decision

Plan II: Applications are due by January 15; applicants for regular decision may convert to ED II status by filing a complete Early Decision agreement prior to February 15. Review of completed EDII applications begins in mid-January and continues on a rolling basis through mid-February. Candidates will be notified within two weeks of completing the application.

Students applying to the College under any of the Early Decision plans will be required to sign a statement that they will withdraw all other college applications and will file no additional applications if they are accepted by Hamilton. A guidance counselor must also acknowledge the commitment by signing this statement.

To apply for aid, students should complete and file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the College Scholarship Service (CSS) PROFILE application prior to February 1 of the year they will enter college. If the PROFILE and FAFSA are filed after February 1, photocopies of the forms should be sent simultaneously to Hamilton's Financial Aid Office. This will ensure that the request receives full consideration for assistance. Be aware that filing the PROFILE is a two-step process. The registration form must be filed before CSS will send the actual application. Students will need to file the registration form in mid-January in order to file the application by February 1.

Early and Deferred Admission

Candidates able to satisfy high school graduation requirements by the end of their junior year and who wish to matriculate at Hamilton the following fall will receive the same consideration as any other applicant. Excellent students who have exhausted their high school course offerings before the senior year but who will not satisfy graduation requirements may also be considered for early admission. Early admission candidates are strongly advised to have a personal interview on campus.

Candidates who have been accepted for admission and are fully committed to Hamilton, yet who prefer to postpone entrance for one year, may request deferred admission. A place will be reserved for them upon acceptance of their deferral by the admission committee and receipt of the required registration deposit of $400.

Candidates requesting deferred admission should understand that they are expected to attend Hamilton and may not apply to other colleges during their year off.

Admission with Advanced Placement

Entering students who score satisfactorily on the Advanced Placement Tests or who have earned the International Baccalaureate diploma may be awarded (with the approval of the appropriate department and the Committee on Academic Standing) advanced placement and/or credit. In addition, credit may be granted for coursework taken on other college campuses with regular college faculty.

With the approvals of the appropriate academic departments and the Committee on Academic Standing, students who have earned the International Baccalaureate diploma may be awarded credit based on that diploma.

With the same approvals, a student who scores satisfactorily on an Advanced Placement Test may be awarded advanced placement in that department's curriculum. The department, may, but need not, award the student credit for a lower-level course upon that student's completing, with a grade satisfactory to the department, the course in which he or she was placed.

A student may not receive credit toward a degree solely on the basis of a score on an Advanced Placement Test.

Higher Education Opportunity Program and Scholars Program

Hamilton participates in the New York State-sponsored Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP), designed to provide a wide range of services to qualified applicants who, because of educational and economic circumstances, would otherwise be unable to attend college. These services include a summer session in preparation for matriculation at the College, counseling and tutoring. A general college studies course is offered to HEOP students each summer. Designed to introduce students to the liberal arts, the course covers such fields as English, Speech, Psychology, Philosophy, Science, Mathematics and Anthropology, and provides students with the expertise to develop a program of study, in consultation with an advisor, which will meet their perceived educational needs.

Hamilton College financial aid funds are available to students admitted under HEOP. Hamilton also conducts a parallel program to HEOP, the Scholars Program, for students who do not meet all the HEOP requirements, whether they be economic, academic or geographic. For further information, applicants should contact the director, Higher Education Opportunity Program, Hamilton College.

International Students

Applications from superior students from other countries are encouraged. International students should submit the results of the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) in addition to the materials mentioned above if their language of instruction has not been English. A limited amount of financial aid is available to international students demonstrating need.

Home-Schooled Students

Students who have met their local and/or state regulations for schooling at home may apply for admission to Hamilton. We strongly recommend these home-schooled students have an on-campus interview to discuss their academic preparation for college-level work. The SAT-I or the ACT are required; SAT-II is optional but encouraged.

Transfer from Other Colleges

The College is interested in any well-qualified, highly motivated student who wishes to transfer to Hamilton from another institution. Because of the College's graduation and residency requirements, no student can transfer more than two years' work from another institution. (See also "Evaluation of Credit for Transfer Students" under "Academic Regulations.")

Transfer candidates must submit official records of all college work accompanied by two letters of recommendation, one of which must be from the dean of students at the institution most recently attended. The deadline for fall transfer applications is May 1; admission decisions are mailed by mid-May. The deadline for spring transfer applications is November 15; admission decisions are mailed by January 1. Financial aid for transfer students is available but limited.

Hamilton Horizons Program

Convinced that education is a continuing process, Hamilton invites qualified men and women who have been away from formal collegiate education for two years or more to return via the Hamilton Horizons Program. Interested candidates are asked to meet with the director of the program.

The Hamilton Horizons Program provides older students with the same educational opportunities offered to regular undergraduates. The program offers no distinct courses for adults, no evening or weekend courses and no adjunct faculty. Instead, students in this program are incorporated into the mainstream of the College's academic life.

To earn a degree at Hamilton, students in the Hamilton Horizons Program must satisfy all the requirements stated in the College Catalogue, except the requirement in physical education, the requirements governing minimum and maximum course loads, the requirements governing residence on campus and the requirement that the degree be completed within seven years following matriculation.

Applicants are initially accepted as part-time students in the program, which of itself offers no degree. After two semesters, each student has the option of applying to the College as a candidate for the baccalaureate degree. Hamilton Horizons students may take courses for credit or audit them without formal matriculation. The deadline for fall Horizons applications is April 1; the deadline for spring Horizons applications is November 1.

The ACCESS Project

The Hamilton College ACCESS Project is a comprehensive program designed to provide low-income parents in Central New York with all of the support necessary to thrive in an academic community. The project offers long-term educational, employment, social service, legal, transportation, psychological and family support. Students in the ACCESS Project receive one year of free tuition at Hamilton, where the program includes individualized classes, workshops, advising and study programs, with an emphasis on developing skills in writing and communication, organization, test-taking, computer literacy and research. Following the first year, students are offered assistance in entering and completing two- and four-year degree programs at several area colleges, including Hamilton. In order to be eligible for the ACCESS Project, students must be low-income parents with at least one dependent child in their home, have an income of less than 200% of the poverty level and be ready and motivated to work hard, learn, grow and change their lives. For more information, contact Tara Day, support services coordinator, at 315-859-4292.

Tuition and Fees

A college education of the kind offered at Hamilton is necessarily expensive—so expensive that tuition represents slightly more than 60 percent of the actual cost of a student's education. For the remainder, the College relies upon its endowment and the various gifts and grants made by alumni, friends and foundations. Even though the individual expense is thus substantially reduced, approximately half of all students at Hamilton still need some form of financial aid. If deemed eligible, they can benefit from scholarship funds, employment opportunities and loans established to defray further the high cost of education. For detailed information, refer to the "Financial Aid" section of this Catalogue.

Charges for a year at Hamilton, including tuition and fees, room and board, total $34,150. Beyond this, a student will need an additional $500 to cover the cost of books and supplies, plus approximately $950 for other expenses. The actual amount required will depend in part upon the distance between home and the College.

College Fees

Application Fee—A non-refundable fee of $50 must accompany each application for admission.

Registration Deposit—A non-refundable deposit of $400 is required from each candidate offered admission. This sum, due by May 1, will be applied toward the first bill of the academic year.

Guarantee Deposit—An initial guarantee deposit of $100 is required from each regularly enrolled student upon entering the College. This deposit will be held to ensure final payment of minor bills. Any balance will be returned after the student leaves the College.

Tuition and Other Charges for 2001-02—

Tuition and Fees	per year	$27,350
Room (in College residence halls)	per year	3,500
Board (in College dining halls)	per year	3,300

The charge for tuition and fees listed above does not apply to the occasional special student permitted by the faculty to carry fewer than the three courses required for a full-time program. Partial tuition for such students is determined solely by course load, at a rate of $2,600 per course.

Overelection Fee—Four years' tuition entitles the student to 37 courses—several more than are required for graduation—taken at any time during the undergraduate program. Students who enroll in more than the allotted 37 courses (exclusive of Music 121-122, 131-132, 141-142, 221-222, 231-232, 281, 331-332 and 431-432) pay an overelection fee of $2,600 per additional course.

Room and Board—The College asks that all students live in a College residence hall; exceptions to this policy may be granted by the Office of the Dean of Students. College rooms are furnished with a bed and mattress, desk, chair and dresser for each occupant. Any student who is allowed to move from his or her residence hall to off-campus housing before the second week in the semester has ended will receive a rebate. Because of residence hall financing commitments, however, students who move after that time will not be so entitled.

A limited number of students are permitted each year to participate in the Keehn Cooperative Meal Plan or in other specialized meal plans. All students, however, will participate in the Common Meal Plan as a minimum. All first- and second-year students will participate in the 21-meal plan. Juniors and seniors can choose to participate in either the 7-, 14- or 21-meal plan; and certain housing accommodations will provide for participation in the Common Meal Plan only (lunches, Monday-Friday). Those permitted to provide their own board will be assessed a service charge of $250 per year for this privilege to cover the College's cost of maintaining cooking facilities in the residence halls.

Continuation Fee—A continuation fee of $400, deductible from the fall tuition bill, is required of all students who intend to return to Hamilton for the coming academic year. This fee will be billed to the student's account on January 15, to be paid on or before March 1. Students may not preregister or participate in the housing lottery until the fee is paid. It is nonrefundable after May 1.

Student Activities Fee—At the request of the Student Assembly, a student activities fee of $50 per student per semester is charged to support student-sponsored programming.

Medical Services—Professional care and treatments provided by the College Health Center are free. A fee may be incurred for medications and diagnostic tests.

Group Accident Insurance—Accident insurance is extended without separate charge to all regularly enrolled students for the academic year. However, this is excess insurance over any other collectible insurance covering the student as a dependent. This includes, but is not limited to, Blue Cross-Blue Shield or the parents' group insurance program.

Coverage under both the basic and the major medical plans is available for losses caused by accident only, both on and off campus, but the accident must occur during the academic year. There is no coverage during the summer break. Treatment must commence within 180 days of the accident, and all bills for charges accumulated during a given treatment must be presented within two years of the incident.

Accident insurance is also provided for intercollegiate sports. This is excess coverage only. It applies after any other collectible insurance covering the student. Club and intramural sports are not covered under this plan and fall under the group accident insurance plan.

Health Insurance—Hamilton College requires that all students have some form of health insurance coverage. For students who are not covered under a parent's policy, or students who would like additional coverage, Hamilton offers a limited benefits health insurance plan. Coverage under this policy is voluntary. However, if proof of other comparable health insurance coverage has not been provided to the Health Center, students will be automatically enrolled in and billed for this plan. An outline of the plan and premium information may be obtained from the associate director of administrative services at 315-859-4999.

Other than the provisions of the Medical Service and Group Accident and Health Insurance programs described above, the College assumes no responsibility for medical or health services to its students.

Music Fees—Private vocal and instrumental instruction is available during the fall and spring semesters. The student may choose between two alternatives: 11 weekly half-hour lessons for $220, or 11 weekly hour lessons for $440. A student receiving a college scholarship as part of his or her financial aid package is eligible for assistance in meeting the cost of private music instruction. Generally one-half the cost will be covered by an increase in the scholarship, with the remainder covered either by the student and his or her family or through a supplemental loan. Eligible students must contact the Office of Financial Aid.

Off-Campus Programs Abroad Fee—Students may study for a semester or more through approved foreign study programs at other colleges and universities. A fee of $900 is charged for each semester a student is abroad. This fee is in addition to the tuition charged by the off-campus program.

Charges for Damage—The College attempts to minimize property damage by prorating among the student body the cost of any such damage for which the responsible party cannot be identified. The cost of individual residence hall damage for which no responsible party can be found is prorated among the residents of each building. A bill for this prorated charge is sent to each student at the end of each semester.

Payment of Bills—One-half the annual charges is billed in July and the other half in December. Both are mailed to the student's home address for payment in August and January, respectively. If payment is not received by the due date, a late payment fee of $100 is assessed. An additional late fee of $200 will be assessed if the amount due for the semester is not paid by October 1 for the fall semester and March 1 for the spring semester. During the academic year, all other bills are also mailed to the student's home address and are due by the last day of the month.

Numerous lending organizations and banks offer plans for financing tuition and fees. Such plans allow for payment periods of up to 120 months. The Office of Financial Aid has a list of such organizations.

Any student whose bill is not paid as provided herein may be prevented from registering or preregistering and excluded from classes. In addition, any student whose bill is unpaid may be denied access to residence and/or dining halls. No student whose College bills are unpaid may receive a degree or honorable dismissal, have grades recorded or obtain a transcript.

All students are held personally responsible for any unpaid balance on the tuition account, regardless of any allowances, awards or financial aid. It is also the student's obligation to pay attorneys' fees or other charges necessary to facilitate the collection of amounts not paid.

All refunds to a student withdrawing from the College are based on the date on which the student, parent or guardian notified the dean of students of withdrawal. The College policy on the refund of payments to students who withdraw voluntarily or due to illness, or who are dismissed during any semester, is stated below. No other refunds are possible.

Tuition and fees are refunded as follows:

- 1) Withdrawal or dismissal during the first two weeks of the semester: 80%.
- 2) Withdrawal or dismissal during the first four weeks of the semester: 40%.
- 3) Withdrawal or dismissal during the first six weeks of the semester: 20%.
- 4) After six weeks: no refund.

Room charges will not be refunded if a student withdraws after the start of classes. Board charges will be refunded on a pro rata basis.

Students who think that any fee or refund has been incorrectly computed may appeal to the controller.

Financial Aid

For students unable to finance their education at Hamilton independently, the College furnishes grants, part-time employment and long-term loans. Such financial assistance adds breadth to the student body and attracts individuals of diverse interests and backgrounds.

Hamilton is a member of the College Scholarship Service (CSS) of the College Entrance Examination Board. To assist the College in determining an applicant's need for financial aid, CSS provides a form called PROFILE. Candidates for financial aid should file both the PROFILE and Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to receive full consideration for aid. If additional forms are required, applicants will be so notified.

Students seeking admission to the College are encouraged to file the PROFILE, using estimated data, in the fall or early winter of their senior year in high school. The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), which cannot be submitted until after January 1, should be filed no later than February 1. Be aware that it is necessary to register for the PROFILE service either by phone (1-800-778-6888) or via the Internet (www.collegeboard.org). A Registration Guide may be obtained from guidance offices or most financial aid offices. It is important that the process be completed as soon as possible, and no later than February 1, because late filers will be at a disadvantage in consideration for institutional funds.

Filing the PROFILE and FAFSA in a timely manner will insure a candidate's full consideration for any Hamilton College scholarship or federal awards administered by the College. It is often helpful if photocopies of the PROFILE and FAFSA are submitted to the Financial Aid Office as they are filed. On occasion, processing delays do occur that may jeopardize the timely receipt of applicant information. If the College does not receive a record of your filing by March 1, candidates may not receive full consideration for College-funded assistance.

The PROFILE registration form and FAFSA may also be obtained from local high schools, colleges or universities. For further information, candidates may write to the Office of Financial Aid, Hamilton College, Clinton, NY 13323.

An application for financial aid cannot be considered until the candidate has also applied for admission to the College. The decision to admit an applicant is normally made without regard to the need for financial aid. Consequently, admission in no way guarantees the granting of such aid. Aid normally is awarded for an academic year and credited to College bills, but it may be adjusted at any time if circumstances warrant. Awards are reevaluated each year; therefore, in the spring of each year, students who wish to be considered for the renewal of an award must again file application materials with the Office of Financial Aid.

The amount of financial aid for which a candidate is eligible is established through consideration of income, assets, family size, the number of family members in college and other circumstances that may affect a family's ability to contribute toward education costs.

Types of Aid

A Hamilton student with financial need may benefit from one or several types of assistance: Hamilton College scholarships, loans or jobs; New York State and federal scholarships, grants and loans; and various non-college awards made directly to the individual by private organizations.

Over the years, the College has developed a strong and far-reaching program of scholarship aid. Hamilton College scholarships are supported by endowed funds established through the generosity of alumni and friends, by annual grants and by the College's operating budget.

Merit Scholarship Programs—The William M. Bristol, Jr. '17 Scholarship Program provides scholarships up to $10,000 per year (renewable for four years) to students who have demonstrated the ability to think, write and speak critically, analytically and creatively. The College looks for students with a strong commitment to citizenship and public service. Each year, eight to ten of Hamilton's most outstanding applicants are presented with this merit award, regardless of their financial need.

The Hans H. Schambach '43 Scholarship recognizes approximately ten of the strongest applicants from each entering class by meeting their full financial need, without loans, for four years. Schambach Scholars are chosen for their outstanding personal and academic promise, as well as their potential to make a significant contribution to the life of the College.

National Merit Scholars finalists who list Hamilton as their first choice will receive $2,000 from the College in each of their four years.

To be eligible for any of these scholarships, students must apply and be accepted to Hamilton, be in the top ten percent of their high school classes. Demonstrated leadership and community involvement is also considered. No special applications are required for the Bristol and National Merit Awards; nominations from guidance counselors are welcomed.

General Scholarships—Any Hamilton undergraduate is eligible to apply for a general scholarship. These scholarships are awarded on the basis of personal promise as well as on the degree of financial need.

Grants of this sort are supported by the income from more than 100 endowed scholarship funds, from annual grants and by the general funds of the College.

Awards, depending upon need, range from several hundred dollars to full cost of attendance.

Special Scholarships—To be eligible for these scholarships, a student must have already demonstrated financial need and must meet certain requirements or restrictions set by the donor or the College. For example, Hamilton maintains scholarships for residents of certain geographic areas, for foreign students and for students with special talents in various fields.

Many scholarships are available to matriculating students; others are restricted on the basis of a student's class year. (For details, see "Appendix.")

Prize Scholarships—Prize scholarships are awarded to students who have completed at least one year at Hamilton and demonstrated some achievement while enrolled at the College (e.g., excellence in coursework or campus citizenship).

Because the recipients of prize scholarships must usually be eligible for need-based financial aid, most prize scholars will already be recipients of undesignated scholarships from the College. In bestowing a prize scholarship, Hamilton seeks to honor the recipient by substituting a named or designated scholarship for an undesignated scholarship.

College Loans—The Barrett-Schweitzer Loan Fund was established in 1992 in honor of Edwin B. Barrett, Professor Emeritus of English and Drama, and Albert Schweitzer, the eminent humanitarian. It provides loans not exceeding $2,000 at interest rates of 4 percent per annum to students who have demonstrated academic excellence and are in need of additional financial support.

The Frank Burgess Memorial Fund was established in 1969 under the will of Frank Burgess. Income from the fund is loaned to deserving students in need of financial assistance. According to the terms of the will, before loans are granted, students must agree to begin repayment within two years after graduation or on entering their "life work," and to complete repayment within five years after graduation or on entering their "life work," with interest at 5 percent per annum to begin at graduation or on entering their "life work."

The Joseph Drown Loan Fund was established in 1983 in memory of Joseph Drown, a friend of the College. Loans are available to deserving students at an interest rate 2 percent below the Federal Stafford Loan Program rate. No interest is incurred during in-school periods, and repayment does not begin until after graduation. Candidates from the western part of the United States receive priority consideration.

The Marshall L. Marquardt Loan Fund was established in 1980 under the will of Mary Sloane Marquardt in memory of her husband, Class of 1933. Loans are available to deserving senior-year students, and are repayable at an interest rate of 3 percent within three years after graduation. The interest accrues from the time the student leaves the College.

The Theodore M. Pomeroy Loan Fund was established in 1916 to assist worthy students. Loans granted to seniors are repayable within three years of graduation (interest at 3 percent computed from the time the student leaves college), and by other students before returning to college the following fall with interest at 3 percent charged from the time the loan is made.

The Gregory H. Rosenblum Loan Fund was established in 1989 by Miriam Friedman, daughter of Mr. Rosenblum, Class of 1892, and her family in appreciation for the financial aid he received at the College. Students who demonstrate need in emergency situations may borrow up to $250 in interest-free short-term loans in any one academic year, with repayment to be made within one year of the date that the loan is secured.

The Henry B. Sanson Loan Fund was established in 1978 by Mr. Sanson, Class of 1940. Loans are available to students who demonstrate need. Preference is given to students from Connecticut, or those from other New England states if none from Connecticut qualify. Interest at 5 percent is charged on the loans, which are repayable within ten years of graduation.

The Elmer C. Sherman Loan Fund was established under the will of Ida M. Sherman in memory of her husband, Class of 1882. Loans are available to juniors and seniors who demonstrate need and have maintained high scholastic rank during their previous years at Hamilton. No interest is charged, and the entire loan must be repaid within three years after graduation.

Student Employment—The Federal Work-Study Program and Hamilton's Work-Scholarship Program provide student employment as part of the financial aid package. Other employment possibilities, chiefly odd jobs, exist on campus and in the local community.

Federal and State Scholarships and Grants—A detailed listing of the federal and state financial aid programs available to Hamilton students can be found in the "Appendix."

Campus Buildings and Facilities

In all, Hamilton owns more than 1,300 acres of woodlands, open fields and glens overlooking the Oriskany and Mohawk Valleys of Central New York. Included within the grounds are numerous hiking and cross-country ski trails and many unusual varieties of trees and plants. The Root Glen, gift of Mrs. Edward W. Root in 1971, is remembered by all who have strolled its shale paths.

The Afro-Latin Cultural Center

Founded in 1969, the Afro-Latin Cultural Center provides a place of sodality for Black and Latin students. Open to and used by the entire community, the center sponsors discussions lectures, art shows and similar educational, cultural and social events.

The Anderson-Connell Alumni Center

Originally an inn called Lee's Tavern and the home of the Root family, the Alumni Center is one of the oldest buildings on the Hill. Renovated in 1986, it is named in honor of Joseph F. Anderson, Class of 1944, and in memory of Clancy D. Connell, Class of 1912. It houses the offices of Communications and Development.

The Annex

Built in 2000, the Annex is a large multipurpose facility equipped with satellite television, a data projector, 16-foot screen, dressing rooms and state-of-the-art sound components. Home to student theatre performances, major concerts, comedy shows and banquets, the Annex serves a variety of programming needs.

The Athletic Center

With the construction of the Margaret Bundy Scott Field House in 1978, the Athletic Center was completed, providing Hamilton with some of the finest and most modern indoor sports facilities of any small college in the nation. The Field House is connected with the Russell Sage Hockey Rink, one of the first indoor structures of its kind to be built on a college campus and renovated in 1993, and the Alumni Gymnasium, dedicated in 1940 and renovated in 1978. In addition, the William M. Bristol, Jr. Swimming Pool, dedicated in 1988, serves the instructional and competitive swimming and diving programs of the College (see "Athletic Programs and Facilities").

The Azel Backus House

The only building still extant from the Hamilton-Oneida Academy, it was constructed as a boarding house for the academy's students. In 1812 it became the home of Azel Backus, the first president of the College. Since 1958 the house has contained faculty and staff apartments and has also served as a meeting place for various campus and alumni groups. In 1984 it was renovated to include faculty dining rooms.

The Beinecke Student Activities Village

The Student Activities Village, constructed in 1993 and named for Walter Beinecke, Jr., former chairman of the board of trustees of Kirkland College and a life trustee of Hamilton, links the north and south sides of the campus via Martin's Way, named in honor of J. Martin Caravano, Hamilton's 16th president. The village contains the Mail Center, the Howard Diner and the Fillius Events Barn, as well as lounges, where students and faculty members meet informally outside of the classroom and office.

Benedict Hall

The gift of Henry Harper Benedict, Class of 1869 and one of the pioneers in the manufacturing and marketing of the typewriter, Benedict Hall, which was erected in 1897, houses faculty offices and classrooms.

The Bristol Center

Constructed in 1965, the William McLaren Bristol Center is named for the co-founder of Bristol-Myers Co., a member of the Class of 1882. Facilities include the WHCL studios, student media offices, the College Store, a laundromat, lounges, meeting rooms, offices for student organizations and 12 guest rooms.

Buttrick Hall

Originally built in 1812 as the student dining hall, Buttrick Hall is as old as the College itself. In 1834 it became the home of Horatio Buttrick, then superintendent of the Buildings and Grounds Department as well as registrar. Through Oren Root's marriage to a daughter of Horatio Buttrick, the building became the birthplace of Elihu Root, U.S. secretary of state and recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize. It has served as Hamilton's administrative headquarters since 1926.

The Career Center

Located in a former private residence that was specifically redesigned and renovated for its new purpose in 1986, the Maurice Horowitch Career Center has a recruiting room and two reading rooms containing reference materials. It also comprises offices for counselors who provide assistance to students in developing their post-graduate plans.

The Chapel

Designed by architect Philip Hooker and completed in 1827, the Chapel is thought to be the only remaining example of an early three-story church in America. Restored in 1949 as a World War II memorial, it is the most notable landmark on the Hill and the center of the religious life of the College. It is frequently used for public lectures, concerts and assemblies. The third floor of the Chapel was renovated in 1999 and provides office and meeting space for campus chaplaincy and the Program in Public Discourse.

Couper Hall

Constructed in 1889 and rededicated in 1992 in honor and memory of Edgar W. Couper, Class of 1920 and former chancellor of the University of the State of New York, Couper Hall was originally the College YMCA building. It contains classrooms and offices of the Classics Department as well as the Women's Studies program.

Dining Halls

Hamilton has two dining halls: the recently renovated Soper Commons, the gift of Alexander Soper, Class of 1867, and his brothers Arthur and James; and McEwen Dining Hall.

The Health Center

The Thomas Brown Rudd Health Center, named for the College's 13th president, was completed in 1959, and an addition was constructed in 1972. The building houses the Student Health Services and contains fully equipped examination and treatment rooms. The center also houses the College's Counseling and Psychological Services.

Christian A. Johnson Hall

The former College library (1914-1972) was renovated and rededicated as Christian A. Johnson Hall in 1982. It houses the Emerson Gallery (comprising formal art exhibition and workshop areas), the language and speech laboratory and the College's media library. It also contains classrooms and faculty offices for the Critical Languages and the East Asian Languages programs, the departments of Computer Science, German and Russian Languages, Mathematics and Romance Languages, as well as the Quantitative Literacy Center.

Kirkland Cottage

The oldest building on campus, Kirkland Cottage was first constructed in 1792 as the home of Samuel Kirkland, the founder of Hamilton College. In 1925 it was moved from the foot of College Hill to its present site and later restored. The cottage is used by the senior honorary society, Pentagon, for its meetings, and for the matriculation of the first-year class.

Kirner-Johnson Buildings

These connecting buildings are used extensively for academic, administrative and extracurricular purposes. The Kirner Building, named in honor of Juvanta H. and Walter R. Kirner, houses the offices of the dean of the faculty, the dean of students, the registrar, the Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP), multicultural affairs, the departments of Anthropology, History and Sociology, the program in Africana Studies and the Nesbitt-Johnston Writing Center. In addition to several classrooms, it also contains two auditoriums. Within the adjacent Johnson Building, named for Virgil E. Johnson, are the departments of Economics and Government and the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center.

The Library

Construction of the Daniel Burke Library was completed in 1972. Named for a member of the Class of 1893 who was for many years chairman of the board of trustees, this modern facility provides Hamilton with one of the finest small college libraries in the nation. The Computer Center is housed in the basement of the library (see "Information Technology Services" under "Academic Programs and Services").

List Art Center

The Vera G. and Albert A. List Art Center, a multipurpose building for the visual and performing arts, has studios and workshops for ceramics, graphics, sculpture, metals, painting and photography; a rehearsal hall, teaching studios, an electronic studio and practice rooms for music; a dance studio; exhibition areas; projection and recording facilities; classrooms; and offices for the departments of Art, and Theatre and Dance.

The Little Pub

Located adjacent to the Beinecke Student Activities Village, The Little Pub opened its doors in the spring of 1996. The restored horse stable/carriage barn contains a game room, bar, dance floor, fireplace room and other spaces for informal social gatherings.

McEwen Hall

Named for Robert Ward McEwen, 14th president of Hamilton College, McEwen Hall houses dining facilities, the Café Opus coffeehouse, a cinema lab, classrooms, music practice rooms and offices for faculty members.

Minor Theater

Originally Hamilton's first library (1872-1914), and later the College infirmary, it was converted to a theatre in 1962 through the generosity of Clark H. Minor, Class of 1902 and a former chairman of the board of trustees. It is now used for student productions and College-sponsored work in drama.

Observatory

Made possible through a gift from Elihu Root III, Class of 1936, the Observatory houses an 11¹/₄" Maksutov telescope. Several smaller telescopes are also in use. In 1977, a building was constructed next to the observatory to provide work space for students enrolled in astronomy courses. This structure is heated by solar energy and is designed to permit experiments in this field. The observatory is off College Hill Road on Peters Lane, a quarter-mile from the campus.

Residence Halls

Hamilton believes the opportunities for educational and personal growth are best served when all students are in residence together. Toward that end, 95 percent of our students live in the 23 residence halls on campus, and first-year students are housed in clusters in several of those halls. As students grow and develop at the College, they have an opportunity to live more independently in small houses and apartments.

Resident advisors live in each hall, with an average ratio of one resident advisor for every 30 students. Working closely with the Office of Residential Life, resident advisors are responsible for advising students in their areas, developing educational and social programs, and handling limit-setting and administrative responsibilities within their buildings.

The College tries to provide its students with as many different housing options as possible. For example, even though all residence halls are coeducational, some floors are single-sex while others are coed. Dunham, Kirkland and North contain rooms ranging from singles to quads, and Carnegie and South, contain doubles and quads. All offer lounges, recreation areas, and kitchenettes. Babbitt and Milbank residence halls comprise six-person suites with kitchens and lounges. Keehn, Major, McIntosh, Minor and Root contain singles and doubles, kitchenettes and large lounges. The Bundy residence quadrangle consists of large singles and doubles. Keehn offers a cooperative living arrangement, and one floor in Major is designated as the “quiet hall,” where students abide by a 23-hour-a-day quiet policy. In addition, Root and DKE are designated as “substance free” halls; North, Minor, Eells and sections of Dunham, Bundy West and South are the “smoke-free” residences.

Other housing options for primarily juniors and seniors include the Griffin Road and Farmhouse apartments, Wallace Johnson House, Saunders House, Rogers Estate, Ferguson House, the DKE House, Woollcott House and the recently renovated Eells Hall.

Root Hall

Given in 1897 by Elihu Root, Class of 1864, in memory of his father, Oren, professor of mathematics, the building was originally the Hall of Science. It now houses classrooms and faculty offices for the departments of Comparative Literature, English, and Rhetoric and Communication.

The Elihu Root House

Constructed in 1817 for Theodore Strong, Hamilton's first professor of mathematics, the structure has served as the home of presidents as well as faculty members of the College. The house was extensively remodeled after it was purchased by Elihu Root as a summer home in 1893, and was occupied after 1937 by his daughter, Edith Root Grant, and her husband, Ulysses S. Grant III, grandson of the president. A National Historic Landmark, it was acquired by the College in 1979 and now houses the Admission and Financial Aid offices.

Saunders Hall of Chemistry

Rebuilt and enlarged in 1930, the Hall of Chemistry was again renovated in 1978 and renamed in honor of Arthur Percy Saunders, longtime professor of chemistry and former dean of the College. It houses an auditorium, classrooms, offices and several laboratories, including the Bristol-Myers Laboratory.

The Schambach Center

Completed in 1988, the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts houses the Music Department, its classrooms, studios, practice rooms and library. The center also contains the 700-seat Carol Woodhouse Wellin Performance Hall, an appropriate setting for the talents of student artists as well as internationally recognized artists in music and dance who regularly visit Hamilton.

The Science Building

The Science Building, built in 1925, expanded in 1965 with the addition of the Dana Wing, and frequently renovated in recent years, contains the offices and laboratories of the Biology, Geology, Physics and Psychology departments, as well as two auditoriums. It also houses the Oren Root Mineralogy Collection, assembled circa 1850 by Mr. Root and now consisting of many specimens of fossils, rocks and minerals.

Student Life

The Division of Student Life is primarily concerned with the quality of learning for students outside of the formal classroom setting. The services within the division support and augment the educational purposes and goals outlined in the College Catalogue. Hamilton recognizes that students develop intellectually and socially while participating as active members of a residential community. The College therefore has a responsibility to integrate the goals of a liberal arts education into its residential programs. Students are challenged to understand values and lifestyles different from their own, to relate meaningfully with one another, to develop the capacity to appreciate cultural and aesthetic differences and to accept responsibility for the consequences of their actions.

Student Services

The Division of Student Life is concerned with the total development of the student. Emphasis within the various student services is placed on both challenging and supporting students' growth and development as they strive to achieve their potential. The following service areas are included within the division:

Academic Services—The associate dean of students for academic affairs provides support for Hamilton's program of academic advising of first- and second-year students, administers academic regulations and serves as the dean of student's designee for matters brought to the Honor Court. The associate dean coordinates the work of the faculty Committee on Academic Standing.

The coordinator of study abroad programs works with students who are exploring options for study at other foreign or domestic institutions or programs.

Campus Safety—The Department of Campus Safety strives to provide a reasonably secure and safe environment for all who work and study at the College and to protect College property. Campus safety is dependent upon the cooperation and active participation of all members of the community in reducing crime and creating a safe environment. All campus safety personnel are trained in fire and crime prevention, basic first aid and CPR, College policy enforcement and how to respond to a variety of requests for assistance typically associated with the college environment. In addition, the director serves as a liaison with both local and state law enforcement and fire protection agencies. Campus safety provides information to members of the community on a variety of personal safety concerns through educational programs and publications.

Career Center—Career decision-making represents one of the most important developmental tasks for most students at Hamilton. The decision to begin graduate or professional study or to enter the work world involves a complex challenge to the student's intellectual, emotional and social growth. Career Center programming and services are designed to assist students in identifying their own achievements, values, skills and interests; to help them to understand and appreciate the diversity of the world of work; to aid in acquiring the skills necessary to enter that work world; and to manage their careers over their entire life spans.

Chaplaincy—The chaplaincy addresses "the culture of the heart," drawing students and other members of the community into the conversation around life's great questions: "Where did we come from? Why are we here? Where are we going?" At the center of the chaplaincy is the Chapel Board, composed of the three Hamilton chaplains (Protestant, Catholic and Jewish) and representatives from religious communities on campus. Currently Chapel Board is made up of the following groups: Christian Fellowship, Community Church (Protestant), Gospel Choir, Hillel (Jewish), Islamic Association, Newman Community (Catholic), Orthodox Christian Group, Sitting Group (Zen Buddhist and other meditative traditions) and representatives of other faith traditions on campus. Chapel Board helps the chaplaincy move toward three goals: 1) promote awareness of religious life on campus, 2) provide support and encouragement to religious groups and traditions who make up Chapel Board and 3) offer opportunities for multifaith experiences.

The chaplaincy exists to encourage all forms of religious life and community which find expression at Hamilton College, including worship services, religious music, observance of holy days, experiences of prayer and spirituality and discussion or speaker events on religious or ethical topics. Chaplains are available for counseling with all members of the Hamilton community.

The chaplaincy also supports volunteering for community service. This happens within various religious communities but also in a concentrated way through HAVOC (Hamilton Action Volunteer Outreach Coalition). This student-run organization, advised by the chaplaincy, offers about 20 weekly service projects, including Habitat for Humanity, Best Buddies, Big Brother/Big Sister, Literacy Volunteers of America, working with the elderly, AIDS Community Resources, the Rescue Mission soup kitchen and half a dozen tutoring opportunities. HAVOC also offers service trips over spring break and monthly campus-wide projects to raise funds and awareness for social justice/community service issues.

Counseling and Psychological Services—Students experience developmental and psychological growth as well as difficult situations during their college years. Confidential discussions with counselors can be helpful in the process of making decisions, solving or managing problems, adjusting to a new environment or learning more deeply about oneself. Counseling sessions are intended to result in a more thorough understanding of issues and problems and a clear conceptualization of future actions. The professional staff of three consists of psychologists and counselors who specialize in concerns of college students. All services are strictly confidential and free of charge to Hamilton students. The office is located on the second floor of the Thomas Brown Rudd Health Center accessed via the north entrance. Appointments are available during the week between 9 a.m.-5 p.m. If the need is urgent, arrangements will be made after hours.

Health Services—The personnel and programs of the Thomas Brown Rudd Health Center are dedicated to encouraging and maintaining the well-being and safety of students. The delivery of direct patient care values respect for the individual. Assessment and treatment of illness, consultation, referral and emergency care are provided. Healthy choices and behaviors are promoted through education on issues and lifestyles specific to the college-age population.

The clinic is open weekdays 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. (Wednesdays 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m.), when the College is in session. After-hours emergency care is provided through contacts with local urgent care and emergency departments. A trained student Emergency Medical Team is on call to respond to accidents, acute on-site illnesses and injuries.

The service is free. Charges may be incurred for laboratory tests, x-rays and medications.

Multicultural Affairs—The assistant dean of students provides leadership for the development of educational, cultural and social programs that enhance intercultural understanding and foster a campus climate that celebrates and respects the uniqueness of all its members. The term “multicultural” is meant to include not only students from diverse racial, cultural and ethnic backgrounds, but also students of different genders, sexual orientations and socioeconomic classes. The dean serves as an advocate for students from diverse racial, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and sexual orientations, and works cooperatively with admissions, faculty members, administrators and students to build and strengthen support networks and to increase and retain representation of historically under-represented groups.

Faculty members and administrators advise the Asian Cultural Society, Black and Latin Student Union, Islamic Association, La Vanguardia, Middle East Union, Native American Studies and Students’ Association, Rainbow Alliance and the Womyn’s

Community Center. Through leadership development and workshops, these organizations work to provide the campus with outstanding educational, awareness, cultural and social events throughout the academic year.

Residential Life—The Office of Residential Life strives to promote and maintain a residential community conducive to intellectual and personal growth, where students can sleep, study and share ideas with peers whose culture, lifestyle and opinions may be different from their own.

The professional staff in residential life includes the director, assistant director and two live-in area coordinators who are responsible for the management of the 23 residential facilities and the supervision of the paraprofessional staff members who live and work within them.

The paraprofessional staff includes a total of 57 resident advisors and one residential manager. The resident advisors are upperclass students who are trained as counselors, limit-setters, program developers and resource persons, who provide valuable leadership within the residential community. The residential manager is also an upperclass student who works in the Farmhouse apartment facility on campus in an administrative role as a liaison to the Office of Residential Life and the Physical Plant.

Services for Students with Disabilities —Hamilton College is committed to providing equal opportunity and access to qualified students with physical, mental or learning disabilities. Although the College does not have a specialized program for students with disabilities, the Dean of Students Office will coordinate individualized accommodations and support services for any student who needs them. In addition, support services such as the Reading/Writing Center, the Study Skills Center and the Quantitative Literacy Center are available to all students.

Students seeking special arrangements due to a disability should provide the dean with a recent evaluation conducted by a specialist in the appropriate field. It should include a diagnosis of a disabling condition and recommend accommodations. Using this information, in consultation with the student, his or her professors and, if necessary, other qualified experts, the dean will help the student to develop a system of support services that are appropriate to the student's needs. Requests for special arrangements should be made well in advance of the time they will be needed. Questions about services may be directed to the Dean of Students Office at 859-4022.

Student Activities—There are numerous opportunities for student development, involvement and leadership in co-curricular activities at Hamilton. Altogether, there are more than 70 clubs and organizations, and students can choose to become involved in community service, cultural, musical, athletic, social, recreational or religious activities, or co-curricular activities related to an academic interest. A Fall Festival is held the second weekend of the fall semester to introduce students to the variety of options available to them.

The director of student activities advises student organizations, including private societies, and supervises the Beinecke Student Activities Village and the Bristol Center. Facilities in the Bristol Center include the College Store, radio station WHCL-88.7 FM, student organization offices, meeting and conference rooms, and 12 guest rooms. The Beinecke Village includes the Howard Diner, the Fillius Events Barn, the multipurpose Annex, the Mail Center, an automatic teller machine (ATM) and a variety of lounges.

The Campus Activities Board (CAB). A student-run organization, CAB is responsible for the bulk of social programming on campus. Each semester CAB brings a variety of fun-filled events to Hamilton, including comedians, bands, novelty acts and acoustic coffehouse performers.

The Student Assembly. The functions of student government at Hamilton are vested in the Student Assembly. The Student Assembly is composed of three branches: the coordinating branch (Central Council); the judicial branch (Honor Court and Judicial Board); and the lobbying branch (Community Council and Academic Chamber). The Student Assembly Funding Committee allocates funds to more than 50 student organizations.

Student Clubs and Organizations. Descriptions of a sampling of student organizations follow. See On the Hill, the on-line student handbook, for a complete listing of student clubs and organizations.

The Black and Latin Student Union was founded by students in 1968 to broaden the awareness and appreciation of Black and Latin cultures. Its goal is to help preserve the cultural identities of Black and Latin students at Hamilton. La Vanguardia was established in 1984 to complement the growing diversity within the Latino community. The Asian Cultural Society was established in 1987 to promote Asian culture, further enriching the multicultural life of the community.

Departmental clubs provide common ground for students interested in a particular field of study. The clubs sponsor discussions, lectures, presentations of papers and similar events. Such groups are sponsored by the Geology, German and Russian Languages, Philosophy and Romance Languages departments.

The International Student Association is composed of international and U.S. students and regularly sponsors cultural programs and social events.

The Outing Club organizes and conducts hiking and camping trips, winter mountaineering, rock climbing and Nordic skiing. Club membership allows individuals to borrow outdoor equipment including tents, sleeping bags, backpacks, stoves, cookware, canoes and cross-country skis.

The Root-Jessup Public Affairs Council is an undergraduate organization with student officers and a faculty advisor, whose purpose is to stimulate student discussion of current national and international issues. The council is named for the distinguished diplomats Elihu Root, Class of 1864, and Philip C. Jessup, Class of 1918.

The Womyn's Community Center was founded in order to provide a focus for the concerns of women at Hamilton. It operates a resource center and sponsors programs open to all members of the College community. The Rainbow Alliance addresses social and political concerns associated with sexual orientation.

There are eight national fraternities and three local sororities recognized by the College. The fraternities are Chi Psi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Delta Phi, Delta Upsilon, Psi Upsilon, Sigma Phi, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Theta Delta Chi. The sororities are Alpha Theta Chi, Gamma Xi and Kappa Delta Omega.

Student Media Board. Consisting of students, faculty members and administrators, but always having a student majority and chair, the Student Media Board oversees all Hamilton student publications. It approves the budget for each publication, elects editors, and reviews and adjudicates editorial problems and disputes. The newspaper, yearbook, literary magazine, several smaller publications, and the radio and television stations are all operated and managed completely by students.

Campus Cultural Life

Art

The Emerson Gallery (located in Christian A. Johnson Hall) offers Hamilton students a lively and diverse program of art exhibitions and related events, including gallery talks, lectures, workshops, performances and films. Each year the gallery presents the best in contemporary art as well as exhibitions drawn from many cultures and historical periods.

The gallery also regularly exhibits works from the permanent collection which is strong in American and British works on paper and also includes paintings and sculpture, collections of Greek vases, Roman glass and Native American objects. The Walter Beinecke, Jr. Collection includes prints, drawings and paintings related to the history of the Lesser Antilles. The permanent collection is made available for student research and study.

Student work opportunities at the Emerson Gallery (there are both paid and volunteer positions available) provide valuable experience for students interested in careers in museum work and arts administration.

Dance

As part of the Department of Theatre and Dance, the dance program produces one major concert in the spring and participates with the Music Department in a concert for Family Weekend in the fall. In addition, the department presents student-choreographed works, usually as part of composition and choreography courses, and as part of the senior projects. Auditions are announced in dance classes each semester. For information about dance at Hamilton, call 859-4057.

Student-run dance organizations, including the Student Dance Alliance and the Dance Team, offer workshops and occasional performances. Membership is open through the group's current membership.

Film

Three student-run film societies provide film entertainment on campus nearly every weekend that the College is in session. The Foreign and Fine Film Society presents foreign, classic and fine art films; the Classic Film Society offers the opportunity to see classic films on the big screen with a discussion often led by a faculty member prior to or following the film; the Samuel Kirkland Film Society offers current motion pictures as well as musicals.

Music

In addition to the professional performing arts series, there are performances by faculty members and student ensembles, as well as numerous student recitals. The Department of Music also sponsors master classes by visiting artists and lectures on musical subjects by prominent scholars.

Other concerts on campus are offered by the Campus Activities Board. The Office of Multicultural Affairs also sponsors concerts from time to time.

The College Choir, founded in 1867, carries forward a long tradition of choral excellence. In addition to several concerts on campus and in neighboring communities, the choir undertakes an annual concert tour during the spring recess. These tours have ranged from Boston to Chicago and Montreal to Savannah. In addition, the choir has toured Europe seven times. Auditions are held during Orientation in the fall.

The College Orchestra was founded in 1970. In recent years it has performed symphonies by Beethoven, Mozart and Schubert, as well as works by Brahms, Schumann, Berlioz, Wagner, Copland and Ives. The orchestra has also commissioned works by composers from around the world. Student soloists, chosen by annual competition, also regularly perform concertos or arias with the orchestra. In recent years the orchestra has undertaken two tours, one in this country, the other in Europe. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The College Hill Singers provides an opportunity for talented singers to participate in a variety of solo vocal ensembles. Repertoire is drawn from all periods of music history. Membership is limited to members of the College Choir.

The College and Community Oratorio Society, founded in 1975, performs major works with orchestra each semester. The society is open to any member of the community, without audition. Interested singers may join by attending the first rehearsal of the term.

The Brass Choir, founded in 1959, performs numerous times during the year, providing music for various College functions as well as giving concerts off campus. Its repertory ranges from Josquin and Gabrieli to Hindemith and Dahl. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The Woodwind Ensembles, founded in 1961, afford an opportunity for the study and performance of music for various combinations of wind instruments. They have performed works by Ibert, Mozart, Fine and Richard Strauss. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The Jazz Ensemble was founded in 1981 for the study and performance of a variety of jazz styles. It also provides opportunities for students to study improvisation within a large ensemble context. The ensemble performs several concerts on campus each year, and recently presented concerts throughout New England. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The Buffers, Special K, the Hamiltones and Tumbling After are Hamilton's a cappella performance groups. All male, all female or coeducational, each group draws from varied repertoires ranging from traditional barbershop quartet melodies to contemporary music, and each mixes musical skill with humor to entertain audiences both at Hamilton and on tour. Auditions are held by announcement.

Vocal and instrumental instruction is available for those wishing to study music in the classic tradition. Most instruction on orchestral instruments is offered by members of the Syracuse Symphony or the Catskill Symphony. A fee is charged for such instruction, but students receiving financial aid may obtain assistance in meeting the cost. Inquiries should be addressed to the Music Department.

Instruments of various sorts are available for student use. The Music Department also maintains a well-equipped studio for electronic music that surpasses such facilities at many larger colleges and universities.

The department also houses a Jazz Archive that includes more than 180 interviews with great jazz artists and several vintage jazz recordings. The Jazz Archive has also sponsored residencies by such artists as Milt Hinton, Byron Stripling, Joe Wilder, Clark Terry, Bobby Watson and Jane Ira Bloom.

Theatre

As part of the Department of Theatre and Dance, the theatre program produces two to three major theatrical productions each year in historic Minor Theater. In addition, the department regularly produces student-directed shows, usually as part of the senior projects. Auditions for theatre program productions are open to all students and are held early each semester. Audition notices are posted on campus and on email. Technical and managerial positions are also available. For information about theatre at Hamilton, call 859-4057.

The student-run theatrical group, Untitled-at-Large, produces one to two musicals each year. Audition notices are posted on campus.

Performing Arts

Hamilton sponsors two professional performing arts series: Classical Connections and Contemporary Voices and Visions. Last season's performers included Marian McPartland, Michael Brecker, le Percussions de Strasbourg, American Ballet Theatre 2, the Pacifica Quartet and others. Performing artists for the 2001-02 season include Dianne Reeves, Tim Miller, Syracuse Symphony, Chatham Baroque, H.T. Chen and Dancers and others.

Lectures and Performances

Numerous lectures and live performances are provided during the year for the Hamilton community from the income of endowments established for those purposes and augmented by general College funds.

The Lee H. Bristol Endowment for the Performing Arts was established in memory of Lee H. Bristol, Jr., Class of 1945, to bring performing artists to the College.

The William M. Bristol, Jr. Distinguished Visitors Program, established through the bequest of William M. Bristol, Jr., Class of 1917, supports lectures, performances and other special events held in connection with several-day visits by high-profile experts in various fields.

The Richard P. Butrick Lecture Fund was established by the Honorable Richard P. Butrick, a retired diplomat, to support an annual lecture or lectures.

The Class of 1940 Cultural Endowment was established on the occasion of the 50th Reunion of the Class of 1940 to support a major cultural event to be held annually at the College, preferably in the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts.

The Class of 1949 Performance and Lecture Fund was established on the occasion of the 40th Reunion of the Class of 1949 to support major performances or lectures to be held in the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts.

The Continental Group American Economy Lecture Series was established in 1980 by the Continental Can Company to provide lectures dealing with the American economy in conjunction with the Public Policy Program.

The David Maldwyn Ellis Lecture Fund was established by Robert B. Carson, Class of 1956, in honor of David Maldwyn Ellis, Class of 1938 and professor emeritus of history, to support lectures on the topics of American history or American institutions.

The Great Names at Hamilton Lecture and Performance Fund was established to support one or more annual lectures or performances by individuals of national or international renown in any field.

The Ralph E. and Doris M. Hansmann Lecture Series was established in 1993 in honor of Mr. Hansmann, Class of 1940, and his wife, to support annual lectures in any field. Fields are designated on a three-year rotating basis.

The Terry Herrick Memorial Fund for Industrial Relations Study was established in 1981 by alumni and friends in memory of Horace Terhune Herrick, Jr., Class of 1942, to support lectures on subjects relating to labor, management and productivity.

The Victor S. Johnson Family Lecture Fund was established in 1987 to bring to the campus alumni, public figures, scholars and others who have distinguished themselves in their respective careers and are recognized leaders in their fields, to address a significant aspect of American life and thought.

The Edwin B. Lee Lecture Fund in Asian Studies was established in 1990 by former students and friends of Professor Lee to bring to the College each year a distinguished lecturer in the field of Asian Studies.

The Arthur Levitt Endowment Fund was established by Arthur Levitt, Jr., father of Lauri Levitt Friedland, Class of 1981, in memory of Mr. Levitt's father, Arthur Levitt, Sr., to support lectures and other activities coordinated through the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center.

The Helen B. Longshore Memorial Endowment was established by Helen B. Longshore, a friend of the College, to support the College's music programs and activities.

The John Ripley Myers Lecture Fund was established in 1912 by Mary H. Myers in memory of her son, John Ripley Myers, Class of 1887, to support annual lectures in areas not covered by the curriculum.

The James S. Plant Distinguished Scientist Lecture Series was established in 1987 through a bequest from Dr. Plant, Class of 1912 and an eminent child psychiatrist, to bring to the campus outstanding scientists as guest lecturers.

The James T. and Laura C. Rhind Fund was established to bring to the campus fine arts performances or exhibitions with merit, with preference for the field of music.

The William Roehrick Emerson Gallery Lecture Fund was established in 1988 in honor of William G. Roehrick, Class of 1934, to support annual lectures by distinguished scholars in the fine arts.

The Root-Jessup Lecture Series, sponsored by the Root-Jessup Public Affairs Council, brings public figures to the campus to speak on issues of current nationwide interest.

The Sacerdote Family Lecture and Performance Fund was established by Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Sacerdote, along with their son Alexander Sacerdote, Class of 1994, to support one or more Sacerdote Great Names Series at Hamilton programs each year. Annual lectures or performances will be given by individuals of national or international renown in any field.

The Reverend Alexander Thompson Memorial Lecture Fund was established through a bequest from Luranah H. Thompson in memory of her husband, the Reverend Alexander Thompson, Class of 1906, to support an annual lecture.

The Winton Tolles Lecture Series was established in 1991 by members of the Class of 1951 in memory of Winton Tolles, Class of 1928 and dean of the College from 1947 to 1972. It brings to the campus distinguished writers in the fields of literature, journalism and theatre to lecture and meet with students.

The Chauncey S. Truax Memorial Fund was established in 1956 by R. Hawley Truax, Class of 1909, in memory of his father, Chauncey S. Truax, Class of 1875, to bring to the College distinguished guest lecturers and visiting scholars in the field of philosophy.

The Arthur Coleman Tuggle Lecture Fund was established by Clyde C. Tuggle, Class of 1984, in memory of his father. Speakers are brought to Hamilton under this program to address current ethical issues.

The Winslow Lecture Fund was established through a bequest from William Copley Winslow, Class of 1862, to support lectures on classical archaeology.

The Frank H. Wood Memorial Lecture Fund was established by alumni and friends in memory of Frank Hoyt Wood for many years a professor of political science at Hamilton, to support lectures in history, political science or matters of current general interest.

Athletic Programs and Facilities

Athletic Facilities

Hamilton has a tradition of continually expanding and improving its athletic facilities.

The Margaret Bundy Scott Field House, a 55,000-square-foot multipurpose athletic structure, houses three regulation-size basketball courts and can seat 2,000 spectators. Removable wood parquet flooring is installed for varsity basketball games. The facility also features a six-lane, 200-meter urethane running track and indoor courts for tennis and volleyball. The surface can also accommodate practices for outdoor varsity sports during inclement weather. Two racquetball and three squash courts are located outside the building's lobby area.

Connecting with the Field House are several additional facilities, including the Alumni Gymnasium containing a basketball court, four squash courts and a weight room; the Russell Sage Hockey Rink, the nation's oldest college indoor hockey facility renovated in 1993; and the William M. Bristol, Jr. Swimming Pool completed in 1988. An eight-lane "stretch" pool with a movable bulkhead permitting division into a diving area and a swimming area, it frequently serves as the host site for regional competitions. The Ade Fitness Center opened in 1993 and features state-of-the-art workout equipment, including elliptical trainers, stair machines, rowing machines, bicycles, treadmills and Cybex machines. The fitness center provides high-quality exercise opportunities for all members of the Hamilton community.

Adjacent to the Athletic Center are the 10 newly refurbished Gray Tennis Courts; the Royce Baseball Field, featuring new dugouts and improved bullpen areas; the recently renovated softball field; and Steuben Field, the 2,500-seat football stadium. Directly behind the stadium is the William D. Love Field, which also comprises the newly resurfaced 400-meter Walter H. Pritchard Track. Love Field, resodded in 2000, hosts soccer action. The newest of the Hamilton playing fields is an all-weather field built in 2000. Located adjacent to campus, it is the new home of field hockey and men's and women's lacrosse.

The Tompkins Golf Course is a nine-hole, 2,761-yard, par 35 course immediately adjacent to campus. There is no admission charged to students, who also use the course during the winter months for cross country skiing.

A gift from the Class of 1996, the High Ropes Course located in the Kirkland Glen, contains more than a half dozen high ropes challenges. The course is open to all members of the Hamilton community and is administered by the College's full-time adventure program coordinator. A series of high ropes initiatives are also located in the Field House.

Athletic Policy

The primary emphasis of the athletic program at Hamilton College is upon the educational value of athletics rather than upon athletics as a public entertainment or as a source of financial income. The College, through its Physical Education Department, provides a four-fold program in athletics: recreational play, instruction in physical education, intramural competition and intercollegiate programs. Hamilton thereby continues its long tradition of encouraging not only the acquisition of knowledge but also the enjoyment of physical activity and the attainment of skills that will provide life-long satisfaction.

Physical Education (See "Courses of Instruction.")

Intramural Activities

The intramural program offers opportunities for participation in a wide variety of sports conducted under the supervision of the Intramural Council and a departmental advisor. The program is especially designed to encourage participation by students who enjoy competition but whose skills or interests are not of intercollegiate calibre.

Intercollegiate Athletics

The College is committed to a representative intercollegiate program. It is also committed to seeking fine student-athletes who value and respect the fundamental educational goals of the College.

The College sponsors men's varsity teams in baseball, basketball, crew, cross country, football, golf, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, squash, swimming, tennis and track (winter/spring); and women's varsity teams in basketball, crew, cross country, field hockey, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, softball, squash, swimming, tennis, track (winter/spring) and volleyball.

Hamilton is a member of the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC), the Upstate Collegiate Athletic Association (UCAA), the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), the New York State Women's Collegiate Athletic Association (NYSWCAA) and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). The other members of NESCAC are Amherst, Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, Connecticut College, Middlebury, Trinity, Tufts, Wesleyan and Williams. The other members of the UCAA are Clarkson, Hobart/William Smith, Rensselaer, Rochester, Skidmore, St. Lawrence, Union and Vassar. Conferences balance athletic involvement with high academic standards.

Club Sports

The Physical Education Department supports the following club programs: the Bicycle Co-op, dance, fencing, martial arts, men's and women's rugby, sailing, ski racing, ultimate frisbee, men's volleyball and water polo.

Courses of Instruction

For each course, the numbering indicates its general level and the term in which it is offered. Courses numbered in the 100s are introductory in material and/or approach. Courses numbered in the 200s and 300s are intermediate and advanced in approach respectively. Courses numbered in the 400s are most advanced.

To assure the maximum effectiveness in teaching, all courses have enrollment limits. Some courses have enrollment limits because of limited laboratory or studio space. Others have limits to enable instructors to incorporate additional papers and examinations, small group discussions or special projects. A writing-intensive course, for example, is normally limited to 20 students, and a seminar is normally limited to 12. Enrollment limits mean that a student might not always be able to take a course that he or she wishes to take. Unless otherwise indicated, all courses at Hamilton are limited to 40 students.

The term in which the course will be offered is indicated by the letter immediately following the course number: F for fall semester, and S for spring semester. F,S designates a course offered in both fall and spring semesters. Su designates a course comprising a summer field trip.

Courses with bracketed numbers will not be offered during 2001-02. In most cases, the description indicates the next date the course will be offered.

A single three-digit number preceding a course description indicates that the course may be elected for a single term. Most offerings are of this type. Two three-digit numbers separated by a hyphen indicate that normally the course will be elected for two terms. For such courses, a student may not enter the second term without having taken the first, unless otherwise indicated.

A course designated as open to a certain class (e.g., "Open to sophomores") is also open to all higher classes. A course with no statement concerning class eligibility is open to all students.

Unless otherwise stated, all courses meet for three 50-minute or two 75-minute class periods each week.

In the list of faculty members for each department, the letters (F,S) following a name indicate terms of leave or off-campus teaching.

The Africana Studies Program offers interdisciplinary study of the history, culture and politics of people of African descent. It focuses on four geographic areas: Africa, the Caribbean, Latin America and the United States. The program aims to develop students' critical and analytical skills and to promote scholarship within the Africana field of study.

A concentration in the Africana Studies Program consists of nine courses: Africana Studies 101, a 400-level seminar taken in the senior year, 550 and six approved electives in Africana Studies. No more than three electives may be chosen from either the social and historical sciences or the arts and humanities. At least three must be above the 200-level. Concentrators are encouraged to have a basic working knowledge of an appropriate language other than English. The program will accept study abroad and/or coursework in overseas programs toward the concentration with the approval of the program director. Before electing a concentration in the Africana Studies Program, students must meet with the director to design a program of study, planning in advance so that they will be able to complete prerequisites for courses counting toward the concentration. Students must submit a concentration proposal to the Africana Studies Program Committee (which consists of the director and at least one other faculty member), explaining the relations between the areas to be studied. Concentrators in Africana Studies are strongly advised to select a minor in a single discipline.

The Senior Program in Africana Studies (550) is an interdisciplinary project culminating in a thesis, performance or exhibition. The project, which must be approved by the committee, is to be supervised by two faculty members, one of whom must be a member of the Africana Studies Program. Students who have an average of 88 or higher in the concentration may receive honors through distinguished work in 550. A complete description of the Senior Program is available from the program director.

A minor in Africana Studies must include 101 and four electives in Africana Studies displaying a balance between the social and historical sciences and the arts and humanities, and two of which must be above the 200-level.

101F Introduction to Africana Studies. Examination of the nature, methods and development of Africana/Black Studies. An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of African and diaspora cultures and history. Survey of pre-colonial African societies from pharaonic Egypt to the Mandinka expansions of Samori-Toure. Critical discussion of indigenous factors affecting cultural development and the dynamics of outside influences, such as the Atlantic Slave Trade, the spread of Islam and Christianity, and decolonization, on the continent and in diaspora. Haley.

The American Studies Program offers students an opportunity to study American civilization from a variety of perspectives and through the methodologies of different intellectual disciplines. Specialized studies in all fields of learning dealing with the United States are included in the program, and the impact of these studies is reflected in the work of the American Studies introductory course (201), the American Studies Seminar (380) and the Senior Project (550).

Students work closely with faculty members in developing an individualized plan of study that brings at least two disciplinary perspectives to bear on a major topic in American culture. The concentration consists of 11 courses comprising a program approved by the American Studies Committee. It includes 201, taken in the sophomore or junior year, followed by 380, which concentrators may take during their junior or senior year. All concentrators must also complete 550, the Senior Project, an interdisciplinary exploration of a major theme in American civilization.

Students who have earned a B+ (88) average in the concentration may receive honors in American Studies through distinguished work on the Senior Project.

201S Introduction to American Studies. An interdisciplinary approach to the study of civilization in the United States. Emphasis on recurring historical themes in our national culture such as the frontier, domesticity, the self-made man, immigration and war. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 100-level History course or English 150. (Same as History 201.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Bass.

380F Seminar in American Studies. Topic for 2001-02: Education and Immigration. Emphasis on the effects of immigration and public education on U.S. society, and on past and current efforts to regulate those effects. Readings in history, literature, and sociology, as well as attention to film and American popular music. Prerequisite, 201 or consent of instructor. (Same as History 380.) Maximum enrollment, 12. Kodat.

550S Senior Project Seminar. A course limited to senior concentrators, in which students will complete an original interdisciplinary thesis in American Studies under the supervision of the instructor. Isserman.

The American Studies courses assume a general familiarity with American history and literature. Concentrators are expected to take at least three courses in literature and two in history. The American Studies Committee strongly urges concentrators to choose options from the courses listed below. For complete information about each, including prerequisites, enrollment limits and when a course is offered, consult the full descriptions under the appropriate departments and programs.

The department offers two tracks within the concentration of Anthropology: Cultural Anthropology and Archaeology. A student must choose one of these two tracks.

Cultural Anthropology

A track in Cultural Anthropology consists of a minimum of 10 courses: 106 or 107, 113, 114, 115, or 130, 125 or 201, 358 and 440, and five other courses, one of which must focus on a culture area. Prospective concentrators are encouraged to take 358 as early as possible because it must be completed by the end of the junior year. All concentrators, especially those planning graduate studies, are advised to take a course in statistics. Concentrators must fulfill their senior project requirement through satisfactory completion of the Senior Seminar (440), which emphasizes the critical evaluation of scholarship as well as primary data culminating in a research paper.

Concentrators with a departmental average of 88 or higher at the close of their senior fall semester and a B+ or better in the Senior Seminar may pursue honors through 560, an individual project under the direct supervision of a member of the department. To receive honors, a grade of A- or higher must be earned on the resulting thesis.

Archaeology

A track in Archaeology consists of a minimum of 10 courses: 106 or 107, 113, 114, 115, 125, or 130, 325, 358 and 441, and five other courses, one of which must be 234, 243 or 245. Additionally, students are strongly encouraged to take the field course (280), as well as a statistics course and courses in geology, biology or chemistry. Prospective concentrators are encouraged to take 325 and 358 as early as possible because both must be completed by the end of the junior year. Concentrators must fulfill their senior project requirements through satisfactory completion of the Senior Seminar (441), which emphasizes the critical evaluation of scholarship as well as primary data culminating in a research paper.

Concentrators with a departmental average of 88 or higher at the close of their senior fall semester and a B+ or better in the Senior Seminar may pursue honors through 560, an individual project under the direct supervision of a member of the department. To receive honors, a grade of A- or higher must be earned on the resulting thesis.

Minor in Anthropology

A minor in Anthropology consists of five courses, one of which must be at the 100 level and one of which must be at the 300 level. A student may elect to take one each from 106 or 107 and 113, 114, 115 or 130 as two of their five courses.

106ES Principles of Archaeology. An introduction to the fundamentals of archaeology, with emphasis on evolutionary principles. Topics include a review of archaeological field methods, such as sampling, survey and excavation, and analytic methods, such as dating, typology and formation processes. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Not open to seniors or to students who have taken either 107 or Geology 107. Maximum enrollment, 24. Cannon and Cecil.

113F Cultural Anthropology. Cross-cultural approaches to the study of social structure, polity, economic behavior and belief systems. Anthropological methods of analysis of nonliterate, peasant and complex contemporary societies. Not open to seniors or to students who have taken 114. Raybeck.

114S Fieldwork and Ethnography. Cultural dynamics on global, national and local scales. Topics include the fieldwork tradition and ethnography (cultural encounters and problems of cultural translation), basic cultural practices (classifications, symbols and functions), cultural systems (kinship, ethnicity, class, caste, race and gender) and cultural dynamics (problems in the political economy of culture, including apartheid, genocide and hegemony). Not open to students who have taken 113, 115 or 130. Maximum enrollment, 16. Rutz.

125S Language and Culture. The relationship of language to social structure and cultural life. Topics include basic linguistic principles (the structure of sounds, words and grammar), analyses of language and meaning, the ethnography of communication and linguistic aspects of social inequality. Not open to seniors. Urciuoli.

201S Linguistic Theory: A Brief History. A general examination of the nature of language. Topics include the nature of sound, grammar, semantics and syntax; history of ideas about language; philosophical and cognitive aspects of language; structural and generative approaches to the analysis of language. Urciuoli.

[225S] Phonetics and Phonology: The Analysis of Sound. How the sounds of language are produced. The structure of sound systems in a variety of languages (including non-European). Organization of field projects: data collection, transcription analysis. (Next offered 2002-03.)

[226F] Political Organizations. Examines political communities in a comparative and historical framework. Analyzes the organization of power and politics in increasing degrees of organizational complexity, from bands, lineages, tribes and temples, to chiefdoms, kingdoms and states. Topics include power, authority, leadership, hierarchy, reciprocity, redistribution and violence. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite 106 or 107, or 113, 114, 115 or 130. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

230S Chinese Gender, Kinship and the Family. Introduction to the cultural construction of gender, kinship and the family in contemporary and historical China. Emphasis on marriage practices, lineage structure, life cycle rituals, the effects of socialist collectivization and economic liberalization. Frechette.

[234S] The Rise of Prehistoric Civilization. A study of the developments leading to the earliest civilizations in the Old and New Worlds. Starting with the late Paleolithic and early Neolithic periods, discussions of theories about the beginnings of agriculture and the rise of the state. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 106 or 107. (Next offered 2002-03.)

[238F] Power, Politics and Protest. Examines how organized groups engage in political protest against those who dominate them. Topics include peasant organizations, labor unions, millenarian movements, possession cults, terrorist organizations and urban youth organizations. Questions include the nature of power, comparison among strategies of domination and resistance, role played by time, narrative and beliefs in the otherworld in political protest. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 113, 114, 115, 130 or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2003-04.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[241S] Native North Americans. Ethnohistorical treatment of Native North American cultures from European contact to the present. Emphasis on cultures at time of contact and on relationships between native populations and Europeans, including discussion of current problems. Prerequisite, 113, 114 or 125, or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2002-03.)

[243S] North American Prehistory. The history of Native American cultural development north of the Rio Grande prior to European contact. Topics include the timing and effects of human entry into North America, ice-age adaptations, plant and animal domestication, agriculture and beginnings of complex societies. Prerequisite, 106 or 107, or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2003-04.)

The Art Department offers concentrations in both the History of Art and Studio Art. Because 100-level courses are introductory, students should elect to take such courses by the end of the sophomore year. Students considering a concentration in Studio Art should speak with the chair or a member of the studio art faculty as soon as possible in their first year.

History of Art

A concentration in the History of Art consists of 104 (Introduction to Drawing) and nine additional courses including either 248, 254 or 258; 282; 285; either 292 or 293; one 300-level course; three electives (one of which may be a second Studio Art course); and a seminar taken during either semester of the senior year. The Senior Project in the History of Art includes an extensive research paper prepared in connection with the senior-year seminar and its oral presentation before the department. A complete description of the Senior Project is available in List 111. Honors in the History of Art will be awarded on the basis of a cumulative average of 88 or above in coursework toward the concentration and distinguished achievement on the Senior Project. Students planning to apply for graduate studies in the History of Art are advised to acquire or consolidate a fluency in at least one modern foreign and one ancient language.

A minor in the History of Art consists of 104 and four additional courses in the History of Art, including at least one pre-modern or Asian course.

Studio Art

A concentration in Studio Art consists of 104; two courses in the History of Art, one of which must be pre-1900 or non-European; and seven additional Studio Art courses including one in each of the following areas:

- 1) Painting and Printmaking
- 2) Ceramics and Sculpture
- 3) Photography and Video; and a minimum of one 300-level (workshop) course, and the two-semester Senior Project (501-502). Students should complete a 300-level course in the same area as their Senior Project before the end of the junior year. Honors in Studio Art will be awarded on the basis of a cumulative average of 88 or above in coursework toward the concentration and distinguished performance in the Senior Project. A complete description of the Senior Project is available in List 111.

Students interested in studying abroad should consult with a member of the department as soon as possible. Concentrators will need to consider the most appropriate means of integrating study abroad with preparation for their Senior Project.

A minor in Studio Art consists of 104, a choice of either 151, 152 or 154, and three additional Studio Art courses.

Students interested in preparing for a professional school of architecture should consult with Professor Carter as early as possible.

History of Art

[150] Architecture in History. A critical examination of the development of the designed and built environment from the Paleolithic Period to the Industrial Revolution, with consideration given to urban, social and landscape issues. (Next offered 2002-03.)

[151F] Architecture and the Environment. A critical and historical introduction to the study of human intervention in the environment, considering such issues as the alleviation of biological and psychological stress through architectural design, social purpose and formal significance. Individual buildings examined in relation to their urban and natural contexts. (Next offered 2003-04.) Maximum enrollment, 16.

152E,S Art and Visual Culture. An introduction to the roles that art plays in shaping society from ancient times to the present. Discussion and writing assignments focusing on topics such as stereotypes, gender roles, propaganda, censorship, popular culture, patronage, museums and the art market. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first- and second-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 16. McEnroe (Fall); Pokinski (Spring).

[190F] Language of Film. Introductory survey of the development of the grammar of film. Screenings, lectures and readings exploring history, theory and aesthetic principles of film. Students' papers based on screenings. Four hours of class.

235S Outrageous Acts: Avant-Garde Theatre and Performance Art. For full description, see Theatre 235.

248S Paths to Enlightenment: The Arts of Buddhism. An examination of the religious doctrines and arts of Buddhism, from their rise and development in India and Sri Lanka to their transmission and transformations across Asia. Particular attention will be given to the continuities and discontinuities within this religious tradition of artistic practice as it adapts to and evolves within different cultures and their indigenous belief systems and artistic traditions. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Goldberg.

[250F] Issues of Gender in Western Art. Topics addressing the role of gender in the production and content of art in the western tradition. Special attention to the challenges facing women artists, the role of images in constructing and reinforcing gender stereotypes, recent emphasis on the body as an expressive force and the impact of feminist and gender-based scholarship. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one Art History course or consent of instructor. (Same as Women's Studies 250.) (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

259F Defining American Art. The role of art and its development in the United States between 1800 and 1950. Topics include the effects of the colonial experience, the search for a national identity, expressions of race, class and gender, the sense of inferiority in relation to European art, popular and vernacular art forms, and debates over public support of the arts. Prerequisite, one course in Art History or American History. Pokinski.

261S Classical Art: Inventing the Past. An examination of Mediterranean art from the Bronze Age through the Roman Empire. Special emphasis on the archaeological discovery and reshaping of ancient art by later scholars and the concept of the “classical.” (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Art History or Classics. (Same as Classical Studies 261.) Maximum enrollment, 20. McEnroe.

[266S] Art of the Islamic World. The Near and Middle Eastern origins, the classical inheritance, and the eastern and western diffusion of Islamic civilization.

282S The Renaissance: Reframing the Golden Age. An examination and reevaluation of Renaissance art. Topics include the relations between art and craft, the social functions of art, gender and ethnic stereotypes. McEnroe.

285F Seventeenth-Century Art. The internationalization of Italian Renaissance classicism in the Age of Expansion, beginning with its origins in Rome and continuing with its development in the new artistic capitals of southern, western and northern Europe. Emphasis on major figures such as Caravaggio, Rubens, Bernini, Velasquez, Poussin, Vermeer and Jones. Carter.

[286] Art in the Age of the Enlightenment. The 18th century in Europe and its overseas dominions seen as a watershed between a rational and an empirical attitude to nature and reality. The shift from Christian Humanism to modern sensationalism. The rococo, sentimental and picturesque/sublime traditions and their assimilation into neoclassicism. (Next offered 2002-03.)

292S Modern Architecture: 1750 to the Present. The origins of an essentially modern attitude toward architecture during the late 18th century and its development in the 19th and 20th centuries. Prerequisite, 150 or 151. (Next offered 2003-04.) Carter.

330F Art Historians and Art History. Changing interpretations of art from the Renaissance to the present: biography, connoisseurship, formalism, iconology, feminist and postmodern theory. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level course in Art History. Maximum enrollment, 20. McEnroe.

[359] American Architecture Before the Civil War. A brief outline of architecture, planning and design in the Americas before Columbus, followed by a fuller discussion of the period of European colonization and the era of political independence. Prerequisite, 150, 151 or permission of instructor. Field trips to accessible sites.

390S Seminar: History of Design and the Decorative Arts. Study of style and social function in the arts of design, with special emphasis on furniture and interior design. Student presentations may include such media as ceramics, glass, metalware and textiles. Prerequisite, 285 or permission of instructor. Visits to public and private collections. (Next offered 2003-04.) Maximum enrollment, 12. Carter.

401F Seminar in East Asian Art. Selected topics in Chinese and Japanese art. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Asian Art History or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12.

[402F] Seminar in Ancient Art. Selected topics in Near Eastern, Greek and Roman art. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 261. (Same as Classical Studies 402.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

[403F] Seminar in Renaissance Art. Topics in Renaissance art and historiography. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 282. Maximum enrollment, 12.

406S Seminar in Modern Art. Topics in modern art and historiography. Prerequisite, 293. Maximum enrollment, 12. Pokinski.

[491S] Seminar in Neo-Classicism. Art around 1800 seen as a watershed between Renaissance Humanism and Modernism. Topics include the reinvesting of old forms with new meanings, the reevaluation of myth and symbol, the aesthetic dilemma of industrialization, and archaeology and the romanticization of the past and future. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 285. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

492S Seminar in Architectural Theory. A discussion of the theory and practice of such influential figures as A.W.N Pugin, John Ruskin, William Morris, Frank Lloyd Wright, Bruno Taut, Le Corbusier and Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, followed by a critical examination of the "Post-Modern" reaction and the work of such contemporary architects as Leon Krier, Robert Venturi and Michael Graves. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 151 or consent of instructor. Group discussion and student presentations. Maximum enrollment, 12. Carter.

Studio Art

[104E,S] Introduction to Drawing. Study of the basic elements of drawing, including line, texture, mass and composition. Students work from the model during class time, do outside assignments and participate in group criticism. Maximum enrollment, 25.

105F Design. Introduction to the visual language in two and three dimensions. A series of projects exploring basic formal and expressive elements, color, composition, space and time relationships, and structural stress. Maximum enrollment, 25. Muirhead.

106E,S Introduction to Ceramics. Introduction to three-dimensional design concepts related to ceramics. Emphasis on a series of projects, followed by group criticism and technical aspects of ceramics. Maximum enrollment, 18. Palusky.

109F Introduction to Sculpture. Basic methods in dealing with problems of form, technique and concept. Explores sculptural possibilities of traditional and non-traditional materials and techniques. Group critiques. Maximum enrollment, 10. Reichlin.

113E,S Introduction to Photography. Fundamentals of 35mm camera use, black-and-white film process, print enlargement and development. Emphasis on development and control of technical skills combined with exploration of standards within the field of photography. Group critiques, journal. Not open to seniors. Must have a 35mm camera with manual settings. Maximum enrollment, 15. Gant (Fall); de Swaan (Spring).

[160F] Figure Drawing. Application of basic drawing principles to the representation of the human figure, with emphasis on anatomy and proportion. Examination of related topics such as the figure in the environment and portraiture. Maximum enrollment, 20.

203E,S Painting I. Introduction to the study of the methods and techniques of oil painting, with emphasis on still-life, figures and landscape. Maximum enrollment, 15. Muirhead (Fall); Salzillo (Spring).

208E,S Pottery. Concentration on the technical and aesthetic concerns of functional and sculptural aspects of pottery. Emphasis on porcelain and stoneware, use of the potter's wheel and high-fired glaze technology. Maximum enrollment, 8. Palusky.

213S Introduction to Video. Fundamentals of camera work and editing for videography. Introduction to critical, theoretical and historical contexts of the medium. Emphasis on traditional and non-traditional uses for and assumptions about video. Group critiques. Not open to seniors. Maximum enrollment, 12. Gant.

219F Experimental Sculpture. A thematic, advanced sculpture class focusing on altering found objects and spaces, incorporating a variety of materials, techniques and issues. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Maximum enrollment, 10. Reichlin.

233F Basics of Printmaking. Introduction to the basic principles and techniques of printmaking as traditionally employed in intaglio and stone lithography. Includes brief discussions of the history of printmaking, printing editions, matting, paper conservation and safety. Maximum enrollment, 12. Muirhead.

235S Intaglio Printmaking. Study in the process of intaglio printmaking, including etching, engraving, dry point, and hard and soft ground techniques. Students expected to participate in group criticism. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Prerequisite, 104. Maximum enrollment, 12. Muirhead.

302F Photography Workshop. Continued investigation and development of black-and-white technical processes combined with introduction to basics of Adobe Photoshop. Study and exploration of personal vision through photographic means and the use of this vision to pursue broader-based aesthetic, social, cultural and political context for photography. Group critiques. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Prerequisite, 113. Maximum enrollment, 12. Gant.

[304S] Advanced Painting. Further exploration of concepts and techniques presented in Painting I with emphasis on landscape and interiors as subject matter. Reinforcement of oil painting skills and introduction to egg tempera and acrylic. Prerequisite, 203. Maximum enrollment, 12.

308S Sculpture Workshop. Advanced study of traditional and non-traditional sculpture materials and techniques. Emphasis on sculpture as a vehicle for communication and significance. Journals, research, field trips, lectures and group critiques. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Prerequisite, 109 or 219. Maximum enrollment, 10. Reichlin.

311S Ceramics Workshop. Emphasis on personal concepts employing sophisticated ceramic building and color techniques. Also included, an introduction to warm glass techniques (fusing, carving, slumping and sandblasting.) Prerequisite, 106. Maximum enrollment, 12. Palusky.

315S Drawing/Painting Workshop. Advanced problems in drawing and painting. Concepts and material studies related to trompe l'oeil, photographic, nonrepresentational, collage and serial formats. Emphasis on creative interpretation. Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Salzillo.

[377S] Electronic Arts Workshop. Emphasis on collaborative work among computer musicians, digital photographers and videographers in the creation of visual/musical works. Other projects will include transmedia installations or performance art pieces. Prerequisite, 302 with consent of instructors, 313 or Music 277. (Same as Music 377.) (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 14.

501-502 Senior Project. A required two-term course during which the Studio Art concentrator will prepare an exhibition of his or her work. The Department.

Faculty

Thomas A. Wilson, Program Chair (History)	Melek S. Ortabasi (Comparative Literature)
Ann Frechette (Anthropology) (F)	Natsu Sato (Japanese)
Steve I. Goldberg (Art History) (F)	Lisa N. Trivedi (History)
Hong Gang Jin (Chinese)	Jay G. Williams (Religious Studies)
Craig T. Latrell (Theatre)	De Bao Xu (Chinese)
Cheng Li (Government)

The Asian Studies program offers a multidisciplinary approach to the study of the cultures, languages and societies of Asia, including those of China, India, Japan and Indonesia. Concentrators take courses in a variety of disciplines and work with faculty members in different departments.

A concentration in Asian Studies consists of nine courses distributed among at least three departments. These courses should be selected according to the five requirements listed below. Honors in Asian Studies will be awarded to concentrators with at least an 88 average in the concentration who complete 550 with a grade of A- or better.

A minor in Asian Studies consists of five courses, including Asian Studies 180; one national survey (see #3A or #3B below); and three electives listed under #4 below, at least one of which is a 300-level course or above. Courses must be selected from two disciplines.

- 1. 180F Exploring Culture in the Great Cities of Asia. An interdisciplinary exploration of cultural life in Asia through the study of the great cities of China, India, Japan and Southeast Asia from early times to the 19th century. The course examines the history and geography of greater Asia, its diverse peoples and their philosophical and literary traditions; their religious and commercial practices, and their art. (Same as History 180.)
- 2. Foreign Language
Chinese 140 or Japanese 140 or the equivalent of a fourth semester course in an Asian language not offered at Hamilton in an overseas program or summer intensive language program to be decided in consultation with the program chair.
Asian Studies concentrators are encouraged to continue their study of Asia in programs abroad. For information on these programs, consult the dean of students.
- 3. National Surveys Two 200-level survey courses; one in (A.) History and Culture and one in (B.) Society and Politics. Both courses may also fulfill requirement #4 below.
 - A. History and Culture (one course)
Art History 254 Courtier, Smurai, Priest and Chonin: The Arts of Japan
Art History 258 Political Power and Cultural Authority: The Arts of China
History 239 The Making of Modern India, 1526-1947
History 270 Courtier and Samurai in Early Japan
History 280 Chinese Culture in Imperial Times
 - B. Society and Politics (one course)
Anthropology 230 Chinese Gender, Kinship and the Family
Anthropology 248 The Peoples of China
Anthropology 256 The Anthropology of Tibet and the Buddhist Himalaya

Government 211 Politics in China
Government 295 U.S.-China Relations
History 285 Modernity and Nationhood in China

4. In consultation with the program chair, concentrators design their program of study in Asian Studies with either a primary focus on one Asian country (see A. Area Studies) or a theme or problem in several Asian countries (see B. Comparative Studies). Relevant courses may also fulfill requirement #3 above. At least two courses must be at the 300-level in two separate disciplines (i.e., Anthropology, Art History, Comparative Literature, East Asian Languages and Literature, Government, History, Religious Studies, Theatre). In selecting these upper-level courses, concentrators should anticipate areas of expertise needed to conduct advanced research in Asian Studies 550.

5. Senior Project: Asian Studies 550

550E,S Senior Project. A research project culminating in substantial paper. Students work with two members of the Asian Studies committee in two separate departments or geographic areas. Students are expected to develop theoretical or methodological sophistication in one discipline prior to the semester of the senior project by completing upper-level coursework in that discipline. Students meet together with other Asian Studies 550 students throughout the semester to discuss their research and present preliminary and final projects. (Writing-intensive.) The Program.

Biochemistry/Molecular Biology

Faculty Program Committee

Timothy E. Elgren, Chair (Chemistry)

Stephen M. Festin (Biology)

Jinnie M. Garrett (Biology)

George C. Shields (Chemistry)

The departments of Biology and Chemistry offer an interdisciplinary concentration in Biochemistry/Molecular Biology. The concentration consists of 12 courses (11.5 credits), which must include 270, 321 or 322, 346; Biology 110, 111 or 115, and 248; Chemistry 120 or 125, 190 and 255; and one additional course chosen from among 321, 322, 436, Biology 331, 336, 443 and 448. Certain courses in mathematics and physics are prerequisites for 321 and 322. Senior concentrators must take 550 and 551 to satisfy the Senior Thesis requirement. A complete description of the Senior Project is available from the departments. Honors in Biochemistry/Molecular Biology will be based on excellence in coursework and on the Senior Thesis.

270S Biological Chemistry. For full description, see Chemistry 270.

321F Physical Chemistry I. For full description, see Chemistry 321.

322S Physical Chemistry II. For full description, see Chemistry 322.

346F Biochemistry. For full description, see Biology 346.

[436S] Biophysical Chemistry. For full description, see Chemistry 436.

550E,S Senior Thesis I. A research project carried out in association with a faculty member. One course credit. Must be approved by April of the junior year. The Departments.

551E,S Senior Thesis II. A research project carried out in association with a faculty member. Includes written and oral presentations. Prerequisite, 550. One-half course credit. The Departments.

559E,S Senior Research Tutorial. Specialized study of topics in biochemical research. Prerequisite, 550 and consent of instructor. One-half course credit. The Departments.

Special Appointments

Lawrence H. Bopp

A concentration in Biology consists of 9.5 credits, which must include 110, 111 or 115, 550, 551 and at least two additional courses at the 300-level or above. A complete description of the Senior Thesis (550-551) is available from the department. In addition, concentrators must complete Chemistry 120 or 125, and 190. A maximum of two credits may be transferred into the concentration from study off-campus with prior departmental approval. Students preparing for graduate studies in biology should take at least one year each of calculus, organic chemistry and physics, and should have knowledge of a foreign language and computing. Departmental honors are determined on the basis of distinguished achievement in coursework and in the Senior Thesis. A minor in Biology consists of five courses, which must include 110, 111 or 115, and at least one course at the 300-level or higher.

110F Principles of Biology: Organismal. The diversity of living organisms, the structure and function of plants and animals, the ecology of populations and communities, and the process of evolution. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Gapp and Williams.

111S Principles of Biology: Cellular and Molecular. The cellular and molecular basis of biological organization and the mechanisms of inheritance. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Festin and Lehman.

115F Biology: Fundamentals and Frontiers. Introduction to the study of biology at the college level for students with a strong background in biology and chemistry. Intensive study of selected topics that illustrate the fundamental principles of, and new developments in, the biological sciences. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class/discussion and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, consent of department. Maximum enrollment, 16. Garrett and Pfitsch.

120S Female Biology. Selected biological topics and concepts considered using human and non-human female examples. Three hours of class supplemented with some laboratory and discussion meetings. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor. Maximum enrollment, 16. Miller.

150S Society and the Environment. For full description, see Environmental Studies 150.

[170F] Conservation Biology. An introduction to conservation biology and issues related to the preservation of species and ecosystems. Examination of research methods and management practices, as well as the sociopolitical and legal issues that affect conservation work. Three hours of class. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor.

[213S] Marine Biology. Introduction to life in the sea. Study of the marine environment, food webs, diversity and adaptations of marine organisms, and interaction of human culture and marine life. Three hours of class (lecture/laboratory/discussion) and one weekend of field work. Prerequisite, 110 or 115 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

221S Microbiology. Introduction to viruses and prions and to the microbial world of bacteria and protocists with emphasis on prokaryotic metabolism and ecology. Basic techniques, including isolation, cultivation and identification of microbes. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 110 or 115 or consent of instructor. Bopp.

228F Invertebrate Biology. Multicellular animal diversity, including marine organisms, parasites and insects. Emphasis on functional morphology, ecology and evolution. Three hours of class, three hours of laboratory and one weekend of field work. Prerequisite, 110 or 115 or consent of instructor. Diggins.

290F Paleontology. For full description, see Geology 290.

330F Principles of Neuroscience. For full description, see Psychology 330.

336F Cell Biology. A study of eukaryotic organisms, with an emphasis on the interrelation of structure and function, cell cycle, protein trafficking and specialized activities of cells. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 111 or 115. Lehman.

340S Plant Physiology. The physiology of flowering plants. Includes plant growth and development, photosynthesis, mineral nutrition, water relations and stress physiology. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 111 or 115. Pfitsch.

349F Transmission Electron Microscopy. The preparation of electron micrographs in the study of the cellular level of biological organization and digital imaging techniques. Prerequisite, four laboratory courses in Biology. Maximum enrollment, 6. Bart.

[437S] Tropical Field Ecology. In-depth study of basic and applied topics in tropical ecology including biodiversity and the structure and function of tropical ecosystems. Collaborative research projects conducted during a 12-day field trip over spring break. Three hours of class, one hour lab and mandatory field trip. Prerequisite, 237 or consent of instructor. Extra cost. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 15.

441F Seminar in Evolutionary Biology. Study of natural selection, behavioral evolution, genetic variability, molecular evolution, speciation and macroevolution. Discussion of readings from the literature. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 225 or 248 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Williams.

550F,S Senior Thesis I. An intensive library and laboratory or field research project carried out in association with a faculty member. Prerequisite, acceptance by the department of a written proposal submitted in the spring of the junior year. The Department.

Chemical Physics

Faculty Program Committee

George C. Shields (Chemistry)

Ann J. Silversmith (Physics)

The departments of Chemistry and Physics jointly offer a concentration in Chemical Physics. The concentration consists of 10 courses in chemistry and physics, which include Chemistry 120 or 125, 190, 321 and 322; Physics 190, 195, 290 and 295. Students must also complete a course in research methods in one of the departments, either Chemistry 371 or Physics 390, followed by a Senior Project, chosen in consultation with the committee, in the appropriate department. Mathematics 113 and 114 are required for 200-level classes in Physics and 300-level classes in Chemistry. Honors in Chemical Physics is based on outstanding work in courses and in the Senior Project.

A concentration in Chemistry may follow several tracks, depending on the goals of the student. A concentration in Chemistry requires the following courses: 120 or 125; 190, 255; one additional 200-level course; 321 or 322, 371; one additional course chosen from the 300- and 400-level offerings; and 551. The American Chemical Society (ACS) certified concentration is designed for students who plan to pursue graduate work in chemistry or a related science. Students should take the following courses to qualify for the ACS certification: 120 or 125; 190, 255; one additional 200-level course; 321, 322, 371; one additional course chosen from the 300- and 400-level offerings; and 551. Two semesters of calculus and two semesters of physics (calculus-based Physics 190 and 195 are preferred) are prerequisites for Chemistry 321 and 322.

Students who plan to attend graduate school in chemistry or chemically related fields are advised to take additional courses in chemistry, biology, mathematics and computer science. We invite all interested students to attend the departmental seminar series, which is a part of 551 and 552. Departmental honors are determined on the basis of distinguished coursework in Chemistry and in the Senior Thesis.

A minor in Chemistry consists of five courses, which must include 190, 255 and 321 or 322. The minimum requirement in chemistry for preparation for medical school consists of 120 or 125; 190 and 255; and one additional course at the 200 level.

[105S] Miracles, Disasters and Everyday Chemistry. The ubiquitous influence of chemistry on our daily lives and on society. Introduction to chemical principles, with emphasis on the nature of scientific inquiry, the extraordinary chemistry of ordinary things and the impact of chemistry on legal, medical, environmental and public policy issues. For students who do not plan to concentrate in or minor in Chemistry.

120F Principles of Chemistry. Exploration of the central principles and theories of chemistry including stoichiometry, thermodynamics, equilibrium, reaction kinetics, and molecular structure and bonding. Three hours of lecture and three hours of laboratory. Lecture offered in two sections. Brewer.

125F Principles of Chemistry: Theory and Applications. Intended for students with strong high school preparation. Accelerated exploration of the central principles and theories of chemistry including atomic theory, periodic relationships, chemical bonding, thermodynamics, kinetics, coordination chemistry, and descriptive chemistry of metals and non-metals. Applications of chemistry to biochemistry and environmental chemistry. (Proseminar.) Discussion-based course. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Maximum enrollment, 16. Bradley, Feldgus and Shields.

190S Organic Chemistry I. Structure and bonding of organic compounds and their acid-base properties, stereochemistry, introduction to reactions and reaction mechanisms of carbon compounds, and the relationship of reactivity and structure. Three hours of class and four hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 120 or 125. Kinnel and Rosenstein.

255F Organic Chemistry II. Chemistry of conjugated alkenes and aromatic and carbonyl compounds, emphasizing mechanism and synthesis; introduction to carbohydrate and amino acid chemistry. Three hours of class and four hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 190. Rosenstein and Kinnel.

[266S] Chemical Analysis: Theory and Methods. A study of the fundamental concepts and principles of chemistry as they apply to quantitative analysis. Topics include the in-depth study of chemical equilibrium, electrochemical methods and chemical separations. Laboratory emphasizes uncertainty analysis and practical applications of analytical chemistry. Three hours of lecture, three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 120 or 125.

322S Physical Chemistry II. A study of the fundamental concepts and principles of thermodynamics and kinetics. Topics include the laws of thermodynamics; prediction of the direction and extent of chemical reactions; equilibrium; chemical kinetics; catalysis; reaction rate theory; photochemistry. Three hours of class plus laboratory. Prerequisites, 125 or 190, Mathematics 114, Physics 102 or 195. The department recommends that students take 321 prior to 322. (Same as Biochemistry/Molecular Biology 322.) Bradley, Feldgus and Shields.

346F Biochemistry. For full description, see Biology 346.

371E,S Research Methods in Chemistry. Development of laboratory skills in several areas of chemistry through a number of intensive laboratory projects, with an emphasis on using instrumental techniques. Exploration of synthesis, both inorganic and organic, including handling air- and water-sensitive materials, and introduction to the chemical literature. Application of kinetic and thermodynamic techniques. Six hours of laboratory and one hour of class. Prerequisite, 265 or 266. Maximum enrollment, 16. The Department.

393F Advanced Organic Chemistry I. Investigation of techniques of structure proof, with an emphasis on NMR methods and mass spectrometry. Further work in organic synthesis, with examples taken from natural products chemistry. Prerequisite, 255. Kinnel.

412S Advanced Organic Chemistry II. Study of the techniques and theoretical framework used to investigate reaction mechanisms. Topics include thermochemistry, kinetics, linear free energy relationships and molecular orbital theory and symmetry. Prerequisite, 255 and 321. Rosenstein.

551-552ES Senior Project. An intensive laboratory or library research project culminating in a thesis. Prerequisite, 371. Attendance at weekly departmental seminars is required. Candidates for honors should elect both 551 and 552. The Department.

Classics

Carl A. Rubino, Chair
Barbara K. Gold (F)

Shelley P. Haley
Matthew D. Panciera

Classics is the study of the languages and civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome, as well as of related civilizations, both ancient and modern. The department offers courses in ancient Greek and Latin and also in Classical Studies, where no knowledge of Latin or Greek is required. Students wishing to concentrate or minor in Classics may take one of two directions.

A concentration in Classical Languages emphasizes work in Latin and Greek as keys to understanding the ancient world. It requires a minimum of four full-credit courses, at least two of which must be numbered 300 or above, in one of the two languages, and a minimum of three full-credit courses, at least one of which must be numbered 200 or above, in the other. (With the approval of the department, exemptions to these requirements may be made for students who come to Hamilton with substantial preparation in Latin or Greek.) Two courses in Classical Studies, in addition to Classical Studies 550, the Senior Program, are also required. Finally, students concentrating in Classical Languages must complete at least one course each year in Greek or Latin. Because the language concentration requires substantial accomplishment in both Greek and Latin, prospective concentrators entering the College with no knowledge of those languages should make an immediate start with the prerequisite 100- and 200-level courses.

A concentration in Classical Studies offers a study of ancient Greece and Rome with emphasis on only one of the languages. It requires a minimum of six courses in Classical Studies, at least four of which must be numbered 200 or above and one numbered 300 or above, as well as at least one full-credit course numbered 300 or above in either Latin or Greek, and Classical Studies 550, the Senior Program. (With the approval of the department, certain courses in Greek or Latin may be substituted for Classical Studies courses). In addition, students concentrating in Classical Studies must complete at least one course each year in Classical Studies, Greek or Latin.

Hamilton College is a member of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome (the Centro) and of the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, and many students have also attended the College Year in Athens. Concentrators and other students trained in Latin or Greek are encouraged to spend one or two semesters of their junior year in one of these programs in Greece or Rome or in another suitable program abroad. Interested students should note that admission to the Intercollegiate Center and the American School is competitive and that preparation in Latin or Greek is an important factor in determining admission. The Nancy Bissell Turpin Travel Fund enables the department to offer financial assistance for travel during recesses and the summer. For further information, consult with the department.

Students who have earned a B+ (88) average in the concentration may receive honors by doing distinguished work in the Senior Program. A description of the program may be obtained from any member of the Classics faculty.

A minor in Classical Languages requires at least two courses numbered 300 or above in Latin or Greek, as well as two courses in Classical Studies, one of which must be numbered 200 or above. Because the language minor requires advanced work in either Latin or Greek, interested students entering the College without either of those languages should make an early start with the prerequisite 100- and 200-level courses.

A minor in Classical Studies requires a minimum of five Classical Studies courses, three of which must be numbered 200 or above, with at least one numbered 300 or above.

Latin

110F Elementary Latin I. An introduction to the language and culture of ancient Rome. Thorough grounding in Latin grammar, syntax and vocabulary. Reading and discussion of elementary passages that cast light on the society and culture of ancient Rome and its empire. For those with no previous knowledge of Latin. Three class meetings a week, in addition to a drill session. Haley.

120S Elementary Latin II. Continuation of Latin 110. Further study of grammar, syntax and vocabulary, accompanied by reading and discussion of passages that cast light on the society and culture of ancient Rome and its empire. For students who have completed Latin 110 or those who have had some Latin but require review. Three class meetings a week, in addition to a drill session. Haley.

210F The World of Ancient Rome. Reading and discussion, with grammar review, of intermediate-level Latin passages selected to illuminate the history, society and culture of ancient Rome and its empire. Readings from writers such as Caesar, Cicero, Sallust, Catullus, Ovid and Martial. Prerequisite, 120 or equivalent. Maximum enrollment, 16. Rubino.

[340S] The Roman Hero. Readings, in the original Latin, from Vergil's Aeneid and other Roman epics. Consideration of the nature of heroism and epic poetry, with attention to the history, society and culture of the Roman world. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent.

[350S] The Roman Historians. The story of ancient Rome and its empire as told in the words of the Romans themselves. Readings, in the original Latin, from Sallust, Livy, Tacitus and other historians. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent.

[370S] Letters, Society and History. Readings, in the original Latin, from the letters of such writers as Cicero, Pliny and Seneca. Attention to the ways in which those letters cast light on Roman society and the movement of history. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent.

390F Roman Society and Culture. Reading and discussion of original Latin texts that cast light on the history, society and culture of Rome and the ancient Mediterranean. Authors and topics vary; may be repeated for credit. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent. Haley.

Greek

110F Elementary Greek I. An introduction to the language and culture of Greece and the ancient Mediterranean. Thorough grounding in the grammar, syntax and vocabulary of ancient Greek. Reading and discussion of elementary passages from classical or New Testament Greek that cast light on ancient Mediterranean society and culture. For those with no previous knowledge of Greek. Three class meetings a week, in addition to a drill session. Maximum enrollment, 16. Panciera.

120S Elementary Greek II. Continuation of Greek 110. Further study of grammar, syntax and vocabulary, accompanied by reading and discussion of passages from classical or New Testament Greek that cast light on ancient Mediterranean society and culture. For students who have completed Greek 110 or those who have had some Greek but require review. Three class meetings a week, in addition to a drill session. Maximum enrollment, 16. Panciera.

210F The World of Greece and the Ancient Mediterranean. Reading and discussion, with grammar review, of intermediate-level passages from classical,

Hellenistic or New Testament Greek selected to illuminate the history, society and culture of Greece and the ancient Mediterranean. Readings from the New Testament and from writers such as Xenophon and Lucian. Prerequisite, 120 or equivalent. (Same as Religious Studies 210.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Rubino.

[340S] Homer and the Greek Hero. Reading from Homer's Iliad and Odyssey in the original Greek. Consideration of the Greek concept of heroism and the role of epic poetry, with attention to the society and culture of the Homeric world. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent.

[350S] The Greek Historians. The story of ancient Greece as told in the words of the Greeks themselves. Readings, in the original Greek, from Herodotus, Thucydides and Xenophon. Attention to the wider issues of ancient Mediterranean society and culture. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent.

390F Ancient Greek Society and Culture. Reading and discussion of original Greek texts that cast light on the history, society and culture of Greece and the ancient Mediterranean. Authors and topics vary; may be repeated for credit. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent. Rubino.

Classical Studies

[100S] Socrates, Caesar and Cleopatra. An introduction to Classical Studies and the ancient Mediterranean world that focuses on three pivotal figures. Consideration of the multiple facets of ancient Mediterranean society and culture, including multiculturalism, race, class and gender. Attention to literature, art, religion, philosophy and history. Readings from ancient and modern sources, and films dealing with the world of the ancient Greeks and Romans.

[110F] The Civilization of Greece and the Near East. An introduction to the legacy of the ancient Mediterranean world through the study of its history and literature, with some attention paid to philosophy as well. Stress on basic skills in the study of history. (Same as History 110.)

[120F] Roman Civilization. An introduction to the history and culture of ancient Rome. Stress on social history and basic skills in the study of history. (Same as History 120.)

137S War and Society in the Ancient World. For full description, see History 137.

[150F] The World of Caesar Augustus. An examination of the Rome of Caesar Augustus, one of the pivotal figures of human history and of the multicultural empire over which he ruled. Attention to social, historical and literary issues. Readings from ancient and modern sources.

201F History of Ancient Western Philosophy. For full description, see Philosophy 201.

[220F] Seminar in Classics and Government: Cicero, Jefferson and Hamilton. A study of the career of Cicero, the Roman lawyer and politician, and of the debates between Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson, with special attention to Greek and Roman influences on the founders of the United States. Intensive discussion of readings from Thucydides, Plato, Cicero, Plutarch and the writings of Hamilton and Jefferson. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Classics (Classical Studies, Latin or Greek) or Government or consent of instructor. (Same as Government 220.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

230F The Romans on Film. Critical examination of films such as Spartacus, Julius Caesar, The Last Temptation of Christ, Ben Hur, I Claudius, Fellini Satyricon, The Fall of the Roman Empire and Gladiator. Readings from ancient writers such as Plutarch, Tacitus and Suetonius, as well as from selected modern sources. Maximum enrollment, 60. Rubino.

240F Classical Mythology. An introduction to ancient mythology through readings from sources such as Gilgamesh, Egyptian mythology, Homer, Hesiod, Greek tragedy, Herodotus, Livy, Ovid and contemporary mythmakers. Origins, creation myths, divinities and heroes, and mystery religions. Open only to first-year students, sophomores and juniors. (Same as Religious Studies 240.) Maximum enrollment, 70. Panciera.

250S Heroism Ancient and Modern. An examination of ancient and modern views of the hero. Consideration of Homer's Iliad and Odyssey, Vergil's Aeneid, modern works such as Voltaire's Candide and films such as Shane, The Maltese Falcon, Blade Runner, Joan the Maid and the Star Wars trilogy. (Same as Comparative Literature 250.) Maximum enrollment, 60. Rubino.

261S Classical Art: Inventing the Past. For full description, see Art 261.

291F Rome in the Ancient World For full description, see History 291.

350S Ethics and Politics in Ancient Greece and Rome. A study of Greek and Roman attitudes toward the question of private and public behavior, concentrating on such topics as the meaning of success, the use of power, the function of language in political life, the relationship between the individual and the state, and the role of the state in regulating behavior. Contemporary applications. Readings from Thucydides, Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, Sallust and Tacitus. Prerequisite, a course in Classics, Political Theory or Philosophy, or consent of instructor. (Same as Government 350 and Philosophy 350.) Rubino.

374F Ancient Egypt. A study of the history of ancient Egypt and of its interaction with other ancient African kingdoms, including Nubia, Kush and Punt. Examination of Egypt's prehistory, language, social and gender relations, and cultural development. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 110 or 240, or Africana Studies 101 or History 110. (Same as Africana Studies 374.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Haley.

[402F] Seminar in Ancient Art For full description, see Art 402.

College Courses

College Courses are essentially interdisciplinary or substantially outside the continuing curriculum of any department or program. Instructors are normally regular members of the faculty. The courses are worth one course credit and count toward graduation requirements, although it should not be assumed that a particular course will be a part of the continuing college curriculum.

100F The Unity of Knowledge. For entering students with an abiding interest in the intellectual life, who will join faculty members in discussing material from the arts, the historical and social sciences, the humanities, and mathematics and the natural sciences, giving attention to the ways in which those “divisions of learning” might be connected. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 16. J. O’Neill and S. Humphries-Brooks.

110S Language Diversity. The investigation of various cultural rhetorical styles. Readings in a variety of subject areas and cultures to deepen understanding of the written form in American and other cultures; to enhance the ability of expression in college-level writing such as essays, examinations and research papers; to provide exposure to various cultural styles. Students with diverse linguistic backgrounds or those seeking to attain diverse linguistic competencies are encouraged to enroll. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 10. Doughtie.

[120F] Hiroshima and After: The First 50 Years of the Atom Bomb. An interdisciplinary examination of the impact of nuclear weapons on American society, culture and politics. Topics include the physics of nuclear weaponry, scientific responsibility, ethical considerations regarding the development and use of the bomb, gender and the bomb, the apocalyptic imagination in popular culture and the rise of the national security state. Lectures, discussions, speakers and films. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 20.

130F Coming of Age in America: Narratives of Difference. An interdisciplinary analysis of what it means to come of age as an “American.” Particular attention paid to factors of culture, race, class, gender, disability and sexual orientation. Discussion based on the ways in which different fields – the arts, humanities, social sciences and sciences – define and present youth and Americanness. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Open to first-year students only. Group attendance at lectures, films, campus events required. Maximum enrollment, 16. Gane, Luciano, Orvis, N. Rabinowitz and Trivedi.

398E,S Hamilton In New York City: Seminar in Global Processes.

Foundational course of the Program in New York City. Perspectives on the contemporary influence of global markets, transnational culture and political forces on life. Organized around readings, student debates, guest discussion leaders and field trips within New York City. Does not count toward concentration credit. Rutz (Fall); Cafruny (Spring).

Communication Studies

Faculty Program Committee

Bonnie Urciuoli, Chair (Anthropology)

Catherine W. Kaha (Rhetoric and Communication)

Susan A. Mason (Program in Public Discourse)

The interdisciplinary Communication Studies Program examines communication processes from several perspectives, including social structure, cultural and symbolic systems, linguistic principles and effective practices of communication. To this end, the concentration integrates coursework from Rhetoric and Communication, Anthropology and other disciplines. A concentration in Communication Studies consists of eight courses and a Senior Project. The required courses are Anthropology 125 and Rhetoric and Communication 101, Anthropology 270, Rhetoric and Communication 302 and four other courses, two of which must be at the 300 or 400 level. Only one other 100-level course counts toward the concentration. Students must complete the required 100-level courses before their senior year. Students must complete all required courses prior to the beginning of the Senior Project. The Senior Project consists of one semester of applied research, textual analysis or ethnographic work culminating in a thesis, a paper or presentation, or a production. Honors will be awarded on the basis of a 90 average in program courses and a superior Senior Project.

A minor in Communication Studies consists of five courses, including Anthropology 125 or Rhetoric and Communication 101, and Rhetoric and Communication 302.

Students interested in Communication Studies should consult a member of the program committee listed above. Courses for the concentration or the minor may be chosen from among the following.

501E,S Senior Project. A project limited to senior concentrators in Communication Studies, resulting in a thesis, a paper or presentation, or a production. The Program.

Anthropology

125 Language and Culture

201 Linguistic Theory: A Brief History

225 Phonetics and Phonology: The Analysis of Sound

258 Nonverbal Communication and Social Interaction

270 The Ethnography of Communication

360 U.S. Discourses I: Race, Ethnicity and Class

361 U.S. Discourses II: Science, Technology and Gender

Though not a concentration, the Program in Public Discourse enables students to link the study and practice of communication with the contexts and uses of communication in the society-at-large (e.g. organizations, businesses, education and professions). Through variable credit course offerings, delivered through traditional, self-directed and mediated formats both in the classroom and in the field, student are offered a wide variety of innovative learning opportunities.

100E,S Elements of Competent Oral Presentations. Abbreviated study of fundamental principles, with emphasis on organization and presentation. Designed for students who wish to enhance confidence in oral delivery skills. Videotaping. Open to juniors and seniors only. One-quarter course credit based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Maximum enrollment, 12. Mason.

110E,S Public Speaking. For full description, see Rhetoric and Communication 110.

130E,S Argumentation and Debate. Analyze problems, issues, evidence and opinions to articulate clear, cogent, concise arguments. Practice in oral presentation of rational and defensible context-based positions and decisions. In-class and public discussions and debates. Videotaping. One-quarter course credit based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Maximum enrollment, 16. The Program.

140F Dynamics of Discussion. Investigation of approaches and competencies needed to thoughtfully and actively participate in discussions. Emphasis on organizing strategies and oral skills leading to exploration of differing conceptions and opinions. Study of discussion systems that foster mutual understandings without trying to win adherents. Videotaping. One-quarter course credit based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Maximum enrollment, 18. The Program.

150F Human Communication: Theories and Applications. A laboratory learning approach to the study of the essential theories and practices of human communication. Perception, listening, verbal and nonverbal systems, emotions, relationship development and conflict resolution in various contexts. Videotaping and frequent applications of oral communication in the society-at-large. Open to first-year and sophomore students only. Maximum enrollment, 18. Mason.

One-quarter course credit based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Maximum enrollment, 18. McArn.

170S Conflict Management and Negotiating. Investigation of and practice in productive conflict resolution and negotiating. Positive and negative outcomes of conflict and choice-making around management of conflict are studied and practiced. Uses of negotiating as a persuasive and informative activity to confront and resolve conflicts. Videotaping. One-quarter course credit based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Maximum enrollment, 18. McArn.

[200F,S] Essential Instructional Models for Volunteer Tutors and Teachers. In cooperation with HAVOC and other community-based volunteer teaching organizations. Planning, preparing and delivering student-centered, active learning-based lessons and tutorials. Appropriate educational adaptations to the challenges and opportunities in various educational environments, learner groups, socio-economic and cultural dynamics. Approved practicum experiences required. One-quarter course credit based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory.

395F,S Field Studies and Practicums in Applied Communication. Student follows College procedure for proposing independent study. Variable credit. Available throughout year. Mason.

A concentration in Comparative Literature consists of nine courses, including five designated as Comparative Literature, two in a national literature in the original language (e.g., Chinese, Russian, Greek) and two in either a second national literature in the original language or in linguistics selected in consultation with a departmental advisor. Students pursuing the linguistics option must complete study in a foreign language to the 140 level or equivalent. All concentrators are required to take 211 or 212, and 297, and all senior concentrators will take part in a Senior Program in which 500 (Senior Seminar) is required and 550 (Senior Project) is recommended. A complete description of the Senior Program is available from the department chair. Only one 100-level course may be counted toward the concentration. A student may count selected courses from other departments toward the concentration, subject to the restriction on 100-level courses. Please consult the departmental faculty. It is to the student's advantage to begin foreign language study early; those planning graduate work in literature are urged to take two additional courses in a national literature and to study two foreign languages.

Honors in Comparative Literature will be awarded on the basis of a cumulative record of 90 or above in all courses counting toward the major, as well as distinguished performance in 550.

A minor consists of five courses, including either 211, 212 or 297; two other courses designated as Comparative Literature; and two other courses in Comparative, English or foreign literature, or linguistics. Only two 100-level courses may be counted toward the minor.

[141F] Studies in Short Fiction. A comparative study of the uses of short fiction, including satire, tale, prose poem, short story and novella. Readings include works by Akutagawa, Baudelaire, Borges, García Márquez, Poe, Swift, Tanizaki and Voltaire. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

152F Literature and Ethics. Study of literature as a vehicle for moral and political concerns and of the ways that literature shapes its readers. Special emphasis on popular literature, feminist criticism and the problems raised by censorship and pornography. Selected novels and plays by such writers as Ibsen, Dostoevsky, Tolstoy, Hemingway, Wright, Highsmith, Doris Lessing, Burgess and others. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 16. P. Rabinowitz.

158S Music and Literature. Explorations of the interconnections between music and literature, including examination of hybrid works that cross the boundaries between the two arts (such as fiction about music and musical settings of literary texts) and study of the overlap between musical and literary structures. Emphasis on music of the Western classical tradition. Works include operas, symphonic poems, songs, literary works and criticism by such composers and writers as Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Strauss, Berg, Tolstoy, Wilde, Cain, Proust, Cather, Burgess, Clément and McClary. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. P. Rabinowitz.

190S Writing in Comparative Literature: Fiction and Identity. Discussion of literature as the key to understanding, and even creating, personal and communal identity. Exploration of diverse ways in which narrative allows for challenging and reformulating definitions of identity. Primary focus on developing and improving critical and comparative essay-writing skills. Emphasis on in-class debate, peer collaboration and writing workshops. Featured texts include Japanese writer Jun'ichirō Tanizaki's Some Prefer Nettles, as well as underground comic artist Art Spiegelman's Maus I. Films include Smoke Signals and Being John Malkovich. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Ortabasi.

211F Readings in World Literature I. Exploration of strategies for reading in translation and across distances of time and differences in culture. Comparative study of selected texts labeled sacred, subversive, classic and so forth from the earliest written works to the early 17th century. Selections likely to include lyric poetry (Sappho, Juan de la Cruz), narrative poetry (Sumerian Inanna, Dante's Inferno), narrative fiction (Afro-Arab Romance of Antar, Murasaki's The Tale of Genji), drama (The Peony Pavilion/Mudan Ting, Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream), essays, letters, tales and mixed genres (the Bible). (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Rupprecht.

212S Readings in World Literature II. Comparative study of representative texts in world literature from 1800 to the present, including novels, short fiction, drama, essays and poetry. Particular attention paid to the role of literature in creating nationhood, with an emphasis on how the modern self is constructed and explored through narrative technique. Readings to include works by such authors as Flaubert (France), Twain (USA), Tolstoy (Russia), Brontë (Great Britain), Ibsen (Norway), Rizal (Philippines), Mann (Germany), Sōseki (Japan), Devi (India), García Márquez (Colombia) and Achebe (Nigeria). (Writing-intensive.) May be taken without 211. Maximum enrollment, 20. Ortabasi.

213S Introduction to US Latino/a Literatures. For full description, see Spanish 213.

225F Madness, Murder and Mayhem: Nineteenth-Century Russian Literature. For full description, see Russian Studies 225.

226S Revolution, Revelation and Revenge: Twentieth-Century Russian Art and Literature. For full description, see Russian Studies 226.

[230S] Coming of Age in World Literature. Examination of the term "coming of age" in a cross-cultural, global context. Attention to literary expression of different rituals and experiences as writers reflect on self, location and community, as well as on the process of achieving social, cultural, political and personal maturity. Comparison of stories about coming of age by writers from Cambodia, China, Australia, India, Chile, Ireland, Japan, Russia, Iran and Turkey. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[244F] Whose Tragedy?: Staging Gender and Politics. A study of the relationship of gender and the world of politics as staged in tragic drama, focusing on the ways in which sexuality and violence dominate tragedy from ancient Greece to modern times. Works by Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Shakespeare, Racine, Ibsen, Pirandello and Anouilh. Close examination of modern reproductions of ancient works, with serious consideration of whether and why we should be interested in them. (Writing-intensive.) (Same as Women's Studies 244.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[245] Modern European Theatre: Theory, Practice and Dramaturgy. For full description, see Theatre 245.

250S Heroism Ancient and Modern. For full description, see Classical Studies 250.

255F Introduction to African-American Literature. For full description, see English 255.

[257F] Eros and Massacre: Japanese Literature and Film. A study of the themes of love and death, and the love of death and the eroticization of violence, in Japanese literature and films. Films by such directors as Kurosawa and Itami and literature by writers from Chikamatsu to Mishima and beyond considered within the framework of recent film and culture criticism.

[271S] European Literature: Nineteenth-Century Novel. An intensive questioning of the European novel in the 19th century, with particular attention to literary movements, social concerns and developing notions of class and gender. Readings from Austen, Stendhal, Sand, Flaubert, Eliot and Dostoevsky.

274S Topic in Medieval and Renaissance Studies: The Body in Medieval European Literature and Society. For full description, see Medieval and Renaissance Studies 274.

278F The Straight Story?: Rethinking the Romance. A study of the ways in which various forms of sexual desire drive the plot of literary works. In particular, how authors have used, manipulated and resisted the marriage plot for a variety of aesthetic and political ends. Special attention to works by gay and lesbian authors. Readings, which include works of theory as well as imaginative texts, to include works by such authors as Richardson, Balzac, Proust, Zola, Wilde, Moraga, Baldwin. N. Rabinowitz.

282F New Literature in English For full description, see English 282.

argue a variety of positions. Includes readings from Sophocles, Dostoevsky, Christie, Faulkner, Hammett, Chandler, Nabokov, Robbe-Grillet, Borges, Butor, Stoppard, Cortázar and others. Prerequisite, one course in literature. (Same as English 285.)

297S Introduction to Literary Theory. Exploration of the kinds of questions that can be asked about literary texts in themselves, and in relation to the cultural and historical contexts in which they are written and read. Readings include drama, poetry, fiction and theoretical essays, with special attention to New Criticism, structuralism, audience-oriented criticism and various types of political criticism, including feminism. Prerequisite, two courses in literature. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. (Same as English 297.) P. Rabinowitz.

[305] Philosophy and Literature. For full description, see Philosophy 305.

[324S] Romance and Religion in Medieval European Literature. An introduction to medieval romance and contemporary critical approaches to the genre, followed by an examination of how religious texts of the same period adopted and adapted romance conventions and narrative structures. Readings will include such texts as romances by Chretien de Troyes, Marie de France, Boccaccio and Chaucer; selections from Malory's Le Morte Darthur; The Book of Margery Kempe; and saints' lives from The Golden Legend. (Writing-intensive.) (Same as English 324 and Religious Studies 324.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

338F Seminar: Heroes and Bandits in Chinese History and Fiction. For full description, see History 338.

345S Modern European and American Drama. A study of modern drama as literary and social text, with special attention to issues of class and gender as they develop in the 19th and 20th centuries. Consideration of the relationship of dramatic form to the expression of political and philosophical ideas. Texts to include works by such authors as Buchner, Chekhov, Ibsen, Strindberg, Wedekind, Pirandello, O'Neill and Miller. Oral and written participation emphasized. Prerequisite, two courses in literature, or one course in literature and one course in theatre. (Same as Theatre 345.) N. Rabinowitz.

346F The Comedy of Terrors. Analysis of 19th- and 20th-century works in which stark visions of the human condition are paradoxically presented in comic terms. Emphasis on the techniques by which the apparently contradictory tendencies of humor and terror are fused, as well as the reasons (psychological, philosophical, political and aesthetic) why writers, film-makers and composers have been attracted to this device. Readings by such writers as Gogol, Dostoevsky, Twain, Kafka, Nabokov, Ionesco, Heller and Burgess; study, as well, of such films as Pulp Fiction and Fargo and such operas as Strauss's Salome. Prerequisite, two courses in literature or consent of instructor. P. Rabinowitz.

371S Dante: The Divine Comedy Then and Now. Reading the Inferno, Purgatorio and Paradiso in the context of both Biblical and classical influences on Dante and his own influence on later writers, artists and musicians into the 21st century. Special attention to Dante's Vita Nuova and technological advances offering new access to medieval and Early Modern texts and centuries of commentary on Dante. Prerequisite, two courses in literature. Rupprecht.

379S The Latino/a Experience. For full description, see Spanish 379.

[390F] Topics in Feminist Critical Theory. A study of conflicting theories of the relation of women to language, dealing with such questions as women's silence (real or ascribed), the importance of the sex of the author and the relation of the reader to the text. Particular emphasis on French/American critical debate on the status of "woman." Readings from such writers as Cixous, G. Eliot, Euripides, Fetterley, Irigaray, Kolodny, Lacan, Wolf and Woolf. Prerequisite, two courses in literature or consent of instructor. (Same as Women's Studies 390.)

[391] Practical Feminist Criticism: Across Gender/Sex/Race. Practical criticism of the novel, focusing on the impact of sexuality, gender and race as writer and reader construct the text. Emphasis on social construction in the historical formation of sexuality as it intersects with gender and race. Topics for discussion may include cross-dressing, gender-crossing and identity politics. Particular attention paid to the question of the extent to which a text may be said to exhibit a sexuality. Texts by such authors as Moraga, Lorde, Forster, Cather, Baldwin and Bartlett. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, two courses in literature or consent of instructor. (Same as Women's Studies 391.)

[460F] Seminar: Narratives of Race. For full description, see Africana Studies 460 or English 460.

474S Seminar: Contemporary African-American Literature. For full description, see English 474.

500F Senior Seminar: Dreams and Texts: Translation and Interpretation. A comparative study of the theories and practices of translation and their relationship to the interpretation of dreams and literature. Readings such as George Steiner's After Babel and Harry Hunt's The Multiplicity of Dreams in the first half and supervised individual or small group projects in the second. Activities will test the axioms that translation is impossible, is a minor and secondary literary form, inevitably betrays its original, etc. Attention to historical, political, psychological and aesthetic, as well as linguistic, issues and to topics such as memory and self-translation. Prerequisite, two courses in literature. Priority given to senior majors. Maximum enrollment, 12. Rupprecht.

550S Senior Project. A project resulting in a thesis and supervised by a member of the department. Required of candidates for departmental honors. The Department.

A concentration in Computer Science consists of a course of study designed by the student in consultation with and approved by his or her concentration advisor. The concentration and will include 10 courses, typically including 110, 111, 210, 220, 320, 330, 340, 410 and Mathematics 123. Concentrators fulfill the Senior Program requirement by taking 410. Students may earn departmental honors by distinguished achievement in courses counting toward the concentration and in 500.

A minor in Computer Science consists of 110, 111, two courses numbered 200 or higher, and Mathematics 123.

Courses intended primarily for non-concentrators

[100ES] Survey of Computer Science. An exploration of the major areas of the discipline, including the social and technological history of machine computation, the influence of the Internet, the process and nature of programming, the techniques and processes involved in translating a program from a high-level language into a collection of machine language instructions and the basic principles involved in designing the hardware of a computer capable of executing a program. Also explores the theoretical limitations on what a computer can and cannot do, and investigates the current state and future prospects, of attempts to make programs that exhibit what might be called “intelligent behavior.” (Proseminar.) No prerequisite.

[107S] Applications, Implications and Issues. A multidisciplinary exploration of the technology and social consequences of the Internet. Topics include the history and technology of the Internet and the Worldwide Web, the techniques and design patterns used to make Web pages and possible future influences that the Internet will have in public policy, social structures, economics, law and ethics. (Proseminar.) Maximum enrollment, 16.

Courses intended for both concentrators and non-concentrators

110ES Introduction to Computer Science. An investigation of the process of program design, using the Java programming language. Along with learning the constructs of the language, particular attention is paid to the principles of effective program design and problem-solving techniques. Maximum enrollment, 26 per section. The Department.

111ES Data Structures. A second course in object-oriented programming, concentrating on the common information patterns (linear and hierarchical, for example) that arise in many programs and the implementation of these structures in ways that are efficient in terms of memory space and running time. Provides a taxonomy of data structures and discusses measures of computational complexity of the algorithms used to manipulate the structures. Begins with a further investigation of Java and then introduces the C++ programming language. Prerequisite, 110 (or 241), Mathematics 123 (which may be taken concurrently) or placement by the department. Maximum enrollment, 26 per section. The Department.

Courses intended primarily for concentrators

207F Topics in Computer Science I. Study of an area in computer science. Content, differing from year to year, has included computer organization, neural networks and parallel computation. Prerequisite, consent of the instructor. May be taken more than once with the consent of the department. Hirshfield.

220F Principles of Programming Languages. Investigation into the nature of programming languages and the details of their implementation. Topics include the design and taxonomies of several programming languages and issues of efficiency, translation and operation. Prerequisite, 111 (or 242). Campbell.

320F Computer Architecture. Study of the major hardware components of modern computer systems and the implications of their interactions. Topics include cache memory, disk drive technology, chip manufacturing, microprogramming, performance analysis and digital logic. Prerequisite, 111 (or 242). Some programming is required. The Department.

330S Algorithms. Discussion of the canon of “standard” algorithms, including the major categories such as divide-and-conquer and dynamic programming, and evaluation of the efficiency of algorithms in terms of their use of two scarce resources, space and time. Prerequisite, 111 (or 242) and Mathematics 123 or placement by the department. Decker.

410F Senior Seminar. Practicum in which students provide computer expertise and support for ongoing faculty research and curricular projects. Topics include software engineering analysis, design, coding, testing, maintenance and documentation. Open to senior concentrators only. Hirshfield.

500S Honors Project. A semester-length research project. Open to qualified senior concentrators. Prerequisite, permission of the department. The Department.

All language courses are taught in the foreign language with very little use of English. Language study requires daily practice (written, verbal and aural) and conscientious preparation in order to participate fully in highly interactive classes.

Additional languages (Arabic, Swahili, Swedish) are offered under a self-instructional format contingent upon student tutor availability, suitable materials and an outside examiner. The student tutor is not a “teacher” in the usual sense. Students, therefore, are expected to exercise the self-discipline and motivation required of independent work. Students meet three times a week in small groups with a native speaker (a Hamilton student) of the language. Courses follow established curricula and are not self-paced. In addition to being highly motivated and self-directed, students must be willing to make a daily commitment to the rigorous study and practice of the language through the use of written, recorded and computer materials. Course grades are determined by mid-term and final evaluations, given by external examiners.

Information on languages offered other than Italian and Hebrew will be available the first day of classes, Monday, Aug. 27, at the CLP General Meeting at 4 p.m. in C J 309. Class schedules are established at that time.

The East Asian Languages and Literature department offers courses in the Chinese and Japanese languages, literatures and cultures, a Chinese concentration, and a study abroad program – Associated Colleges in China (ACC). Courses offered focus on language acquisition and proficiency, and introduce students to the cultures and civilizations of both countries, especially as they are expressed through languages. As much as possible, the first-year courses are taught in the target languages, while upper-level courses are entirely conducted in Chinese or Japanese. The Chinese concentration emphasizes work in the original language as keys to understand China and China-related issues, aiming at preparing students for further studies in graduate schools or professional careers in international trade, government service, diplomacy, private business, journalism and other related fields.

A concentration in Chinese consists of nine courses numbered Chinese 140 or higher, including 150, 220, 300, a 400-level course taken in each semester of the senior year and a required senior project (550). A civilization or cultural course offered by another department and concentrating on China may satisfy the 150 requirement. A Chinese minor requires five courses numbered Chinese 140 or higher, including Chinese 150, 220 and 300.

Students of Chinese and Japanese are strongly encouraged to participate in study abroad programs in China and Japan. Students of Chinese are eligible for the Associated Colleges in China (ACC), a study abroad program in Beijing administered by the department. The program emphasizes studying the Chinese language through individualized instructions with a high level of participation and interaction. The courses of ACC are taught entirely in Chinese and encompass topics in advanced language, Chinese society, economy, politics, religion, art and literature. Prerequisites include two semesters of Chinese and a course in Chinese culture, civilization or politics, and permission of the ACC director. The program is open to sophomores, juniors and first-semester seniors. It is in principle a full-year program (summer, fall and spring); however, application may be made for any of the three sessions.

Students of Japanese are eligible for recommended study abroad programs such as Kyoto Center for Japanese Language or Japan Center for Michigan Universities.

Study of the Chinese and the Japanese languages in the East Asian Languages and Literature department also satisfies the language requirement of the Asian Studies program. Students are encouraged to strengthen their understanding of cross-cultural issues by integrating their language studies with courses offered within Asian Studies.

Students interested in beginning or continuing their Chinese or Japanese language studies should make an immediate start with the 100 or 200-level courses or consult with the departmental chair.

Chinese

110F First-Term Chinese. An introduction to spoken and written modern Chinese through conversational drills, comprehension, reading and writing practice in classwork and homework. Jin.

120S Second-Term Chinese. Continued work in speaking, listening and reading. Emphasis on patterns that facilitate speaking and reading. Four hours of class, with additional tutorial and laboratory work. Prerequisite, 110. Jin.

130F Third-Term Chinese. Comprehensive review of grammar and development of language skills through communicative teaching. Four hours of class, with additional tutorial and laboratory work. Prerequisite, 120 or consent of instructor. Xu.

140S Fourth-Term Chinese. Continuation of third-term Chinese. Development of spoken and written skills, as well as familiarity with current Chinese culture. Class discussions in Chinese. Four hours of class, with additional laboratory work. Prerequisite, 130 or consent of instructor. Xu.

150F Introduction to Chinese Culture, Society and Language. A survey of both traditional and modern Chinese cultural values through the examination of geographical conditions, historical background, literary and artistic expressions, popular customs and language. Taught in English. Xu.

[202] Chinese Films and Society. A study of modern Chinese society through examination of films from 1930 to the present. Major themes include the role of family and kinship, the status of intellectuals, the dynamics of the Chinese urban-rural relationship, issues concerning women and children, problems of daily life and other aspects of Chinese culture. Taught in English.

220S Advanced Chinese II. Continuation of Advanced Chinese I, with emphasis on helping students make the transition from textbook to an advanced level of competence for reading periodicals and journals in China. Discussion, written and oral work. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 200 or consent of instructor. Xu.

300F Contemporary China. A study of present-day Chinese society dealing with issues of economic reform, single-child generation, marriage, family and Western influence. Discussion, written and oral work. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 220 or consent of instructor. Jin.

320S Chinese Press and Television. Study and analysis of selected multimedia materials from the Chinese press and television broadcasting dealing with social conflicts between traditional Chinese values and Western influence, the old socialist system and new privatization, natural earthy life and modern technology. Oral presentation required, written and oral work. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 300 or consent of instructor. Jin.

360S Readings in Modern Chinese Literature. Study and analysis of selected modern works from 1949 to the present within the sociopolitical and intellectual context. Discussion, written and oral work. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 220 or consent of instructor. The Department.

420S Selected Readings in China's Post-Cultural Revolution Literature. Study and analysis of selected literary and cultural works from various schools of post-Cultural Revolution writers, including poetry, prose, short stories and novels from 1978 to the present. Lectures, discussions and written reports. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, any 300-level course in Chinese or consent of instructor. The Department.

470S History of Chinese Language. Study and analysis of the development of Chinese language from Ancient Chinese (221 BC), Middle Chinese (601 AD), Early Mandarin (1324), to Modern Chinese (1919). Attention given to the evolution of sound, grammar, lexicon and character system over the 2,000 years. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, any 300-level course in Chinese or consent of instructor. Xu.

490S Advanced Readings in Chinese Literature, History and Philosophy. Continuation of the study of Chinese literature, history and philosophy. Attention given to the in-depth reading and analysis of selected texts. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 445 or consent of instructor. The Department.

550 Senior Project. A research project using sources in Chinese culminating in a paper, designed by the student, in consultation with at least two members of the East Asian Languages and Literature program. Students are expected to develop analytical and linguistic skills in the Chinese language through culture study in upper-level coursework and/or study abroad. The Department.

552S Honors Project. Independent study programs, consisting of the separate preparation and oral defense of a paper, for students who qualify as candidates for program honors. Only students having an average of at least 88 in courses counting toward the foreign languages concentration at the end of the first semester of the senior year may qualify. The Department.

Japanese

110-120FS Elementary Japanese. Introduction to basic structures and vocabulary. Emphasis on oral communication, with practice in reading and writing, using the two syllabaries (hiragana and katakana) and about 100 Chinese characters. Credit given for completion of one term. Sato and Suda.

130-140ES Intermediate Japanese. Completion of presentation of the basic structures of the language. Continued emphasis on oral communication, with practice in reading simple texts. An additional 500 characters will be introduced by the end of the term. Prerequisite, 120 or consent of instructor. Sato and Suda.

200-220ES Advanced Japanese. Increasing emphasis on written Japanese, with acquisition of an additional 500 Chinese characters. In the second term of the sequence, guided practice given in reading unedited modern texts. Prerequisite, 202 or consent of the department. Sato and Suda.

401F Readings in Japanese. Reading in literary and non-literary modern texts and mastery of the remaining Chinese characters on the joyo kanji list of 1,945 characters. Prerequisite, 302 or consent of the department. Sato and Suda.

A concentration in Economics consists of 101, 102, 265, 275, 285 and four elective courses. Concentrators must complete a Senior Project in one of the ways described below. The Senior Project may be used as one of the four elective courses. The four elective courses must include at least two 400-level courses other than 426 and 499 and no more than one course chosen from either 251 or 330. The electives for concentrators in the Class of 2002 must include at least one course from among 316, 325, 340, 365, 370, 375 and 385. Concentrators must complete 265, 275 and 285 by the end of the junior year so that they may apply these analytical tools in a 400-level course. Exemption from this timing requirement is granted only in unusual cases, and 265, 275 and 285 must be taken at Hamilton. Additionally, concentrators are strongly encouraged to take Mathematics 113 or the equivalent.

Students planning graduate work in economics should consult a member of the department for specific advice. They should take 400, selections from the other 400-level courses, 560 and obtain as strong a background in mathematics as possible. The sequence in calculus and linear algebra is required by virtually all good Ph.D. programs in economics; additional work in mathematics, such as courses in differential equations and real analysis, is strongly recommended. Students who plan to study for an MBA should complete at least one semester of calculus and should consult "Information for Prospective MBA students," a document which is available at the Career Center Web Site, for additional recommendations.

The Senior Project can be satisfied either by a Senior Thesis or by a project in a designated course. The Senior Thesis is a written report of a project containing original work. Students writing a thesis must enroll in 560 (Research Seminar). Projects in designated courses require a paper or a series of papers demonstrating a mastery of advanced methods, an understanding of the scholarly literature on a topic or an understanding of the evolution of important issues in the discipline.

Departmental honors will be awarded to concentrators who demonstrate superior performance in Economics, as evaluated by members of the department. To be eligible for honors, a student must complete 400 and 560, have a grade point average of at least 88 for all courses taken in the department and write an outstanding Senior Thesis.

A minor in Economics consists of 101, 102, 275, 285 and one additional economics course. If the student's concentration is in Public Policy, Economics 101, 102, 275 and 285 cannot count in both the student's concentration and the minor. These courses will be used to satisfy concentration requirements, and they will be replaced by alternative courses in the minor requirements. These alternative courses will be chosen by the chair of the Economics Department in consultation with the director of the Public Policy Program.

101F,S Issues in Microeconomics. The price system as a mechanism for determining which goods will be produced and which inputs employed; profit-maximizing behavior of firms under differing competitive conditions; pricing of factors of production and income distribution; taxation, discriminatory pricing and government regulation; theory of comparative advantage applied to international trade. (Some sections will be Proseminars.) Not open to students who have taken 110. Andrews, Stahnke, Wu and Vasquez (Fall); Bradfield, Georges and Jones (Spring).

102E,S Issues in Macroeconomics. Gross domestic product its measurement and the determination of production and employment levels; the role of the government in the economy, particularly fiscal policy; the money supply, monetary policy and inflation; foreign exchange rates. Certain sections will be designated as proseminars for the spring term. Prerequisite, 101. Not open to students who have taken 100. Jensen and Jones (Fall); Pliskin, Vasquez and Koker (Spring).

251S Introduction to Public Policy. For full description, see Public Policy 251.

275E,S Microeconomic Theory. The theory of consumer behavior. Theories of the firm and market structures, and of resource allocation, pricing and income distribution. General equilibrium and economic efficiency. Prerequisite, 102. Not open to senior concentrators. Bradfield and Koker (Fall); Jensen (Spring).

330F Accounting. Study of how the financial transactions of a business firm are usually classified, analyzed, recorded and interpreted. Emphasis on the theory and function of accounting, with bookkeeping techniques introduced as a means to this end. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Wertimer.

346S Monetary Policy. A study of the goals, strategies and tactics of monetary policy. The interaction of the central bank with financial markets, the tools and the transmission mechanism of monetary policy, the money supply process, the structure of the Federal Reserve System and the international financial system. Emphasis on policy application. Prerequisite, 102. Owen.

[350S] Economics of Poverty and Income Distribution. A study of domestic poverty and of government programs designed to deal with poverty. Topics include the definition and measurement of poverty, the factors associated with becoming poor and the design, purpose, financing and individual incentive effects of various state and federal public assistance programs, as well as their effectiveness in reducing the incidence or duration of poverty. Prerequisite, 102.

[360S] Health Economics. An analysis of the economics of health and medical care, with particular emphasis on the provision of health care in the United States. Topics include the structure of public and private health insurance programs, financing the rising costs of medical care and the impact of health status on labor supply and retirement decisions. The course will relate these issues to current public policy debates surrounding the health care profession. Prerequisite, 102.

[365F] Economic Analysis of American History. An examination and explanation of the development of the American economy, focusing on the period from 1840 to 1975. Topics include the economics of slavery and share cropping, the rise of big business, the development of banks and the causes of the Great Depression. Prerequisite, 102.

[370S] European Economic History. A survey of some major developments in the evolution of the European economies. Topics include the transition from feudalism to capitalism, the Industrial Revolution, the economic integration of Europe and the relationship between technological change and economic development. Special attention is paid to the institutional arrangements conducive to, and the distributional consequences of, economic growth. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 102. Maximum enrollment, 20.

375F History of Economic Thought. A survey of economic theory and methodology from the early Greeks to the present. Discussion of the ideas of major economic writers such as Smith, Marx, Marshall and Keynes, with attention paid to historical context as well as relevance to current economic debates. Prerequisite, 102. Andrews.

380S Environmental Economics. Examination of critical issues in environmental and natural resource policy from the perspective of economic theory. Consideration of such immediate issues as curtailing pollution, conserving endangered species and their habitats and the proper management of natural resources. Broader topics also considered, such as the attainment of a sustainable economy and our responsibility toward future generations. Prerequisite, 102. Vasquez.

[385S] Philosophy and Economics. A critical exploration of selected philosophical and methodological issues that have surfaced in the history of economics. Topics include alternative methodological approaches, the scientific character of economics, the rationality of economic agents, the formation of expectations under uncertainty, the optimality of economic outcomes and the role of values in economic analysis.

400F Introduction to Econometrics. An introduction to econometric methods that are frequently used in applied economic research. Emphasis on interpreting and critically evaluating empirical results and on establishing the statistical foundations of widely used econometric methods. Topics include the classical linear regression model, functional form, dummy explanatory variables, binary choice models, heteroskedastic and autocorrelated disturbance terms, stochastic regressors and an introduction to simultaneous equation models. Three hours of class and 75 minutes of laboratory. Prerequisite, 265 or Mathematics 252. Pliskin.

425F Theory of Financial Markets. Application of microeconomic theory to describe optimal portfolio construction and the equilibrium risk/return tradeoffs exhibited in security markets. Comparison of the capital asset pricing model, the arbitrage pricing model and various factor models on both theoretical and empirical grounds. Pricing of options and futures contracts. Analysis of real options approach to investment under uncertainty. Special topics may include corporate takeovers, insider trading, performance of mutual funds, use of options and futures contracts for hedging, relationship between capital structure and corporate governance, and topics chosen by students. Prerequisite, 265 and 275 or equivalent, or consent of instructor. May be used as basis for senior project. Bradfield.

426S Seminar in Financial Economics. Using oral presentations supplemented by brief papers, students will exposit and synthesize articles from the scholarly literature in financial economics. Most of the expositions will be by teams. Each student will also write a term paper analyzing the articles presented and placing those works in the wider contexts of financial economics and microeconomics. Emphasis on the generality of the application of fundamental principles of microeconomics to theoretical and empirical questions in financial economics. Prerequisite, 425 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Bradfield.

[430F] Topics in Macroeconomics. An advanced treatment of selected current issues in macroeconomics. Comparisons of different theoretical and empirical approaches to explaining recent recessions and trends in economic growth, unemployment, inflation and income inequality. Prerequisite, 265, 275, 285 and Mathematics 113, or consent of instructor. May be used as basis for senior project.

432S International Finance. Survey of international financial markets in both theory and practice. Topics include optimal monetary and fiscal policy in an open economy and central banking; international financial markets for foreign exchange; Eurocurrencies and international bonds; the nature and operation of the principal international financial institutions; international debt issues and country risk. Prerequisite, 265, 275 285. May be used as basis for senior project. Maximum enrollment, 20. Stahnke.

440S Public Economics. Analysis of the role of government in the economy from both the expenditure side and the income (tax) side. Topics include the theory of optimal taxation, the effects of different tax schemes on firms, households and the government budget, the provision of public goods such as highways, public education, national defense or parks and the fundamentals of government budgetary policy. Prerequisite, 275. May be used as basis for senior project. Maximum enrollment, 20. Hagstrom.

[445S] Economic Growth. Why are some countries so rich while others are so poor? This course explores this question in-depth, focusing on the difference in living standards both across and within countries. Topics include the effects of income distribution, technology, population growth, international trade, government policy and culture on the level and growth of per capita income. The course uses both theoretical and empirical methods. Prerequisite, 265, 275, 285 and Mathematics 113 or consent of instructor. May be used as basis for senior project. Maximum enrollment, 16.

560S Research Seminar. Each student works intensively on a topic chosen in consultation with the instructor. Weekly meetings held to hear progress reports and to discuss research techniques pertinent to student topics. Candidates for honors must complete this course. Prerequisite, 265, 275, 285, 400 and permission of the department. Maximum enrollment, 12. Jones, Pliskin and Hagstrom.

The Program in Teacher Education

Due to changes in New York State Education Department regulations governing New York State teacher certification, continuation of the College's approved programs of study leading to grades 7-12 teacher certification are under review. During this period of re-examination, students who wish to pursue certified teaching should work directly with Susan Mason, director of the Program in Teacher Education, to investigate appropriate education options.

The Minor

Characterized by an inquiry-oriented approach to the field of education, coursework in this interdisciplinary minor is integrated into, rather than separated from, the liberal arts curriculum of the College. This course of study is recommended for students who are interested in school administration, public policy and education, school counseling, design and development of curriculum, educational assessment, K-12 private school teaching, graduate studies leading to New York State initial teaching certification, requirements for provisional teaching certification in states outside of New York and other related fields. Support from local public school districts allows students to complete upward of 120 hours of field experience in the elementary, middle and/or secondary school environments. Credit-bearing field experiences are directed and governed by the Education Studies Program Committee.

The minor in Education Studies consists of 200 and four courses from those listed below, and culminates in a final exhibition and/or portfolio presentation to be evaluated and assessed by the Education Studies Program Committee and completed during the spring semester of the student's senior year.

Courses composing a student's minor in Education Studies must be approved by the Education Studies Program Committee according to their relevance to the student's interests and goals. No more than one unit of course work from the variable credit course 350 may be applied toward the minor. Other than Education Studies courses, no more than two courses from a single department may be applied toward the minor. Courses applied toward meeting concentration requirements may not be applied toward a minor in Education Studies. Placement for 370 is contingent upon the student achieving at least an 82% (B-) overall GPA and the approval of the chair of the Education Studies Program Committee.

As each student's interests and needs are unique, specific course selections will be individually determined with guidance and approval from a member of the Education Studies Program Committee.

200ES Issues in Education. A formal exploration of the integrated practices of teaching and learning. Study of the role that system-wide assumptions play in establishing overall curricular and instructional goals and the roles that individual teachers and students play in determining how those goals are realized. Consideration of several contemporary educational issues from historical, philosophical, scientific, multicultural and pedagogical perspectives. Includes lecture, discussion and small-group interaction. (Writing-intensive.) Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 20. The Program.

[333F] Principles of Instructional Communication. Study of theoretical and practical elements of classroom communication. Strategic approaches to the design, development and assessment of learner-centered interactions. Topics include planning and organizing instructional messages, adapting to learner styles, Socratic discourse, integrating communication technologies and teacher prerogatives. Experiential sessions and videotaping. Three hours of class, two hours of lab. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 18.

350E,S Ethnography of Learning Environments. Systematic observation of a specific learning environment. Examination of classroom discourse and the development and analysis of curriculum. Assessment of the effect social context and relationships have on the enactment of teaching and learning. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Variable credit. Maximum enrollment, 15. Mason.

370 Education Practicum. Applied field experience in a K-12th grade functional area, including classroom instruction, guidance counseling or school administration. Mentored activities with education professionals. Semester-long placements directed toward analysis and evaluation of educational theories in practice. Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 15. Mason.

395N Clinical Teaching Intensive Special Needs. Each student is assigned full-time teaching responsibilities, under supervision, in a setting with learners with intensive special needs. Includes extensive practicum experience with a focus on teaching and case management. Papers and attendance at weekly seminars required. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England Center for Children; earns two course credits. Evaluated Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory.

The Department of English offers two concentrations, one in literature written in English and one in Creative Writing. Concentrators must fulfill the language requirement described below.

English

A concentration in English consists of nine courses in literature written in English, including 150 and three courses from among the following genre courses—204, 205, 206—and the following single-author courses—222, 225, 228; at least one course must be from each group. Concentrators must take at least three courses above the 200-level, including at least one from among 323, 324, 327, 330, 335 and 352, and a seminar taken in the spring of the senior year. The following courses do not count toward the concentration or minor in literature: 110, 215, 270, 304, 305, 410 and 419. With the permission of the department, students may use one upper-level course in a foreign literature in the original language as one of the required literature credits. Students who did not take 150 and wish to concentrate or minor in English must consult with the department chair.

Students who have an 88 average or better in the concentration at the end of the fall of the senior year may elect to write an honors thesis in the spring. The department will recommend honors for concentrators who earn a cumulative average of 88 or better in the courses they take for the concentration and who receive an 88 or better on the honors thesis. Honors candidates are expected to complete coursework in each of the three genres: prose fiction, drama and poetry.

A minor in English consists of 150; one course from among 204, 205, 206; one course from among 222, 225, 228; and two electives, one of which must be at or above the 300-level. Students concentrating in Creative Writing may not minor in English.

A student considering certification in secondary education should complete 215 and either 110 or 410, in addition to the concentration requirements in literature. Students seeking advice about teacher education may consult with Margaret Thickstun or Susan Mason.

The Senior Program in English requires all concentrators to complete a 400-level seminar in the spring of their senior year. (At least one course from among 323, 324, 327, 330, 335, 352 must be completed before the senior seminar; 410 and 419 are not seminars in literature.)

Creative Writing

A concentration in Creative Writing consists of nine courses: five in literature written in English, including 150, 204, 205 and two electives, one of which must be 323, 324, 327, 330, 335 or 352; and four courses in Creative Writing (215, 304, 305 and 419). Students may take no more than one writing course a term; those who wish to concentrate must take 215 by the end of the sophomore year. The following courses do not count toward the concentration or minor in Creative Writing: 110, 270 and

410. Students who plan to concentrate in Creative Writing and who are also considering study abroad should discuss their plans with the chair of the department as early as possible, and no later than the fall semester of their sophomore year. Students who wish to concentrate or minor in Creative Writing and who have not taken 150 must consult with the department chair.

The department will recommend honors for concentrators who earn a cumulative average of 88 or better in the courses they take for the concentration (the cumulative average in 215, 304, 305 and 419 must also be an 88 or better) and who earn a grade of 88 or better on a senior honors project, taken in the fall semester. Normally students must complete 304 and 305 by the end of the junior year to be eligible for honors. A minor in Creative Writing consists of 150, 215, either 204 and 304, or 205 and 305, and 419. Students concentrating in English may not minor in Creative Writing.

The Senior Program in Creative Writing consists of the Seminar in Creative Writing (419).

Language Requirement

Concentrators in English and Creative Writing must fulfill a language requirement, following one of three options:

- 1) completion of college coursework in a language other than English through the fourth-semester level (or demonstration of equivalent competence on a placement exam accepted by Hamilton);
- 2) completion of college coursework in a language other than English through the third-semester level (or demonstration of equivalent competence on a placement exam accepted by Hamilton) and completion of one of the following: 293, Anthropology 125 or 201, or another linguistics course approved by the department;
- 3) completion of both a course in Old English (in the original) and a course in the history of the language, taken at Hamilton (293) or approved for transfer credit.

Courses in Expository Writing

110F Written Argument. Focus on composing coherent written argument at the college level, with particular attention to the development and presentation of evidence. Constant practice in short essay writing and revising, and frequent peer review. For Professor Williams: Reading and writing will focus on issues of global environmental importance, such as resource consumption. Opportunity for individual research projects. For Professor Thickstun: Readings will include classic and contemporary arguments on a variety of subjects responsive to student interest and current events. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Open to first-year students only. May not be counted toward the concentrations or minors in English or Creative Writing. Maximum enrollment, 16. Thickstun and Williams.

270F Public Affairs Journalism. Theory and practice of news writing, with an emphasis on the political and social aspects of hard news reporting in a nation where a free press is cast as a necessary aspect of democracy. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 150 or any writing-intensive course in literature, history or government. May not be counted toward the concentrations or minors in English or Creative Writing. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors. (Same as Rhetoric and Communication 270.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Kodat.

410F Seminar: Expository Writing. Designed for students from any concentration who wish to improve their writing. Constant practice in writing a variety of essays. Frequent peer tutorials. Discussion of such matters as grammar, mechanics, audience, tone and style. (Writing-intensive.) May not be counted toward the concentrations or minors in English or Creative Writing. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. J. O'Neill.

Courses in Literature and Creative Writing

150E,S Introduction to Literary Study. The study, through intensive discussion and frequent essays, of a variety of texts, including representative examples of poetry, fiction and drama. Emphasis on techniques of close reading and developing a critical vocabulary appropriate for interpreting each genre. Reading lists for individual sections are printed in the pre-registration booklet. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 16. The Department.

204S The Study of Poetry. Close reading of poems written in English from the Middle Ages to the present, with special attention to literary, social and historical influences and conventions that have defined the genre and its reception in various periods. Prerequisite, 150 or a writing-intensive course in literature from another department. Not open to senior concentrators. Thickstun.

213F Introduction to U.S. Latino/a Literature. For full description, see Spanish 213.

215E,S Introduction to Creative Writing. Introduction to fundamental techniques of fiction and poetry. Regular writing and reading assignments as well as critiques in class. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 150 or 204. Maximum enrollment, 16. The Department.

222F Chaucer and Constructions of Narratorial Authority. A study of The Canterbury Tales and selected short poems. Major concerns include Chaucer's language, humor and treatment of issues of gender and class. Special attention to the uses of literary traditions and innovations in the creation of narratorial voice and character. Prerequisite, 150 or a writing-intensive course in literature from another department. Wheatley.

224F Playwriting. For full description, see Theatre 224.

225S Shakespeare. Introductory survey of selected plays. Prerequisite, 150, a writing-intensive course in literature from another department or Theatre 110. Open to first-year students and sophomores only. Strout.

228S Milton. Study of Milton's English poetry and major prose, with particular attention to Paradise Lost. Topics for consideration include Milton's ideas on Christian heroism, individual conscience, the relations between the sexes and the purpose of education. Prerequisite, 150, a writing-intensive course in literature from another department or permission of the instructor. Not open to first-year students. Thickstun.

[245S] American Gothic. Development of the American gothic tradition from the 18th century through the 20th. Attention to the intersections between gothic literature and American history and politics, medical and public-health campaigns, racial conflicts, gender anxieties and religious sentiment. Readings mainly in fiction but consideration of selected non-fiction, including medical writing and autobiography, and of films. Authors may include Charles Brockden Brown, Poe, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Faulkner and Morrison. Prerequisite, 150 or a writing-intensive course in literature from another department. Not open to seniors.

247S “Cracking India:” Historical and Literary Perspectives on Partition.

Interdisciplinary investigation of the 1947 partition of British India into the independent nations of India and Pakistan. Multiple perspectives and a variety of sources, including conventional and oral histories, memoirs, fiction and film. Attention to issues of gender and class, as well as religion. Prerequisite, 150, a writing-intensive course in literature from another department or a 100-level course in History. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors. (Same as History 247.) Maximum enrollment, 24. Gane and Trivedi.

255F Introduction to African-American Literature. Study and discussion of selected works of drama, poetry and prose by African-Americans from the 1850s to the 1950s. Focuses on issues of gender, race and class as they affect the evolution of an African-American literary tradition in the context of the changing U.S. cultural and political attitudes. Prerequisite, 150, a writing-intensive course in literature from another department or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores and juniors only. (Same as Africana Studies 255 and Comparative Literature 255.) Odamttan.

[271S] Cultures of Empire, c 1790-2000. An analysis of the literary and historical discourses which created the cultures of empire in Great Britain during the 19th and 20th centuries. This course is interdisciplinary in its approach, and students will be encouraged to examine the distinctive methods which literary scholars and historians bring to their studies of the past. Emphasis upon the ideologies of class, race and gender, encompassing Britain's transition from an imperial nation into a post-colonial society. (Same as History 271.)

282F New Literatures in English. Study of literature in English as a global phenomenon. Focus on writers who are neither British nor North American – many of them from once-colonized nations in Asia, Africa and the Caribbean, some of them transnational migrants – and how they have extended the boundaries of English literature, not only geographically but thematically and stylistically. Authors include Chinua Achebe, Tsitsi Dangarembga, V. S. Naipaul, Arundhati Roy and Salman Rushdie. Special focus on J. M. Coetzee, who will be visiting the College in November. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 150, a writing-intensive course in literature from another department or permission of the instructor. (Same as Comparative Literature 282.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Gane.

[285F] Detective Story, Tradition and Experiment. For full description, see Comparative Literature 285.

288F African-American Women's Autobiography. For full description, see Women's Studies 288.

297S Introduction to Literary Theory. For full description, see Comparative Literature 297.

304F Intermediate Creative Writing: Poetry. For students whose work and purpose have developed sufficiently to warrant continuing work in poetry. Regular writing and reading assignments as well as critiques in class. May be repeated for credit with permission of the department. Prerequisite, 204 and 215. Maximum enrollment, 16. Guttman.

305E,S Intermediate Creative Writing: Fiction. For students whose work and purpose have developed sufficiently to warrant continuing work in fiction. Regular writing and reading assignments as well as critiques in class. Prerequisite, 205 and 215. May be repeated for credit with permission of the department. Maximum enrollment, 16. The Department.

323S Middle English Literature. Medieval literature of Britain, primarily from the 14th century. Readings include Chaucer's Troilus and Criseyde, Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, Pearl, Malory's Everyman and selections from Piers Plowman and Arthurian texts. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature. Maximum enrollment, 20. Wheatley.

[324S] Romance and Religion in Medieval European Literature. For full description, see Comparative Literature 324.

[325F] Shakespeare II: Love and Death in the Poems and Plays. Study of the sonnets, the narrative poems and selected plays, emphasizing Romeo and Juliet, Troilus and Cressida and Antony and Cleopatra. Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature. Open to juniors and seniors only.

326S Women's Slave Narratives. For full description, see Women's Studies 326.

327F Topics in English Renaissance Literature. Study of selected non-dramatic works by authors writing mainly between 1550 and 1660. Readings drawn from poetry and prose by such writers as Sidney, Spenser, Jonson, Donne, Herbert, Marvell. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature. Maximum enrollment, 20. Strout.

[328F] The Origins of American Literature. The literature of the dissenting tradition in colonial America and Puritan England. Works such as Bradford's Plymouth Plantation, Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, Milton's Comus, as well as spiritual autobiographies and shorter works by Anne Bradstreet, Mary Rowlandson, Edward Taylor and Cotton Mather. Attention to such later authors as Franklin, Alcott and Hawthorne. Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature.

[330F] Culture, Politics and Literature in Early Modern England, 1660-1745. Close reading, intertextual analysis and study of the historical and cultural contexts of such prose fiction as Swift's Gulliver's Travels and Defoe's Moll Flanders; such drama as Gay's Beggar's Opera and Etherege's The Man of Mode; and such poetry as Pope's The Rape of the Lock, Dryden's Absalom and Achitophel and Rochester's libertine lyrics. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature. Maximum enrollment, 20.

[352F] Poetry of the Renaissance and Twentieth Century. A review of the problems involved in the analysis of poetry. An exploration of the relationship between poetry of the English Renaissance and modern poetry, focusing on the reappearance of such characteristics as irony, wit, and dramatic and meditative modes. Poems drawn primarily from the work of Shakespeare, Donne, Marvell, Hopkins, Dickinson, Yeats, T.S. Eliot and Thomas. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature. Maximum enrollment, 20.

353F English and Irish Literature from 1900 to 1950. Readings in works of such writers as Conrad, Yeats, Woolf, Lawrence, Waugh, T.S. Eliot and Auden. Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature. Bahlke.

355F Modern British Poetry. Modern British poets from Yeats to Heaney, with emphasis on T.S. Eliot, Auden and Thomas. Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature. Bahlke.

373S Poetries of Place in the Twentieth-Century Americas. Examination of works by poets from the United States (Frost, Bishop, Merwin, Rich), Canada (Carson), South America (Neruda) and the Caribbean (Philip). Focus on the concept of place – geographical, social and metaphorical. Prerequisite, one 200-level course in literature. Guttman.

[375F] Contemporary American Fiction. Study of short stories and novels by authors writing in the past 30 years, such as Barth, Acker, Hawkes, Morrison, DeLillo, Mazza, Wideman, Anaya, Kingston, Proulx. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature (205 or 266 preferred). Maximum enrollment, 20.

[376F] Studies in Africana Literature and Aesthetics. Topic to be announced. Prerequisite, a 200-level course in literature or Africana Studies. (Same as Africana Studies 376.) (Offered in alternate years.)

379S The Latino/a Experience. For full description, see Spanish 379.

389S Topics in Literary Studies. Topic for 2002: lesbian and gay literary studies. Examination of the construction and representation of modern lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgendered identities in and through literature and film. Consideration of historical, theoretical and early medical texts on sexuality and gender. Attention to the role of sexuality in cultural production, the interrelations of race, class and gender, revelation and revision in the creation of lesbian/gay histories and the effect of the AIDS pandemic on gay culture. Prerequisite, one course in literature or Women’s Studies or permission of the instructor. Not open to first-year students. (Same as Women’s Studies 389.) Luciano.

419S Seminar: Creative Writing. For students whose work and purpose have developed sufficiently to warrant advanced work in fiction, poetry or both. Individual projects leading to a final collection of writings in the form of a novel, a series of stories, a series of poems, a full-length play, a series of short plays or any equivalent combination of works in genres on which the student and instructor agree. Regular writing and reading assignments, as well as critiques in class. Prerequisite, 304 or 305. Open to seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. The Department.

[423S] Seminar: Medieval Drama. Study of the early drama in Britain and some of its continental sources: liturgical and church drama, cycle plays, morality plays and early Humanist plays. Influence of these works on Tudor and Stuart dramatists, including Marlowe. Consideration given to documents related to production and staging. Prerequisite, a 300-level writing-intensive course in English, or permission of the instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

[427F] Seminar: English Drama: 1580-1640. Comedies and tragedies by contemporaries of Shakespeare, including such authors as Marlowe, Jonson, Middleton, Webster. Discussion of critical approaches to genre and to the historical period. Prerequisite, three courses in literature or theatre. Maximum enrollment, 12.

435S Seminar: Jane Austen. Close reading and discussion of Austen's six major novels and some of her minor works and juvenilia. Attention to questions of genre raised by treatments of the novels in film and television productions. Prerequisite, three courses in literature. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. J. O'Neill.

444S Seminar: Decadence and Degeneration: Literature of the 1890s. Consideration of the many new genres and literary experiments that marked this period of transition between the Victorian and Modern periods. Authors include Morris, Wilde, Gissing, Wells and West. Prerequisite, three courses in literature. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. P. O'Neill.

447F Seminar: Joyce. A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, readings in Finnegans Wake. Major emphasis on Ulysses. Prerequisite, three courses in literature or consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. The Department.

448F Seminar: E. M. Forster and D. H. Lawrence. An exploration of the fusion of social and prophetic modes in these writers. The influence of comedy on Forster's A Room With A View and Howards End; Lawrence's Apocalypse as background for Lady Chatterley's Lover and The Man Who Died; Forster's A Passage to India and Lawrence's Women in Love as major examples of the prophetic mode in 20th-century literature. Prerequisite, three courses in literature or consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. Bahlke.

[449F] Seminar: Virginia Woolf. Close readings and discussion of the novels from The Voyage Out through Between the Acts. Prerequisite, a 300-level writing-intensive course in English or permission of the instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12.

451S Seminar: The Culture of the American Renaissance. What is the relationship of literature to the historical moment that produced it? Study of three major novels published in mid-19th century America – Herman Melville's Moby Dick, Susan Warner's The Wide, Wide World and Harriet Beecher Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin – in their literary, cultural, and political contexts, including works by Emerson, Dickinson and Douglass, travel and adventure writing, medical and legal debates, ideas of domesticity, writings about health and hygiene, ethnography and the temperance, women's rights and abolition movements. Prerequisite, three courses in literature. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. Luciano.

[465S] Seminar: Faulkner and Morrison. Close readings of the major novels (The Sound and the Fury, As I Lay Dying, Sanctuary, Absalom, Absalom!, Go Down, Moses, The Bluest Eye, Sula, Song of Solomon, Tar Baby, Beloved, Jazz) that analyze similarities and differences in thematics and literary techniques. Prerequisites, 256, 266 or consent of the instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. (Same as Women's Studies 465.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

475F Shakespeare Around the Globe: International Traditions and Experiments. For full description, see Comparative Literature 475.

[482S] Seminar: Border Crossings. Study of works about those who cross national boundaries, from tourists and cosmopolitan intellectuals to refugees and immigrants. Readings include fiction by such writers as Jamaica Kincaid, Salman Rushdie and Michael Ondaatje; non-fiction travel writing and ethnography; and critical texts exploring such concepts as hybridity, transnationalism and Diaspora. Particular attention to travel to, from and within the non-Western world and to how displacement affects identity. Prerequisite, three courses in literature. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12.

500E,S Honors Thesis. Independent study for honors candidates in English, culminating in a thesis. The Department.

English as a Second Language

Alison Doughtie, Acting Program Director

Students for whom Standard English is not a first or native language may be advised to elect Writing 101 in the first semester. It is a writing-intensive course especially designed to assist those students who are not native speakers of English in sharpening their writing skills for college-level work in all academic disciplines. Writing 101 is open to all students, in addition to those with advisor-recommended placement, who desire advanced instruction and ongoing practice in English language usage in an academic setting. A one-semester course in which grades are given, it provides regular academic credit toward graduation requirements and satisfies the College-wide requirement of one writing-intensive course during the first year. Student tutors with training in English as a Second Language will be available to assist students with work in all their courses, including Writing 101. The program may be used throughout the year for diagnostic assessment and tutoring.

101F College Writing. Readings and writing in a variety of subject areas and disciplines to deepen understanding of Standard written English; to enhance the ability of expression in college-level writings, such as essays, examinations and research papers; to expand vocabulary and increase speed of comprehension and writing in Standard English. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 10. Doughtie.

110S Language Diversity. The investigation of various cultural rhetorical styles. Readings in a variety of subject areas and cultures to deepen understanding of the written form in American and other cultures; to enhance the ability of expression in college-level writings, such as essays, examinations and research papers; to provide exposure to various cultural styles. Students with diverse linguistic backgrounds or those seeking to attain diverse linguistic competencies are encouraged to enroll. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 10. Doughtie.

Environmental Studies

Faculty Program Committee

Todd W. Rayne, Chair (Geology)

Eugene W. Domack (Geology)

William A. Pfitsch (Biology)

Ernest H. Williams (Biology)

Paul Gary Wyckoff (Government)

Environmental Studies concerns human interaction with the world in which we live. A number of departments and programs contribute to courses in this interdisciplinary field. The minor in Environmental Studies consists of five courses, including 150; three courses chosen from the Environmental Studies course list, at least one of which must be above the 100-level; and a fifth course chosen from either the Environmental Studies course list or the related course list. A student may count at most two courses from a single department toward the minor. The four electives must include at least one course from within and one course from outside the natural sciences. Some of these courses have prerequisites that are not specified below.

150S Society and the Environment. An introduction to environmental studies. Emphasis on scientific understanding of the causes and implications of, and potential solutions for, problems that result from human abuse of the environment. Several current environmental problems examined within scientific, historical, sociological and economic contexts. (Same as Biology 150.) Diggins.

Foreign Languages

A concentration in Foreign Languages requires the completion of eight courses in at least two foreign languages, including at least two 200-level courses and one 300-level course in each.

Students may combine courses from Classics (Greek, Latin); East Asian Languages and Literature (Chinese, Japanese); German and Russian Languages and Literatures (German, Russian); and Romance Languages and Literature (French, Spanish). The combination may be departmental or interdepartmental. Students wishing to count other languages or work done at other institutions toward the concentration must receive approval from the chair of the appropriate department. All concentrators in Foreign Languages will be required to pass language proficiency tests in two foreign languages. Additional requirements for an appropriate senior or honors program will be set by the chairs of the departments of concentration.

Besides a broad program of language study on campus, the College administers study abroad programs in France and Spain (for further information, see Romance Languages and Literature) and in China. In addition, Hamilton is a member of the American Collegiate Consortium Exchange Program for study in Russia and other republics of the former U.S.S.R., as well as of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome and the American School of Classical Studies in Athens. (For further information, see "Academic Programs and Services.")

Students are advised to begin, or continue, their study of a foreign language early in their college course. Instruction in the following languages is offered at Hamilton:

Chinese (see East Asian Languages and Literature)

French (see Romance Languages and Literature)

German (see German and Russian Languages and Literatures)

Greek (see Classics)

Japanese (see East Asian Languages and Literature)

Latin (see Classics)

Russian (see Russian Studies)

Spanish (see Romance Languages and Literature)

Geoarchaeology

Faculty Program Committee

David G. Bailey (Geology)

George T. Jones (Anthropology) (E,S)

Geoarchaeology uses geologic methods and principles to enhance interpretations of the archaeological record, focusing on such issues as geochronology and stratigraphic succession, processes of deposition and diagenesis, paleoenvironmental reconstruction and landscape evolution. Designed for students with shared interests in geology and archaeology, the concentration builds on the common histories and research domains of these fields. A concentration in Geoarchaeology consists of 10 units of credit taken from the existing curricula of the Anthropology and Geology departments. Required courses include: Archaeology 106 and Principles of Geology (Geology 103 to 122); Archaeology 325; two courses from Archaeology 234, 243 or 245; Geology 211 or 222; two courses from Geology 220, 236 or 290; Geoarchaeology 360; and Geoarchaeology 500-501. Concentrators must fulfill their senior project requirement through satisfactory completion of 500-501. Honors will be awarded on the basis of excellence in coursework and a superior Senior Project.

Students are encouraged to take one or both field courses (Archaeology 280 and Geology 265). Students considering careers in geoarchaeology or related fields should take additional courses in Biology, Chemistry and other sciences.

360S Quaternary Geochronology. Examines the development and application of dating techniques that are appropriate over the last five million years, including dendrochronology, ^{210}Pb , radiocarbon, Uranium-series, paleomagnetic, thermoluminescence and cosmogenic surface exposure dating. Examples drawn from geologic and archaeological contexts that are important to climate change and hominid evolution. Field trips. Prerequisite, Geology 211 or 222 or consent of instructor. One-half credit. (Same as Geology 360.) E. Domack.

500F-501S Senior Project. A two-term course during which concentrators pursue an independent project and give a public presentation of their results. Proposals for project must be accepted in the spring semester of the student's junior year. 501 may not be taken as a separate course. One course credit for 500 and one-half credit for 501. The Program.

Geology

Barbara J. Tewksbury, Chair
David G. Bailey
Cynthia R. Domack

Eugene W. Domack
Todd W. Rayne

A concentration in Geology consists of 11.5 units of credit in courses including one course in Principles of Geology (103 to 122), 209, 211 or 222, 220, 230, 290, 310, 510-511 and one other course in Geology numbered 200 or higher. A two-semester series course in one of the supporting sciences is also required (Chemistry 120 and a second chemistry course numbered 190 or above, Physics 101 and 105, Math 113 and 114, Computer Science 110 and 111, or Biology 110 and 111). The selection of supporting science courses should be undertaken in consultation with an advisor in the Geology Department. A Senior Project is required (510-511) for the concentration, and a complete description of the program is available in Science 104. A series of sophomore, junior and senior essays will also be required. All concentrators, especially those planning a career in the earth and environmental sciences, should take additional courses in chemistry, mathematics, physics, computer science and biology according to the student's interests. Departmental honors will be awarded on the basis of excellence in coursework, a superior Senior Project and completion of two additional courses in the supporting sciences as listed above.

A minor consists of a course in Principles of Geology and four units of credit in other courses at the 200 level or above that are approved by the department.

Students interested in careers in oceanography should consider concentrations in Chemistry or Mathematics with supporting courses in Geology including 112, 210, 211, 220, 222, 320, 340 and 350, and Biology 213. Students interested in careers in meteorology should consider concentrations in Physics or Mathematics with supporting courses in Geology including 112, 210, 222, 240, 285 and Chemistry 227.

103F Principles of Geology: The Geology and Development of Modern Africa. An interdisciplinary study exploring how the geologic evolution of the continent has influenced the prehistoric, historical, political and economic development of Africa. Specific coverage of the Nile River System, climate change in the Sahara, the East African rift zone and diamond exploration in Africa. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Required field trip to the Adirondack Region Aug. 31-Sept. 1. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. (Same as Africana Studies 103.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Tewksbury.

[105F] Principles of Geology: Global Environmental Change and Wilderness. An introduction to Earth systems with an emphasis on those processes of global change that are most easily detected over wilderness areas. Topics include recognition of the effects of global warming, ozone depletion and over-utilization of resources in areas such as Patagonia, Antarctica, Greenland, Australia, Alaska, Tibet and several oceanic islands. Also considers the role of wilderness in society. Three hours of class and two hours of laboratory with field trip. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. (Next offered 2002-03.)

110S Principles of Geology: Geology and the Environment. An introduction to the principles of geology as applied to current environmental issues such as solid waste disposal, consumption of conventional and alternate energy resources, and utilization of our natural resources. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory or field trip. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. Rayne.

112S Principles of Geology: Ocean Science. An introduction to the physical, chemical and biological nature of the marine environment. Topics include marine geology, seawater composition, atmosphere/climate, ocean circulation, waves, tides, coastal processes, life in the sea, ocean resources and marine pollution. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. Maximum enrollment, 30. C. Domack.

122F Principles of Geology: Geology in the Field. An intensive, field-based introduction to scientific inquiry with an emphasis on the relevance and importance of geology to society. Students will examine relationships between the geologic and physiographic features of central New York and patterns of historical settlement and development. (Proseminar.) Not open to juniors or seniors. Maximum enrollment, 14. Bailey.

209S Hydrogeology. The study of surface water and groundwater, with emphasis on groundwater. The influence of geologic materials on groundwater flow, an introduction to groundwater hydraulics and groundwater/surface water interactions. Basic hydrogeologic field methods introduced in the laboratory section. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory with field trips. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. Maximum enrollment, 25. Rayne.

210F Glacial Geology. A survey of the distribution and dynamics of the Earth's cryosphere, theories of global climate change, and processes and products of glacial erosion and deposition. Marine record of glacial events and glacial periods throughout Earth history. Three hours of class and two hours of laboratory with field trips. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. E. Domack.

220F Mineralogy. An introduction to crystallography, crystal chemistry and optical mineralogy. Identification of minerals by physical, optical and X-ray diffraction techniques. Six hours of class/laboratory with field trip. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. Maximum enrollment, 22. Bailey.

[225S] Planetary Geology. The geology of the planetary bodies of our solar system, including the history and future of solar system exploration and the applications of planetary studies to understanding the geology of the Earth. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory/discussion. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. (Next offered 2002-03.)

230S Structural Geology. A study of the origin, development and study of macroscopic and microscopic structures in deformed rocks. Field, graphical, laboratory and computer techniques used in studying deformed rocks. Six hours of class/laboratory with field trip. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. Maximum enrollment, 22. Tewksbury.

236F Soils and the Environment. A study of the formation, classification, utilization and environmental significance of soils. Frequent local field trips. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. Rayne.

310S Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology. A study of the mineralogy, chemistry, origin and evolution of igneous and metamorphic rocks. Emphasis on the physical and chemical processes involved in their formation. Six hours of class/laboratory with field trip. Prerequisite, 220. Maximum enrollment, 20. Bailey.

360S Quaternary Geochronology. Examines the development and application of dating techniques that are appropriate over the last five million years. Specifically, dendrochronology ²¹⁰Pb, radiocarbon, U-series, paleomagnetic, thermoluminescence and cosmogenic surface exposure dating. Examples will be drawn from both geologic contexts and those that apply to archaeological sites important to hominid evolution and climate change. Field trips. Prerequisite, 211 or 222. One-half credit course. (Same as Geoarchaeology 360.) E. Domack.

370F Coastal Geology and Environmental Oceanography. Advanced study of coastal marine processes with an emphasis on environmental issues and case studies. Four hours of class. Field trip to Cape Cod. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, two 200-level courses in Geology. Maximum enrollment, 20. C. Domack.

[375S] Origins of Natural Systems. An overview of the origin and evolution of the universe, solar system, Earth and Earth systems. Particular emphasis will be placed on the application of geochemistry and isotope systematics to understanding the origin of matter, the formation and differentiation of the Earth, the development of plate tectonics and the origin of the oceans, atmosphere and life. (Writing-intensive.) Four hours of class. Field Trip. Prerequisite, two 200-level courses in Geology or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

510-511ES Senior Project. A two-term course during which concentrators pursue an independent project and present the results to the department. Proposals must be accepted in the spring semester of the student's junior year. 511 may not be taken as a separate course. One course credit for 510 and one-half credit for 511. The Department.

The department offers concentrations in Government, World Politics and Public Policy as follows:

Government

A concentration in Government consists of 10 courses: 116, 117 and either 112 or 114, with at least one of these being writing-intensive, and seven additional courses at the 200 level or above, with at least two courses in international relations, comparative politics and two courses in American politics. Government concentrators must take at least one course at the 300 level and complete the senior project (550). A minor in Government consists of five courses, with at least two of these at the 200 level or above.

World Politics

The World Politics major involves the study of politics on a global scale, including both international relations and politics within nations. In order to understand the complex interplay of international and national politics, all World Politics majors study the philosophical and moral bases of various political systems; the history of the modern international system; the political economy of global power and wealth; and the key issues for U.S. foreign policy. To achieve this understanding, all World Politics majors are required to take the following core courses: 112, 114, 117 (one of which must be writing-intensive); 290 and 291; and 550. Students complete the major by focusing either on a particular region of the world (Africa, Asia, Latin America, Middle East, Russia and Eastern Europe, Western Europe) or a thematic topic (Poverty and Inequality in World Politics, Democratization, International Law and Organization, International Security, Politics of the Global Economy, Nationalism and Identity in Global Politics). In consultation with their advisor, students will select five related courses in their area or theme from a variety of departments. One of these must be at the 300 level in Government. For students focusing on a region of the world, one of the five courses must be in an appropriate language at the fourth-semester level or above. Students may also design their own thematic track with the advice and consent of their advisor. The advisor will approve each student's course list after the major is declared.

Public Policy

See the Public Policy section in this catalogue.

The Term in Washington Program

The Term in Washington Program combines regular academic study with the experience and understanding gained by working in congressional and executive offices. Four credits are awarded toward graduation, two of which (325 and 327) count toward a concentration in Government, and up to two may be counted toward a concentration in World Politics or Public Policy. To qualify, a student must have taken at least one of the following: 208, 210, 251, 290, 329, 334, 338 or obtained the consent of the department. The program is not restricted to those concentrating in Government. It is also open to selected students from other colleges.

A concentration in History consists of 10 courses. Each concentrator must take a 100-level history course, and no more than one 100-level course may be counted toward the concentration. All 100-level courses are writing-intensive and are designed to prepare the student for upper-level courses. At least two places will be reserved in each 100-level course for juniors and seniors. A concentrator must also take at least four courses at the 300 level or higher.

A concentrator's courses must provide acquaintance with a minimum of three areas from among Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, Middle East, Russia and the United States. A concentrator in History must also take at least one course in premodern history. The department encourages concentrators to develop competence in a foreign language and to use that competence in their historical reading and research.

Concentrators may fulfill the department's Senior Program requirement through satisfactory completion of either of the following options:

Research Seminar (401-403: one course credit each). Concentrators may fulfill the Senior Program requirement through satisfactory completion (a grade of at least C-) of one 400-level research seminar. These courses may emphasize the critical evaluation of scholarship in a specific field, culminating in a historiographical essay or primary research culminating in an original essay.

Independent Senior Thesis (550: one course credit). Concentrators with a departmental grade point average of 88 or higher may, with the permission of the department, pursue an individual project under the direct supervision of a member of the department. To earn departmental honors, concentrators must demonstrate general distinction in their coursework and earn a grade of A- or higher for the independent senior thesis. Finally, to earn departmental honors, concentrators must complete at least one year of college-level study in a foreign language and make a public presentation of the senior thesis.

A minor in History consists of five courses, of which only one can be at the 100-level and at least one must be at the 300-level or higher, as approved by the department.

A student wishing to be certified to teach social studies in grades 7-12 should contact Susan Mason, director of the Education Studies Program, as early as possible.

(Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 251 or 253 or consent of instructor. (Same as Women's Studies 352.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[353F] Seminar on the Sixties. Examination of a critical period in recent U.S. history, with special attention to the civil rights movements, the Vietnam War, campus protest and the origins of the women's movement. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 253 or 254 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

359S Studies in American Progressivism. An intensive study of the major political, social and intellectual transformations in American society between 1890 and 1940. Emphasis on the Progressive Era, World War I, the era of alleged "normalcy" in the 1920s, the Great Depression and the New Deal. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 253. Maximum enrollment, 12. Tobin.

[360F] Seminar: Mythical Histories in China and Japan. Examination of how history is used to legitimate or critique political institutions such as the Japanese emperor, philosophical regimes such as Confucian state orthodoxy in China and Japan, and social conditions such as women's rights and duties in an extended Chinese family and Marxist Revolution. Emphasis on scrutiny of primary Chinese and Japanese texts in translation based on recent cultural theories such as deconstruction and feminism. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 270, 272, 280 or 285, or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

362S Reconstruction to Jim Crow: The South from 1856 to 1910. Revolutionary impact of the Civil War on the South, political and constitutional controversies over emancipation and Reconstruction policies, and complex adjustments of planters, white yeomanry and former slaves to emancipation. Emphasis on activism during and after Reconstruction disfranchisement, segregation and white supremacy. Major themes: race, gender, economic development and "Lost Cause." (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level course in American history or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Hinks.

363S Seminar: Colonial Encounters in Asia. Examines encounters between Asian and Western peoples from Marco Polo to the present. Focus on tensions among economic, cultural and religious aims of Spanish and Portuguese expansion in the East Indies and the Philippines, rising Dutch competition of these territories and later English and French imperial expansion into southeast and east Asia. Examination of problems of orientalism/occidentalism and reassesses the myth of the Western "impact" on Asia by learning how Asian peoples understood the West and the ways that Europe, too, was affected by these encounters. (Writing-intensive.) No knowledge of Asian history required. Prerequisite, consent of instructors. Maximum enrollment, 20. Trivedi.

[367S] Sex and Gender in the Pre-Modern West. Examination of attitudes and understandings of human sexuality and construction of gender in Europe from High Middle Ages to the early modern era (c. 1200-1650). Emphasis on sexual deviance and homoeroticism. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level History course. Maximum enrollment, 20.

[372S] The Crusades. Examination of the expansion of Western Europe into the Eastern Mediterranean through the crusading movement. Emphasis on the development of the concept of Holy War; cultural conflict and assimilation; and the social, economic, political and religious conditions in Western Europe that gave rise to the Crusades. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 206 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

[376S] Religious Community and Ethnic Nationalism in South Asia. The history of South Asia in the 19th and 20th centuries, emphasizing the changing relationships of religious communities under colonial and post-colonial regimes. Topics will include the colonial conception of religious community, the public expression of religious identities, the rise of communal violence and the emergence of ethnic nationalism in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level History course or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

[378S] Topics in American Biography. Topic for 2002: Pilgrims, Preachers and Prophets: Religious Leaders in America, 1630-1900. Examination of the lives of religious figures and their impact on American society and culture. Emphasis on author's interpretation of subject's relation to historical context, varieties of biographical methods and factors that explain variety and intensity of religious faith in American history. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level course in American history. Maximum enrollment, 20.

380F Seminar in American Studies. For full description, see American Studies 380.

[383F] Studies in British and Irish History. Topic for 2002: The History of Photography in Britain and the Empire. A multifaceted study of the changing technologies of photography, the roles of photography in imperialism and anti-colonial protest, and the interpretive uses of photographs as historical texts. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level History course on Europe, Africa or Asia, or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

384S European Witch Trials. Witchcraft and magical beliefs in Europe and the New World as a problem of intellectual, social and legal history. Emergence of witchcraft persecution in the Middle Ages, mechanisms of witch trials and inquisitional procedures, image of the witch in popular and learned culture, regional variation in witch beliefs and persecution from Eastern Europe to colonial New England and decline of witchcraft persecution in the 17th century. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level History course. Maximum enrollment, 20. Broedel.

401E,S Research Seminar in American History. Critical evaluation of scholarship in a selected topic culminating in a historiographical essay or primary research in a selected topic culminating in an original interpretive essay. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, concentration in History or consent of instructor. Open to seniors only. Senior Program option. Maximum enrollment, 12. The Department.

402S Research Seminar in European History. Critical evaluation of scholarship in a selected topic culminating in a historiographical essay or primary research in a selected topic culminating in an original interpretive essay. Prerequisite, concentration in History or consent of instructor. Open to seniors only. Senior Program option. Maximum enrollment, 12. Kelly.

[403F] Research Seminar in East Asian History. Critical evaluation of scholarship in a selected topic culminating in a historiographical essay or primary research in a selected topic culminating in an original interpretive essay. Prerequisite, concentration in History or consent of instructor. Open to seniors only. Senior Program option. Maximum enrollment, 12.

[485S] Seminar in African History. For full description, see Africana Studies 485.

550E,S Senior Thesis. A project limited to senior concentrators in History, resulting in a thesis supervised by a member of the department. Required of candidates for departmental honors. The Department.

551S Senior Thesis. A project limited to senior concentrators in History, resulting in a thesis expanded beyond the work of History 550. Prerequisite, 550 and consent of instructor. The Department.

A concentration in Mathematics consists of the required courses 113, 114, 224, either 235 or 251, 314, 325, 437 and two electives, of which at least one must be at the 300 level or higher. Concentrators fulfill the Senior Program requirement by taking 437. It should be taken in the fall of the student's senior year, and all lower-numbered required courses, with at most one exception, should be completed prior to that time. Physics 320 may be counted as a lower level elective toward the concentration. Students may earn departmental honors by completing courses that satisfy the concentration with an average of not less than 91, by taking a third elective that is at the 300 level or higher, and by making a public presentation to the department on a mathematical topic during their junior or senior year.

A minor in Mathematics consists of 113, 114, 224 and two mathematics electives, of which at least one must have 224 as a prerequisite.

100S Statistical Reasoning and Data Analysis. An introductory course intended to develop an understanding of and appreciation for the statistical approach to problems in business and the natural, social and behavioral sciences. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor. Maximum enrollment, 25. The Department.

103F Explorations in Mathematics. A study of topics selected from scheduling, ways of counting, probability and statistics, geometry, social choice and decision making. Placement subject to approval of the department. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor. Maximum enrollment, 25. The Department.

108F Transformation Geometry. An introduction to transformations of the plane. Topics include line reflections, rotations, glide reflections, groups of isometries and symmetry groups. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor. Maximum enrollment, 25. Kantrowitz.

113E,S Calculus I. Introduction to the differential and integral calculus of a single variable. Topics include limits, continuity, derivatives, max-min problems and integrals. Four hours of class. The Department.

114E,S Calculus II. A continuation of the study begun in 113 and an introduction to the study of differential and integral calculus of several variables. Prerequisite, 113 or placement by the department. Four hours of class. Successful completion of 114 carries credit for both 113 and 114 for those students placed into 114. The Department.

201E,S Topics in Mathematics. Weekly meetings, including guest lectures, faculty and student presentations and an introduction to the mathematical literature. Prerequisite, permission of the department. One-quarter course credit based on Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. May be taken more than once with consent of the department. The Department.

215F Vector Calculus. Topics in vector calculus, generalizing those from 114, including divergence, curl, line and surface integrals, Stokes theorem and applications to science, engineering and other areas. Prerequisite, 114 or consent of instructor. LeMasurier.

224E,S Linear Algebra. An introduction to linear algebra: matrices and determinants, vector spaces, linear transformations, linear systems and eigenvalues; mathematical and physical applications. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 114 or permission of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. The Department.

235S Differential Equations. Theory and applications of differential equations, including first-order equations, second-order linear equations, series solutions, systems of equations. Prerequisite, 114 and 224. The Department.

251F Probability Theory and Applications. An introduction to probability, including probability spaces, random variables, expected values, multivariate distributions and the central limit theorem, with applications to other disciplines and an emphasis on simulation as an exploratory tool. Prerequisite, 114 and 224 (which may be taken concurrently). Kelly.

313S Knot Theory. An introduction to knot theory. Topics include classification of different types of knots, the relations between knots and surfaces, and applications of knots to a variety of fields. Prerequisite, 224. Bedient.

314E,S Real Analysis I. An introduction to analysis. Topics include sequences, series, continuity and metric spaces. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 114 and 224. Maximum enrollment, 20. Kantrowitz (Fall); Knop (Spring).

318S Complex Analysis. An introduction to the theory of analytic functions of a complex variable: Cauchy-Riemann equations, contour integration, Cauchy-Goursat theorem, Liouville theorem, Taylor and Laurent expansions, Residue theory. Prerequisite, 314. Kantrowitz.

323S Graph Theory and Combinatorics. An introduction to the theory and applications of graph theory and combinatorics, suitable for both mathematics and computer science concentrators. Topics include generating functions, recurrence relations, inclusion-exclusion, transversal theory, covering circuits, graph colorings, independent set, planarity. Prerequisite, 224 or 123 and Computer Science 210. Cockburn.

[324S] Linear Algebra II. A continuation of 224, with emphasis on the study of linear operators on complex vector spaces, invariant subspaces, generalized eigenvectors and inner product spaces. Prerequisite, 224.

[326S] Advanced Algebra. Continuation of topics studied in 224 and 325. Topics may include Galois theory, algebraic geometry and applications. (Next offered 2002-03.)

352S Statistical Theory and Applications. Topics include the law of large numbers, estimation, hypothesis testing, linear models, experimental design, analysis of variance and nonparametric statistics, with applications to other disciplines. Prerequisite, 251. Knop.

Seminars offered in recent years

[437-03] Senior Seminar in Number Theory. Discovery-based approach to elementary number theory topics including congruences, primitive roots, quadratic residues, arithmetic functions and Diophantine equations. Prerequisite, 325.

437-04 Senior Seminar in Statistics. Topics include maximum likelihood estimation, regression ANOVA design and an introduction to stochastic processes through Markov chains and queueing theory. Prerequisite, 251 and 352. Kelly.

[437-05] Senior Seminar in Topology. Students jointly produce a textbook based on an outline provided. Topics include topological spaces, continuity of maps and homeomorphism. Spaces are described as compact, connected and Hausdorff. The fundamental group is computed and used to classify various spaces.

437-06 Senior Seminar in Operations Research. An introduction to the mathematical tools of operations research. Topics include linear and non-linear programming, network analysis, convex sets, combinatorial optimization and game theory. Cockburn.

450E,S Senior Research. A project for senior concentrators in Mathematics, in addition to participation in the Senior Seminar. Prerequisite, consent of department. The Department.

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Faculty Program Committee

T. Edward Wheatley, Chair (English)
Lydia R. Hamessley (Music)

Roberta L. Krueger (French)
John C. McEnroe (Art)

The program in Medieval and Renaissance Studies offers a minor consisting of five courses, taken in at least three departments, from the following two groups. In addition, students who elect this minor are required to emphasize one of the two epochs, the Medieval or the Renaissance, in their course selections, although they are also encouraged to explore the continuities between them. The minor consists of either: 1) History 206 (Medieval Europe), three courses from Group A and one course from Group B; or 2) History 289 (Renaissance and Reformation Europe), one course from Group A and three courses from Group B.

For complete information about the courses listed below, including prerequisites, enrollment limits and when a course is offered, consult the full descriptions under the appropriate departments.

Group A: Medieval Studies

274S Topic in Medieval and Renaissance Studies: The Body in Medieval European Literature and Society. An examination of the ways in which the human body was imagined and represented in medieval European cultures. Topics include sacred bodies and relics; virginity and pollution; gender and sexuality; the nature/culture debate; embodied voices in song and bodies in art; disease, disability, and death; clothing, class and self-display. Emphasis on literary texts, with complementary studies of history, art and music. (Proseminar.) One previous course in literature, History, Sociology, Anthropology or Religious Studies recommended. (Same as Comparative Literature 274.) Krueger.

A concentration in Music consists of one course credit in performance (from among courses in Solo Performance and/or Group Performance), 209, 210, 251, 252, 253, 254 or 259, 280, 281, 350, 351 and the Senior Project, 450-451. A more complete description of the Senior Project is available from the department. Students contemplating graduate work in music should consult with a member of the department at an early date. Departmental honors can be earned through distinguished achievement in coursework and in the Senior Project.

A minor in Music comprises five courses: 209, two courses from among 205, 206, 251, 252, 253 and 254 or 259; one course credit in performance (from among courses in Solo Performance and/or Group Performance); and one other full-credit course.

Courses in Literature and History of Music

105F Musical Perception. An introduction to the study of musical perception from the listener's standpoint. Consideration of the reasons for differences in musical perception, taste, style and structure through examples taken primarily from Western classical music, but also from non-Western music and American popular music, including jazz, rock and blues. Examination of how musical perception gives rise to musical meaning. Evaluation of the influence of society and technology on the perception of music. No previous knowledge of music required. Hopkins.

[108S] From Words to Song. An exploration of the relationship between words and music – of the many and different ways in which the meanings and emotions of the words have (and have not) been expressed through music in the last millennium. No previous knowledge of music required. (Next offered 2003-04.)

154F Music of the World's Peoples. A study of selected cultures around the world, including Native American music of North America, sub-Saharan African music, African-American music in the United States, Latin American music and the classical traditions of India, Indonesia and Japan. Consideration given to musical style and the role of music in these cultures. (Proseminar.) Not open to seniors. Maximum enrollment, 16. Hamessley.

[160F] History of Jazz. How to listen to jazz. Origins of jazz, including its African heritage, blues and ragtime. Survey of jazz styles, including New Orleans and Chicago styles, boogie-woogie, swing, bebop, cool, funky, fusion and free jazz. Not open to seniors. (Same as Africana Studies 160.) (Next offered 2002-03.)

[208F] Women in Music. An examination of both European and non-European popular and art music from the perspective of women. Topics include women as performers and composers, the depiction of women in music, musical criticism and cultural values that have affected women's participation in musical life. Prerequisite, any 100-level Music course or Women's Studies 101. (Same as Women's Studies 208.) (Next offered 2002-03.)

252S Music in Europe, 1600 to 1900. A study and analysis of major developments in style of Western music between 1600 and 1900. Consideration of the influence of political, economic, technological and cultural environments upon the development of musical styles. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 109. Maximum enrollment, 16. Hopkins.

253F Music in Europe and America Since 1900. A study and analysis of major developments in style of Western music since 1900. Consideration of the influence of political, economic, technological and cultural environments upon the development of musical styles. Prerequisite, 109. Buchman.

[258S] Opera. Study of literary and musical dimensions of operas by major composers from Monteverdi and Mozart to the present. Emphasis on the transformation of independent texts into librettos and the effects of music as it reflects language and dramatic action. Includes such works as Orfeo, Don Giovanni, Otello, The Turn of the Screw and Candide. Prerequisite, two courses in Music or two in Literature, or one in each field, or consent of instructors. (Same as Comparative Literature 258.) (Next offered 2002-03.)

262F African-American Popular Music. A study of the music of selected popular African-American artists, including rhythm-and-blues artists, black gospel soloists and performers of soul music and rap music. Focus on the social issues, musical modes of expression and cultural importance of the artists. Prerequisite, one full-credit course in Music. (Same as Africana Studies 262.) Woods.

Courses in Performance

Solo Performance. The study of music through lessons and performance in voice, flute, oboe, English horn, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, horn, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, organ, harp, percussion, acoustic guitar, jazz guitar, violin, viola, 'cello and contrabass. Half-hour tutorial for one-quarter credit, or hour tutorial for one-half course credit. Prerequisite, as noted below. A fee is charged. The Department.

Half-hour tutorial for one-quarter credit:

221ES For students in their third semester of study. Prerequisite, 122, 124, 132 or 134 and consent of instructor.

222ES For students in their fourth semester of study. Prerequisite, 221, 223, 231 or 233 and consent of instructor.

321ES For students in their fifth semester of study. Prerequisite, 222, 224, 232 or 234 and consent of instructor.

322ES For students in their sixth semester of study. Prerequisite, 321 or 331 and consent of instructor.

Hour tutorial for one-half credit:

132ES For students in their second semester of study. Prerequisite, 121, 123, 131 or 133 and consent of instructor.

332ES For students in their sixth semester of study. Prerequisite, 321 or 331 and consent of instructor.

431ES For students in their seventh semester of study. Prerequisite, 322 or 332 and consent of instructor.

432ES For students in their eighth semester of study. Prerequisite, 431 and consent of instructor.

Applied Music. The study of music through lessons in voice, flute, oboe, English horn, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, horn, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, organ, harp, percussion, acoustic guitar, jazz guitar, violin, viola, 'cello and contrabass. Half-hour tutorial for one-quarter credit, or hour tutorial for one-half course credit, based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Prerequisite, as noted below. A fee is charged. The Department.

Half-hour tutorial for one-quarter credit:

124ES For students in their second semester of study. Prerequisite, 121, 123, 131 or 133 and consent of instructor.

224E,S For students in their fourth semester of study. Prerequisite, 221, 223, 231 or 233 and consent of instructor.

Hour tutorial for one-half credit:

234E,S For students in their fourth semester of study. Prerequisite, 221, 223, 231 or 233 and consent of instructor.

141-142E,S Group Performance. The study of music through performance in one or more of the following groups: Brass Choir (Buchman), String Chamber Ensembles (Buchman), College Choir (G. Kolb), College Hill Singers (G. Kolb), Jazz Ensemble (Woods), Jazz Improvisation (Woods), Oratorio Society (G. Kolb), Orchestra (Buchman) and Woodwind Ensembles (Buchman). Prerequisite, consent of instructor. One-quarter course credit each semester. The course may be repeated throughout the student's college career. Students are encouraged to participate in, and may be registered for, more than one group and may accumulate as many as four credits in the course. The Department.

[218-219E,S] Conducting. The elements of conducting, including baton technique, aural perception and score study. Consideration of instrumental and choral problems and techniques. Prerequisite, any 200-level full-credit Music course. Concurrent participation in a college ensemble required. 219 may not be taken as a separate course. (Next offered 2002-03.)

Courses in Theory and Composition

120F The Physics of Musical Sound. Physical principles and phenomena associated with musical sound. Topics include vibrations and waves, sound generation, propagation and detection, musical instruments, the voice, hearing, tone quality and sound spectra, musical scales and tuning, and acoustics of concert halls. Three hours of class. (Same as Physics 120.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Collett.

180E,S Basic Aural Skills. Introduction to aural understanding through sight-singing, dictation and the rudiments of music notation. Diatonic major scales and keys, diatonic intervals, diatonic melodies, tonic and dominant arpeggiation, an introduction to minor scales and keys, rhythms in simple and compound meters. One-quarter course credit, based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. May be repeated for credit with consent of department. Prerequisite, ability to read music in at least one clef. Hamesley.

209F Theories of Music: Counterpoint and Harmony. A study of counterpoint, voice-leading, harmonic progressions and chromatic harmony. Consideration of common processes in music and how they are perceived. Concurrent registration in Aural Skills (180, 280 or 380) is required; concurrent registration in Keyboard Skills

(181, 281 or 381) is recommended for prospective music concentrators. Prerequisite, 109 or consent of the department. Hopkins.

213F Jazz Arranging. The theoretical designs used in combo, big band and third-stream writing. Coverage of jazz scales, chords, voicings, ranges and tonal properties. Students are expected to compose and copy the parts to three compositions, one of which will be read and recorded. Prerequisite, 209. Woods.

[240] Psychology of Music. Advanced study of musical perception from the listener's standpoint. A cognitive approach to music with particular emphasis on the sensory aspects of music and the perception of musical organization. Examination of the relationships between the theoretical rules of music and the laws of perception and cognition. Prerequisite, one course from among 105, 106, 107, 109, 154 and 160. (Same as Psychology 240.) (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

277F Music for Contemporary Media. Experience with the aesthetics and techniques of the modern recording studio, including the uses of sound synthesizers, digital samplers and MIDI. Creative projects using these techniques. (Proseminar.) Ability to read music in at least one clef is required. Three hours of class and three hours of studio. Not open to seniors. Maximum enrollment, 14. S. Pellman.

281F,S Intermediate Keyboard Skills. A continuation of 181. Four-part chord progression reading, alto and tenor clef, melodic transposition, introduction to figured harmony, chord progressions, intermediate sight-reading. One-quarter course credit. May be repeated for credit with consent of department. Prerequisite, 181 and consent of the department. Best.

380E,S Advanced Aural Skills. A continuation of 280. Development of aural understanding through sight-singing and dictation. More extensive modulation of melodies and harmonic progressions, aural analysis of small binary forms, introduction to the alto and tenor clefs. One-quarter course credit. May be repeated for credit with consent of the department. Prerequisite, 280 and consent of the department. Hamesley.

381E,S Advanced Keyboard Skills. A continuation of 281. May include continued work in alto and tenor clef, reading open scores, more advanced figured harmony and advanced sight-reading. Prerequisite, 281 or consent of the department. One-quarter course credit. May be repeated for credit with consent of the department. Best.

Third-year Seminars and the Senior Project

350F Topics in Music. In-depth consideration of topics in music theory, history, composition and performance. Topics for the fall of 2001: Musical Coherence in the Music of Brahms, Contemporary Music 1980-2001, and the Study and Performance of Music for Javanese Gamelan. Prerequisite, 210, 252 and 253. Buchman, Hamesley and Hopkins.

351S Topics in Music. In-depth consideration of topics in music theory, history, composition and performance. Topics for the spring of 2002: Jazz Score Study, Csound Applications, and the Cantatas of J.S. Bach. Prerequisite, 209 and previous or concurrent registration in 252. G. Kolb, S. Pellman and Woods.

450F Senior Project I. Supervised work on a specific project based on proposals submitted to the department by the end of the student's junior year. Prerequisite, consent of department prior to second semester of student's junior year. One-half credit. Open to seniors only. The Department.

451S Senior Project II. Completion of senior project. Prerequisite, 450. One-half credit. The Department.

Neuroscience

Faculty Program Committee

Douglas A. Weldon, Chair (Psychology)

George A. Gescheider (Psychology)

Herman K. Lehman (Biology)

The departments of Biology and Psychology offer an interdisciplinary concentration in Neuroscience. The concentration consists of 12 courses, which must include: Biology 110 and 111, or 115; Chemistry 120 or 125 and 190; Psychology 101, 205 and 280; a Biology or Psychology elective at the 200-level or above, or Chemistry 270; Principles of Neuroscience (Psychology/Biology 330); Psychophysics and Sensory Physiology (Psychology 350); Neurochemistry (Biology 421); and the senior project. Program honors in Neuroscience recognize the distinguished achievement of students who excel in their coursework in the concentration, including the Senior Project. Students considering graduate work in neuroscience are advised to take Chemistry 255, Mathematics 113-114, Computer Science 110-111 and Physics 100-105.

205F Introduction to Brain and Behavior. For full description, see Psychology 205.

232S Human Neuropsychology. For full description, see Psychology 232.

[242] Psychopharmacology. For full description, see Psychology 242.

330F Principles of Neuroscience. For full description, see Psychology 330.

350S Psychophysics and Sensory Physiology. For full description, see Psychology 350.

421S Neurochemistry. For full description, see Biology 421.

445F Integrative Animal Biology. For full description, see Biology 445.

500F-501S Senior Project. Supervised research on a specific problem in neuroscience based on proposals submitted to the faculty in the spring of the junior year. Open to senior concentrators. The Department.

Philosophy

Richard W. Werner, Acting Chair

Katheryn H. Doran (FS)

A. Todd Franklin

Jacqueline M. Gately

Marianne Janack

Kirk E. Pillow (S)

Robert L. Simon

The concentration in Philosophy consists of 10 courses:

1. 201, 203, 355 and 550
2. one course from among 100, 200 or 240
3. three additional courses at or above the 400 level
4. two electives below the 400 level, with no more than one of them at the 100 level

Concentrators must take at least one 400-level course from epistemology, metaphysics or philosophy of science, and another from the history of philosophy, ethics or aesthetics.

Concentrators normally complete 201, 203 and the logic requirement (one course from among 100, 200 or 240), by the end of their sophomore year. Concentrators normally complete 355 by the end of the junior year.

Beginning with the Class of 2003, senior concentrators complete the Senior Seminar (550) in the fall of the senior year. Each student in 550 will complete a special seminar-based writing project and develop a thesis proposal. Students will be admitted to 551 (Senior Thesis) only if a formal thesis proposal submitted in the fall is approved by the department. Candidates for honors must have a cumulative average of 88 in their Philosophy courses, and submit and successfully defend orally the project from 550 or the thesis (551) during the spring semester of their senior year.

A minor in Philosophy can be of two kinds: standard (five courses consisting of one course from among 100, 200 or 240; 201, 203 and two other courses); or correlative (five courses in Philosophy correlative to the field of concentration and approved by the department).

100S Critical Thinking. An introduction to informal methods of evaluating claims and arguments in everyday life. Emphasis on the identification and evaluation of arguments, and on strengthening one's reasoning. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 20. Gately.

110ES Introduction to Philosophy. An introduction to such philosophical issues as the possibility and nature of morality, the existence of God and the problem of evil, the possibility of free will and the nature of human knowledge. Practice in critically appraising philosophical positions. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 16. The Department.

111ES Contemporary Moral Issues. Introduction to moral theory and moral reasoning. Application of moral theories and reasoning to social problems. Extensive use of films outside of class. Fall: (Writing-intensive.); (Proseminar.); Open to first-year students only; Maximum enrollment, 16. Spring: (Writing-intensive.); Maximum enrollment, 20. (Same as Africana Studies 111.) Werner.

112F Telling Right from Wrong. Philosophical inquiry into whether or not any of our moral beliefs can be justified and intensive examination of specific moral theories, including theories of justice, equality and rights. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Simon.

115F Existentialism. An introduction to 19th- and 20th-century variants of existentialism. Readings include works by Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Sartre, Camus and de Beauvoir. (Writing-intensive.) Section 1 open to first-year students only; Section 2 open to sophomores and juniors only. Maximum enrollment, 20. Franklin.

117E,S Introduction to Political Theory. For full description, see Government 117.

200F Critical Reasoning. Same as Philosophy 100 with greater emphasis on symbolic logic. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Not open to students who have taken 100 or 240. Gately.

201F History of Ancient Western Philosophy. A study of the philosophical classics from early Greek times to the fall of Rome. Emphasis on Plato and Aristotle. (Same as Classical Studies 201.) Werner.

203S History of Modern Western Philosophy. A study of the philosophical classics from Descartes to Kant. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Gately.

209F Philosophy and Feminism. An introductory survey of philosophical approaches to feminism. Examines the historical progression of feminist philosophical thought, as well as some of the debates that animate contemporary feminist theory. Readings include works by representative thinkers in a variety of political and philosophical traditions, as well as analyses of the ways in which gender intersects race, class, ethnicity and sexuality. Will address the general question of feminism's relationship to, and tensions with, philosophical thought. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or Women's Studies or consent of instructor. Janack.

216S Indian Thought. For full description, see Religious Studies 216.

220S Philosophical Perspectives on the Self. What is a self? Does each person have one? Does each person have only one? How is the self related to the soul? Is it unchanging or in constant flux? What is the relationship between the self and the body? Examination of personal identity, the self and the soul as these topics are addressed in traditional philosophical texts, literature and neuropsychology. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Open to first-year students and sophomores. Maximum enrollment, 16. Janack.

222S Race, Gender and Culture. A critical philosophical examination of the normative categories of race, gender and culture. Topics include the origin, character and function of racial gender and social identities. Analysis will focus on questions concerning the malleability of these identities, as well as questions concerning their psychological and social significance. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or Africana Studies or Women's Studies. (Same as Africana Studies 222 and Women's Studies 222.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Franklin.

236S Philosophy of Education. Critical examination of the philosophical underpinnings of education. Topics include the aims of education and the democracy, education for the few or for the many, and the relation between education and liberation. Gately.

240S Symbolic Logic. A study of formal systems of reasoning and argument evaluation. Janack.

[271] Ethics of Professions and Practices. Examination of ethical issues arising in the professions, in institutions and in human practices. Study of selected ethical problems in law, medicine, education and sport. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy. Open to juniors and seniors only. (Next offered in 2002-03.)

[301S] The Philosophy of History. For full description, see History 301.

[302] Nineteenth-Century Philosophy. A survey of European philosophy that explores the philosophical movements of idealism, materialism and existentialism. Major thinkers include Kant, Schiller, Schopenhauer, Marx, Kierkegaard and Nietzsche. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2002-03.)

[305] Philosophy and Literature. Examination of the relationship between philosophy and literature, considering the exploration of philosophical themes in literature, philosophical issues in literary criticism and whether literature and philosophy can be distinguished. Theoretical readings paired with fictions by Pynchon, Calvino, Nabokov and Murdoch. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, two courses in Philosophy or literature or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. (Same as Comparative Literature 305.) (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

310F Philosophy of Science. Focus on the philosophical analysis of scientific knowledge, scientific method and the practice of science. Readings include classic texts in the philosophy of science as well as contemporary discussions of science as a social product, and critiques of the notion of scientific objectivity. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Janack.

315S Islamic Thought. For full description, see Religious Studies 315.

333F Philosophy of Art and Aesthetic Experience. Examination of major themes in the philosophy of art, including the respective contributions of artist, work and audience to the aesthetic situation; whether standards of taste exist; conflicts between aesthetic and moral value; problems of assigning meanings to works of art. Historical and contemporary readings, extensive use of other media. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or Art or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Pillow.

337S Seminar in Chinese Intellectual History: Confucianism. For full description, see History 337.

350S Ethics and Politics in Ancient Greece and Rome. For full description, see Classical Studies 350.

[351] The Theory and Practice of Nonviolence. Critical inquiry into the morality of war and peace with emphasis on war realism, just war theory and pacifism. Consideration of the ethics of violence and the alternative of nonviolence both as a tactic and as a way of life. Historical and contemporary readings. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, two courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2003-04.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

355F Contemporary Philosophy. Exploration of central preoccupations in recent philosophy as informed by classic 20th-century texts. Topics include the Anglo-American analytic tradition and its anti-foundationalist convergences with "Continental" philosophy; recent rethinking of selfhood and agency; and the question of whether philosophy is at an end. Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Pillow.

360F Genealogies of Culture: Nietzsche, Freud, Foucault. A study of Continental philosophy's most influential approaches to the analysis of cultural attitudes and practices with a focus on the various genealogical analyses developed by Nietzsche, Freud and Foucault. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 20. Franklin.

380S Philosophy of Law. Inquiry into the nature of law, the authority of law, the character of judicial reasoning and other selected problems in jurisprudence, with particular attention to the relationship of legality to morality and justifiability of judicial reasoning. Prerequisite, 110 or junior standing. Simon.

[410] Seminar in the History of Philosophy: American Philosophy. Course begins with work on some historical debates over the metaphysics and ethics of personhood with an examination of some early American texts by Bradstreet and Lincoln, and Emerson and Thoreau's Transcendentalism. Emphasis on classical Pragmatist metaphysics and epistemology through the work of Peirce, James and Dewey, with attention to their neo-Pragmatist legacies in contemporary American philosophy. Prerequisite, three courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. (Next offered in 2003-04.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

425S Mahayana Buddhism. For full description, see Religious Studies 425.

[430] Seminar in Epistemology: The Problem of Knowledge. Inquiry into whether it is possible to reject skepticism without resorting to dogmatism. Special emphasis on the connection (or tension) between everyday reflection and philosophical theory. Historical and contemporary readings. Prerequisite, three courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

431F Seminar in the History of Philosophy: Kant's Critical System. Study of the architectonic structure of Kant's philosophical system, emphasizing the elaborate relationships between his epistemology, moral philosophy and aesthetic theory. Readings from Critique of Pure Reason, Critique of Practical Reason and Critique of Judgment. Prerequisite, three courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Pillow.

435F Seminar in Metaphysics: Heidegger. Discussion of Heidegger's classic critique of the dominant conception of human existence. Topics include the formative role of social norms, the ways languages and technologies shape our lives and how the past and future condition the present. Readings from Being and Time and secondary sources. Three courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Gately.

440S Seminar in the Philosophy of Science (Psychology): Emotion. An examination of literature in philosophy of mind, psychology and anthropological psychology on the question of the nature of emotion. Will address the ways in which emotional disorders are defined and treated in a variety of therapeutic approaches, with special emphasis on the philosophical commitments that underwrite these approaches. Prerequisite, three courses in Philosophy or consent of the instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Janack.

450S Seminar in Ethics: Ethical Theory. An investigation of 20th-century ethical theory, focusing on theories of the meaning of ethical terms and on theories of justification in ethics. Prerequisite, 203, 355 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Werner.

[454] Seminar in Aesthetics. Critical study of the Western aesthetic tradition, with attention to classical, modernist and post-modern revolutions in aesthetic theory. Prerequisite, three courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

460F Seminar in Ethics: Contemporary Theories of Justice. Detailed analysis of contemporary theories of distributive and compensatory justice and their consequences for liberty and equality. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Simon.

463S Seminar in Metaphysics: Nietzsche. A close examination of Nietzsche's philosophical corpus that examines his conception of the good life as it emerges within the context of the critical and positive aspects of his philosophy. Topics include the existential significance of narrative, the nature of knowledge and the philosophical import of Nietzsche's critical condemnations of metaphysics, religion and morality. Prerequisite, three courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. Franklin.

500S Senior Seminar. Extensive practice in examining philosophical topics. Preparation and revision of senior theses. Prerequisite, consent of the department. The Department.

All enrolled students are required to participate in a physical education program for individual development. This “lifetime carryover” program is based on the theory that it is as important to develop a healthy body and a love of sports as it is to provide scope for the skilled athlete.

There is a five-part requirement that includes:

- 1) A physical fitness test (a course is offered for those who do not pass);
- 2) A swim test (beginning swimming is offered for those who do not pass);
- 3) - 4) Two lifetime activity classes;
- 5) may be met by completing one unit of the following:
intercollegiate athletics
wellness seminar lifetime activity class.

Lifetime activity classes include the following: aerobics, badminton, cross-country skiing, fitness, golf, inline skating, jogging, lifeguard training, outdoor pursuits, power walking, racquetball, scuba, skating, squash, swimming, tennis, toning and volleyball.

Upon passing the physical fitness and swimming tests and successfully completing the three other parts of the requirement, a student shall have completed the physical education requirement. Except under unusual circumstances, it is expected that the requirement will be completed in the first year. All students must complete the requirement by the end of four semesters in residence and may not study abroad without completing it. Students with physical disabilities may enter an individual program approved by the director of Physical Education.

A concentration in Physics consists of 10 courses: 190, 195, 290, 295, 390, 550 and four other courses chosen in consultation with an advisor who is a member of the Physics faculty. Normally at least one of the electives will be from among courses at the 300 level and above. Students who wish to prepare for graduate school in physics or engineering should choose four electives from courses at the 300 level and above. Students with other interests may, in consultation with their advisor, select electives from other science or math courses. Such courses may support interdisciplinary interests or career goals. Normally 390 is taken in the spring semester of the junior year in preparation for the research project undertaken in 550. For honors in Physics, outstanding work in the senior research project is required.

In the first year, prospective concentrators should take 190 and 195, and Mathematics 113 and 114. If the Mathematics department grants advanced placement, students may wish to take Linear Algebra followed by Differential Equations (Mathematics 224 and 235). Physics 290 and 295 should be taken in the second year. Other options should be discussed with a member of the faculty. Students who wish to major in Physics but who have taken 100-105, wish to begin the major belatedly or who have advanced placement in physics, should consult with the department chair.

A minor in Physics consists of five courses: 190, 195, 290 or 295, and two other Physics courses, or 100, 105 and three other physics courses, of which one must be at the 200 level or above. A minor in Astronomy consists of five courses: 190-195 or 100-105, 290, 160 and an independent study in Astronomy. A student who majors in Physics may not minor in Astronomy.

Students interested in the 3-2 or 4-2 engineering programs affiliating Hamilton with engineering schools should take 190, 195 and calculus (or linear algebra if mathematics placement so warrants) in their first year. There are many possible options in engineering programs, and because of their complexity beyond the first year, interested students should consult the engineering advisor. This is also the case for those who have taken 100-105 and have then become interested in engineering. The engineering advisor is Professor Ring.

100F Survey of Physics. The first semester of a year-long sequence (100-105) for pre-med students and other scientists who require a year of basic physics. Topics include mechanics, fluids and thermodynamics. Emphasis on applications of physics in medicine and in other sciences. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Algebra and trigonometry required. Jones.

105S Survey of Physics. The second semester of a year-long sequence (100-105) for pre-med students and other scientists who require a year of basic physics. Topics include electricity and magnetism, optics, atomic physics and nuclear physics. Emphasis on applications of physics in medicine and in other sciences. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Algebra and trigonometry required. Prerequisite, 100 or 190. Silversmith.

[110F] Nuclear Energy and the Environment. Topics include the energy problem; nuclear physics; the implications of nuclear technology; radioactivity: its uses and its perils; nuclear reactors and reactor safety; nuclear weapons and proliferation; the nuclear waste problem; and alternatives to nuclear fission: solar, fusion, wind, hydro, geothermal, tidal, biomass and fossil fuel. (Next offered 2002-03.)

120F The Physics of Musical Sound. Physical principles and phenomena associated with musical sound. Topics include vibrations and waves, sound generation, propagation and detection, musical instruments, the voice, hearing, tone quality and sound spectra, musical scales and tuning, and acoustics of concert halls. (Same as Music 120.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Collett.

130F Physics of Architecture. Introduction to why buildings stand up – the physics of materials and of structures. Structures include Greek temples, Roman arches, Gothic cathedrals, buildings of Mies van der Rohe, Le Corbusier and Frank Lloyd Wright, as well as bridges of various kinds. Knowledge of algebra and trigonometry required. Ring.

150S The Physicist's View of Nature. The physics of the 20th century. The ideas of special and general relativity and cosmology, of quantum physics and elementary particles. A course for students not going on in science. Pearle.

160S Introduction to Astronomy. A description of the universe, starting with the appearance and organization of the solar system and working outward. Development of the heliocentric view. Observational deduction of properties of stars. Stellar evolution and its relation to pulsars and black holes. Galaxies and the structure and history of the universe. Millet.

190F The Mechanical Universe. Introduction to principles governing the motion of a particle and of systems of particles. Kinematics and dynamics; energy, linear momentum, angular momentum and their conservation laws. Gravitation and some astrophysical applications. Introduction to the laws of thermodynamics. Use of the computer to solve mechanics problems. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, Mathematics 113 (may be taken concurrently). Not open to students who have taken 100. Major and Millet.

195S Waves and Fields. The physics of oscillations, waves and fields. Topics include simple harmonic motion, fluids, sound, light, optics and interference phenomena. This course emphasizes the use of calculus as a tool to describe and analyze the physical world. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 190 or 100 and Mathematics 114 (may be taken concurrently). Jones.

[230S] Electronics. Introduction to electrical engineering, the theoretical and experimental analysis of electronic circuits containing resistors, capacitors, inductors, diodes, transistors and integrated circuits. Both analog and digital circuits discussed in lab and investigated in the laboratory. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Not open to students who have taken 240. Maximum enrollment, 14.

240S Electronics and Computers. Hands-on introduction to the concepts and devices of electronics. Study of analog and digital circuits, computer architecture, assembler programming and computer interfacing. Some experience with programming in a high-level language recommended. (Proseminar.) Six hours of laboratory. Not open to students who have taken 230. Maximum enrollment, 14. Collett.

290F Quantum Physics. Special relativity, wave-particle duality, the nuclear atom, the development of Schrödinger's wave mechanics and the quantum theory of atoms.

Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 195 or 105, and Mathematics 114. Silversmith.

295S Electromagnetism. Introduction to the mathematical description of the electric and magnetic fields, their sources and their interactions with matter. Exploration of Maxwell's laws with emphasis on the relationship between the physics and the mathematics needed to describe it. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 290. Ring.

350F Classical Mechanics. Principles of classical mechanics, including oscillations, nonlinear dynamics, dynamics of systems of particles, non-inertial reference frames, Hamilton and Lagrangian mechanics, celestial mechanics, rigid body motion and coupled oscillations. Prerequisite, 290 or consent of instructor. Major.

360F Scientific Computing in Fortran. Study of the computational methods for solving advanced problems in the physical sciences using Fortran in a Unix environment. Projects may include data fitting, solution of systems of ordinary differential equations and solutions of partial differential equations. Prerequisite, knowledge of a programming language and 295, Mathematics 235 or consent of the instructor. Collett.

370F Thermodynamics and Statistical Physics. Properties of large-scale systems in terms of a statistical treatment of the motions, interactions and energy levels of particles. Basic probability concepts and the principles of statistical mechanics. Explanation of thermal equilibrium, heat, work and the laws of thermodynamics. Application to various physical systems. Prerequisite, 290. Millet.

380F Electromagnetic Theory. Intensive study of Maxwell's equations in both differential and integral form; electrostatics and electro-dynamics; special relativity; and the transformation of electromagnetic fields. Introduction to electromagnetic waves and dielectric and magnetic materials. Prerequisite, 295. Collett.

390S Research Seminar. A series of research projects stressing the integration of theory and experiment. Emphasis on scientific writing, formal oral presentations, use of the current physics literature. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 290. Silversmith.

470S Light and Spacetime Geometry. A study of special relativity, 4-vector form of electromagnetism, radiation theory and Einstein's general theory of relativity including astrophysical applications such as gravitational waves, Schwarzschild black holes and gravitational lenses. Prerequisite, 295 and 320 or 350. Major.

550F Senior Research Project. Independent research in collaboration with faculty supervisor. Students will give a series of formal oral presentations about their research and will write a comprehensive thesis. Open to senior concentrators or to others with consent of instructor. The Department.

551S Senior Research. Research carried out in collaboration with a faculty member. Includes written and oral presentation. Prerequisite 550. The Department.

A concentration in Psychology consists of 10 courses: 101, 280, one course in each of five areas, two electives and the Senior Project. The five areas are: behavioral neuroscience (205, 232, 242, 330 and 350); cognitive psychology (290, 310 and 315); developmental psychology (211, 221, 324 and 335); social/personality psychology (216, 221, 248, 336, 337 and 420); and applied psychology (223, 235, 248, 249, 250, 380, 445 and 455). A particular course may count toward only one of these areas. Of the courses taken, at least two must be laboratory courses: one selected from 310, 315, 330 and 350; and one from 335, 336, 337, 338 and 380. Departmental honors in Psychology recognize the distinguished achievement of students who excel in their coursework in the concentration, including the Senior Project.

A minor in General Psychology consists of five courses: 101; 280; one laboratory course chosen from 310, 315, 330, 335, 336, 337, 338, 350 and 380; and two electives, each from a different area.

The departments of Biology and Psychology offer an interdisciplinary concentration in Neuroscience. See the description under Neuroscience.

The curriculum in Psychology prepares each student to undertake a Senior Project consisting of extensive research and theoretical inquiry, culminating in a written thesis and an oral presentation. The project can be completed in one or two semesters; therefore, concentrators must enroll in 500 and/or 501 during their senior year.

101ES Introductory Psychology. An introduction to the science of human behavior. Topics include the nervous system, perception, learning, motivation, cognitive and social development, personality, individual differences, social behavior, psychopathology and behavior disorders. The Department.

205F Introduction to Brain and Behavior. Study of the structure and function of the nervous system as it relates to consciousness and behavior. Emphasis on psychological explanations of perception, learning, attention, motivation, emotion and behavior disorders. Prerequisite, 101 or Biology 111 or 210, or consent of instructor. (Same as Neuroscience 205.) J. Johnson.

214S Personality. The definition, measurement and development of personality characteristics and their effects on behavior. Readings focus on empirical studies of personality processes, with emphasis on such topics as historical trends in approaches to the study of personality and its effect on social behavior, and current theoretical and methodological issues in personality psychology. Prerequisite, 101. Zarnoth.

216F Social Psychology. The study of the influence of social contexts on social behavior. Topics include social cognition, stereotyping and prejudice, self-esteem maintenance, attitudes and persuasion, helping behavior and aggression. Emphasis on experimental research methodology. Prerequisite, 101. Borton.

[221] Gender Development. Examination of biological and socio-cultural influences on individuals' developing understanding of their own gender and of cultural expectations regarding gender roles and gender-stereotyped behaviors. Issues of personal relationships and individual achievement in gendered understandings of the self throughout the lifespan. Emphasis on research methods in the study of social development. Prerequisite, 101.

223S Abnormal Psychology. Introduction to the study of abnormal behavior. Historical and cultural perspectives. Current understanding of major disorders, including affective, thought and personality disorders. Classification, diagnostic assessment, etiology, treatments and assessment of treatment efficacy. Focus on mental disorders and violence. Research methods in the study of abnormal behavior emphasized. Prerequisite, 101. Dunsmore.

232S Human Neuropsychology. Study of human brain function from the standpoint of experimental and clinical research in behavioral and cognitive neuroscience. Survey of research involving animals and humans, addressing presumed neural mechanisms for cognitive, motivational and emotional states. Analysis of aphasia, agnosias, apraxias and disconnection syndromes. Prerequisite, 101. (Same as Neuroscience 232.) J. Johnson.

[235] Educational Psychology. The application of psychological theory and research to educational problems. Topics include the cognitive psychology of school learning, academic motivation, measurement of achievement and ability, classroom behavior management and exceptional children. Prerequisite, 101.

[240] Psychology of Music. For full description, see Music 240.

[242] Psychopharmacology. A study of the effects of drugs on animal and human behavior. Topics include neuropharmacology, antipsychotics, analgesics, stimulants, hallucinogens, antidepressants, alcoholism, addiction and the implications of drug effects for neurochemical theories of behavior. Prerequisite, 205 or consent of instructor. (Same as Neuroscience 242.)

248S Organizational Psychology. The study of interpersonal behavior in work settings. Topics include the motivation of individuals and groups, group dynamics, organizational communication, leadership, conflict resolution and the social context of decision-making processes. Prerequisite, 101. Zarnoth.

249F Psychology and Law. The application of psychological research to the legal system. Discussion of assumptions in the law that can be informed by empirical research. Topics include jury functioning, eyewitness testimony and the psychology of criminal behavior. Prerequisite, 101. M. Johnson.

250S Practical Aspects of Learning and Cognition. The basic principles that govern the interaction of animals and humans with the environment, with emphasis on applied topics. These include Pavlovian and instrumental conditioning, schedules of reinforcement, attention and memory. Recommended for students who may be considering clinical applications that use applied behavior analysis, such as the New England Center for Children cooperative education program (see page 14). Field trip. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and two hours of laboratory for the first half of the course. Emphasis on research methods. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 20. Vaughan.

280E,S Statistics in Psychological Research. The application and interpretation of descriptive and inferential statistics in the study of psychological processes. Discussion of research design in the context of statistical techniques. Hypothesis testing using t-tests, analysis of variance, chi-square, regression and nonparametric techniques. Use of statistical computer programs to analyze data. Prerequisite, 101. The Department.

[290] Psychology of Reading and Language. Introductory survey of current research on the study of reading and language with an emphasis on cognitive psychological approaches to language comprehension and language production at the word, sentence and discourse levels. Derivation and evaluation of models of language processing in laboratory exercises and demonstrations. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

310S Attention and Performance. The selection and transformation of information from sensation and memory as they affect perception, learning, cognition and motor performance. Applications selected from reading, decision making, human factors and attentional disorders. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Vaughan.

315F Cognitive Psychology. Theoretical and methodological aspects of basic mental processes in attention, perception, memory, language and problem solving. Emphasis on development of original empirical projects. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Yee.

[324] Developmental Psychology. In-depth study of human development across the life span. Emphasis on age-related processes that influence cognitive and social development, and on research methodologies used in the study of developmental change. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20.

330F Principles of Neuroscience. Study of the structure and function of the nervous system, with particular emphasis on neurophysiology and neuropharmacology. Coverage of recent findings in developmental neurobiology and neural plasticity. Laboratory techniques including intracellular and extracellular recording from muscle cells, sensory neurons and motor neurons. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 205 or Biology 111. (Same as Biology 330 and Neuroscience 330.) Maximum enrollment, 18. Weldon.

335F Social and Emotional Development. How views of self and the social world are constructed in early childhood and change with maturation. How emotional experience and regulation change with maturation and life experience. Emphasis on social influences on construction of self- and world-views and on emotional experience and expression. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Dunsmore.

[336] Emotion. Psychological understanding of the expression and experience of emotion throughout the lifespan. Adaptive and maladaptive manifestations of emotional experiences and expression. Historical change in theoretical perspectives discussed. Laboratory component emphasizes research methods for assessing emotional experience and expression. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 203 or 280. Maximum enrollment, 20.

337S Advanced Social Psychology. Study of the experimental and correlational methods used to investigate social psychological processes. Class time devoted primarily to discussion of empirical research articles. Laboratory component emphasizes development of original research projects, often conducted in collaboration. Data collection, statistical analysis, papers based on findings, oral and poster presentations. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Borton.

338F Theory and Research in Personality Psychology. Review of personality theories with an emphasis on contemporary approaches. Topics include life stress, social support and coping. Emphasis on research methodology and practical applications of the results. Students will design and conduct research projects that contribute to sub-fields discussed in class. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Pierce.

350S Psychophysics and Sensory Physiology. An investigation of the anatomy, physiology and psychophysics of the senses. Introduction to the basic principles of sensory coding by an examination of visual, auditory, tactile, temperature, pain and chemical senses. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. (Same as Neuroscience 350.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Gescheider.

380S Educational and Psychological Assessment. An examination of historical and contemporary contexts of psychological testing. Focuses on the rationale for and uses of psychological testing, the social and ethical implications of testing, technical and methodological concerns and specific tests as they are used in educational, industrial/organizational, clinical and research settings. Three hours of class and two hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Nalbene.

[420] Seminar on Family Relationships: Theory and Research. Focus on the roles played by family relationships in personality development, social behavior and personal adjustment. Emphasis on the empirical bases of theoretical formulations regarding the nature of family relationships and the mechanisms by which family relationships influence a variety of outcomes for family members. Statistical and methodological techniques used. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 12.

445S Seminar in Psychotherapy and Behavior Change. A selective study of psychotherapy theories and their application. Foundation work in the process of psychotherapy will include intensive laboratory work in beginning interviewing and counseling skills. A broad range of theories and their application will be covered. Prerequisite, 280 and 223. Recommended to be taken in junior year if field project or internship is planned senior year. Maximum enrollment, 12. Kazin.

455S Field Study in Psychology. Seminar in psychological services combined with eight to 10 hours per week of field study in one of several cooperating local agencies and schools. Extensive written project addressing theoretical issues relevant to field work. Topics include methods in provision of psychological, educational and applied services, and methodological and ethical issues in psychotherapy, counseling and educational psychology. Prerequisite, one course in psychopharmacology or in social or developmental psychology, and consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors. Brané.

500-501E,S Senior Project. Supervised research on a specific problem in psychology or psychobiology based on proposals submitted to the department by the end of a student's junior year. Open to senior concentrators. The Department.

New England Center for Children

295N Analysis of Behavior: Principles and Classroom Applications.

Introduction to behavior modification and operant techniques, including clarification of more commonly used terms, with specific reference to application in the classroom. Overview of procedures and practices that have been successful in schools, communities and work settings. Field work required. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children.

[296N] Programmed Learning. Reviews the history and theoretical and experimental bases of programmed instruction and errorless learning. Emphasizes the detailed analysis of stimulus control – its measurement and ways to produce it. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children.

[297N] Biological Basis of Mental Retardation. Considers the relationship between biological malfunction of the brain in particular and the defective learning ability and other behavioral abnormalities that constitute mental retardation. Includes actual case presentations as illustrative examples. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children.

[348N] Community-Based Treatment. An overview of clinical and research studies related to community-based treatment, with an emphasis on the development of criteria for program evaluation. Students will participate in visits to treatment delivery sites. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children during the spring semester.

396N Systematic Inquiry in Applied Research. Requires each student to collect a comprehensive bibliography on a significant topic in applied behavior research and to complete a thorough review via written and oral presentations. Emphasizes the integration and analysis of experimental findings and theoretical foundations of the research area, the critical evaluation of current research and the identification of potentially fruitful future work. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children during the fall semester.

Public Policy

Paul Gary Wyckoff, Program Director

The Public Policy Program is administered through the departments of Economics, Government and Philosophy. A concentration in Public Policy consists of 251, 382 and the Senior Project; Economics 101, 102 and 275; Government 116, 230 (or Economics 265) and 338; and courses chosen from the following options:

one of the following four courses:

Government 117 Introduction to Political Theory
Philosophy 111 Contemporary Moral Issues
Philosophy 271 Ethics of Professions and Practices Philosophy 380 Philosophy of Law

one of the following two courses:

Philosophy 450 Seminar in Ethics: Ethical Theory
Philosophy 460 Seminar in Ethics: Contemporary Theories of Justice and one of the following nine “issue areas” courses:

Economics 316 Globalization and Gender
Economics 346 Monetary Policy
Economics 350 Economics of Poverty and Income Distribution
Economics 380 Environmental Economics
Government 275 Public Education: Policy, Politics and Ideology
Government 335 The Criminal Justice System
Sociology 202 Sociology of Education
Sociology 258 Poverty, Law and the Welfare State
Sociology 260 Racial and Ethnic Groups: The Sociology of Race and Ethnicity in America

The Senior Project may be completed in one semester (500) or two semesters (500-501). Concentrators must complete the following courses by the end of the junior year: 382; Economics 275; Government 116 and 230; one of the required courses in Philosophy; and one of the “issue areas” courses listed above.

No student may declare a concentration in Public Policy without either completing or being enrolled in 251. Students are strongly encouraged to take Government 230 (or Economics 265) by the end of the sophomore year. Credit from the Term in Washington Program may be substituted for up to two of the courses required for a concentration, with the approval of the program director. Students interested in pursuing graduate study in policy analysis or public management are encouraged to take additional courses in substantive areas of public policy and in mathematics and statistics. To qualify for honors in Public Policy, a student must submit a distinguished record in the concentration and perform with distinction in the Senior Project.

A minor in Public Policy consists of 251, Economics 101 and 275, Government 230 and Philosophy 111 (222). If the student's concentration is in Economics, Government or Philosophy, these courses cannot count in both the student's concentration and the minor. Instead, courses that are required for both the concentration and the minor will be used to satisfy concentration requirements, and they will be replaced by alternative courses in the minor requirements. These alternative courses will be chosen by the program director in consultation with the chair of the student's concentration department. In addition to the required courses, there are many other courses in the College curriculum that will be of interest to Public Policy concentrators. Students interested in the concentration should consult as early as possible with Professor Wyckoff.

251S Introduction to Public Policy. Survey of current policies and issues in areas such as economic development, education, the environment, health care and welfare. Perspectives on policy analysis from economics, philosophy and political science. Examination of methods and principles for evaluating policies. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, Economics 101. Open to juniors and seniors with consent of instructor. (Same as Economics 251 and Government 251.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Wyckoff.

382F Topics in Public Policy. Topic for 2001: Reform of Public Education in New York State. The application of theories and methods of evaluation, design and implementation in an intensive study of a significant problem of public policy. Emphasis on skills of analysis, writing and group problem-solving. Coursework may be supplemented by field work as well as participation by scholars and practitioners sponsored by the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 251. (Same as Government 382.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Wyckoff.

500-501 Senior Project. A one- or two-semester senior project, culminating in a thesis. The Program.

Religious Studies

Stephenson Humphries-Brooks, Chair, Fall (S) Jay H. Vest
Richard H. Seager, Chair, Spring (F) Jay G. Williams
Heidi M. Ravven (F)
Mary Virginia Rojas
Scott D. Seay

Special Appointment
Russell T. Blackwood III

A concentration in Religious Studies consists of nine courses, including one entry-level course and one 400-level seminar in which the senior project will normally be completed. At the time when the concentration is elected, the concentrator shall propose a carefully developed program of study, including, if desired, study abroad, for the approval of the department. Honors are awarded on the basis of a cumulative average of at least B+ (88) achieved in courses approved for the concentration and the completion of 501 with a 90 or better.

A minor consists of five courses, including at least one course at the 400 level, proposed by the student and approved by the department. Both concentrators and minors should identify themselves to a department member as soon as possible.

105F Origins. An introduction to the study of religion through an analysis of the life, thought and influence of five great figures: Gautama (the Buddha), Lao-tze, Confucius, Jesus and Mohammed. One lecture and two seminars each week. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first- and second-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 20. Williams.

108F Native American Religious Traditions. An introduction to the study of varied religious traditions throughout North America. Emphasis on both historical and contemporary expressions of ritual, ceremony, mythology, spiritual power and shamanism. Vest.

[111F] Ancient Jewish Wisdom: Introduction to the Bible. An analysis of major themes in the Jewish Bible (Old Testament). (Writing-intensive.) (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

115F Parables. Cross-cultural comparison of the parable. Emphasis given to parable as a form of religious speech. Includes selections from Jesus, Zen masters, Borges and Galeano. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Humphries-Brooks.

209F Religion in Mexican American (Chicana/o) Society. Critical analysis of Mexican American religious practices and symbols through reading history and literature and exploring visual arts and cultural practices. Rojas.

210F The World of Greece and the Ancient Mediterranean. For full description, see Greek 210.

216S Indian Thought. An introduction to Indian classical philosophical and religious thought. Emphasis on classical texts from Hindu and Buddhist traditions. Modern thinkers such as Vivekananda and M.K. Gandhi also covered. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies or Philosophy. (Same as Philosophy 216.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Williams.

218F The Word and the Spirit. An examination of classical poetry from both Asia and Europe as an expression of the sacred. Among poets to be studied will be Han Shan, Su Tung Po, Ryokan, Kalidasa, Jaydeva, Kabir, Rumi and Blake. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies. (Same as Comparative Literature 218.) Williams.

[219S] The Dao and the Buddha-Mind. A study of philosophical and religious writings from the Daoist and Ch'an (Zen) Buddhist traditions. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies or Philosophy. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[221S] Amerindian Religion and Culture. An examination of the religious beliefs and traditions of selected Native American groups, both historical and contemporary, as manifest within specified North American culture areas. Topics include Native group history, mythology, ceremonialism, art and shamanism.

[225S] Buddhist Worlds in the USA. Introduction to the Buddhist religion with primary focus on different forms of Buddhism in U.S. history and on the contemporary scene. Attention to Buddhist spirituality in both the Euro-American and Asian immigrant communities. Seager.

231S Literature of the Holocaust. A survey of responses to the Holocaust in fiction, film, memoir, drama and poetry. Readings often include works of Elie Wiesel, Primo Levi, Appelfeld, Schwarz-Bart, Brecht and Spiegelman. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Ravven.

238F History of Religions in America. Focus on the historical development of American religions from the colonial era to the present. Attention to the social and intellectual context, the interplay between dominant and marginalized religious groups, and the relationship between religion and government. Seay.

240F Classical Mythology. For full description, see Classical Studies 240.

[250S] Exodus. Close reading of the Biblical book of Exodus. Emphasis on reading from a modern Jewish scholarly perspective, including some grasp of Hebrew terms. Attention given to the Exodus motif as a defining category of subsequent Jewish identity and memory. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[257F] The New Testament. A critical introduction to the literature and history of early Christianity. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[270F] Christianity and Culture II: From the Scientific Revolution to the Present. Introduction to major developments in modern Christianity. Topics include Protestant and Catholic reformations, the challenges of science and religious romanticism. Special attention to secularism, commercialism and post-modernism.

[281F] The American Jewish Experience. An exploration of Jewish immigrant life, the adjustment to America, the conflict between generations, the impact of assimilation, anti-Semitism, the Holocaust, the founding of Israel and feminism, through historical sources, memoirs, short stories, novels and films. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

286S Comparative World Mythology. Comparative exploration of selected world mythologies, legends and folklore. Analysis of texts and cinema. Special emphasis given to mythography: the theory of myth, allegory, the language of symbols and metaphor, and value theory. Vest.

309S Religion and Race in America. Historical exploration of forms of Native American, Latina/o and African-American religion. Focus on the interaction between race and religion. Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies. Rojas.

[310F] Shamanism. An exploration of the phenomenon of shamanism, with particular emphasis upon Native North American cultures. Discussions will focus upon the nature of the ecstatic trance, the control and utilization of spiritual power and the changing role of the shaman within contemporary Native North American societies. Popular representations of shamans and the emergence of neoshamanism will also be examined. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[312F] Modern Jewish Thought. Intensive study of the thought of major modern Jewish thinkers. Analysis of selected works chosen from such thinkers as Baruch Spinoza, Moses Mendelssohn, Franz Rosenzweig, Martin Buber, Mordecai Kaplan, Emil Fackenheim, Joseph Soloveitchik, Emmanuel Levinas.

315S Islamic Thought. The history, beliefs, practices and philosophies of Islam. Attention given to current movements throughout the Muslim world. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or Religious Studies or consent of instructor. (Same as Philosophy 315.) Blackwood.

[317F] Jesus and the Gospels. A comprehensive introduction to the four Gospels, with special emphasis on the nature of early Christian views of Jesus. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[318S] Reading the Jewish Bible as Literature. Careful study of selected Jewish biblical writings (Old Testament). Attention to language, characterization and genre. Prerequisite, 111, 117, 250 or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2002-03.)

320S Environmentalism as Metaphor: Spirit, Nature and Civilization in Industrial and Post-Industrial America. The concept of environmentalism in contemporary American religion, scholarship, literature, ecology movements, and utopian and dystopian visions. Reading, research and oral and final written reports. Prerequisite, two courses in Religious Studies or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Seager.

335F Religion and Criminal Justice in America. Consideration of the various ways religion and the American criminal justice system intersect. Exploration of such themes as the religious foundation of the American criminal justice system, the place of religious leaders in criminal justice, religious assessments of capital punishment and freedom of religion in American prisons. Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies or Government. Seay.

[336F] Apocalypse and the Millennium. Topics include scriptural sources, medieval apocalypticism and varied expressions in the modern period. Special attention to uses in the interpretation of history.

376S Amerindians and Cinema. An exploration of the literary and cinematic depiction of Native Americans. Emphasizes cultural theory and historical accuracy. Attention to traditional cultural expression including mythology, legend, saga and literature. Focus on historical, ideological axioms and religious ethos in their dramatic transformation for cinema. Vest.

[380F] Philosophy as Spiritual Quest. Exploration through the close reading of texts the salvific or spiritual power attributed to the practice of philosophy by religious-philosophical thinkers from classical Greece to modern times. Readings taken from Greek, Jewish, Islamic and/or Christian works inspired by the Neoplatonic tradition. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies or Philosophy. Maximum enrollment, 20.

391F Amerindian Myth and Ritual. An extensive study of the myths and rituals of various Native North American cultures. Employing theories from the fields of mythological and ritual studies, examines how myth and ritual function in Native North American societies. Discussions focus on how myth and ritual are intricately connected in the expression of cultural world-view. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 108. Maximum enrollment, 20. Vest.

[407S] The Celluloid Savior. A seminar in biblical studies on the representation of Jesus in motion pictures. Prerequisite, two courses in Religious Studies or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12.

[410F] American Buddhism. Reading, reflection and research in Buddhist texts produced in the United States during the past 30 years. Attention to representatives of both Euro-American and Asian immigrant communities. Prerequisite, two courses in Religious Studies and/or Philosophy. Maximum enrollment, 12.

412F Seminar in Early Christianity. Topic for Fall 2001: The Gospel of Matthew. Exploration of topics in the routinization of Christianity from sect to religion during its foundational period. Attention to literature, history and the social dynamics of change. Prerequisite, two courses in Religious Studies or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Humphries-Brooks.

425S Mahayana Buddhism. A seminar in the various traditions of Mahayana Buddhism through an analysis of selected texts in translation and secondary sources. Prerequisite, two courses in Religious Studies or consent of instructor. (Same as Philosophy 425.) Maximum enrollment, 12. Williams.

431S Seminar in Judaism. Exploration of topics in Jewish philosophical, religious and political thought through the close reading of classical Jewish texts. Prerequisite, at least two courses from among Religious Studies, Philosophy and political theory. Maximum enrollment, 12. Ravven.

[435S] Eros and Spirituality. A seminar devoted to a close reading of Asian and European classics which address the question: what is the relation between eros and the spirit? Some attention will also be paid to the visual arts and music. (Next offered 2002-03.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

476S Seminar in Native American Religious Traditions. An examination of traditional Native American narratives. Employs theories from mythological, ritual and literary studies. Focus on the interconnection of orality, myth and ritual in cultural expression of Native American world views. Prerequisite, two courses in Religious Studies or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Vest.

501E,S Honors Program. A project resulting in a substantial essay supervised by a member of the department. Open to qualified senior concentrators. The Department.

Rhetoric and Communication

Catherine W. Kaha, Chair
James Helmer

Susan A. Mason

The discipline of Communication investigates the ways in which humans create shared experiences through the languages of voice, text, gesture and image. Courses in the department focus on two broad themes. Topics in Human Communication address the complex processes involved in communicating with others. Topics in Media Policy Studies investigate how communication technologies shape our view of the social world.

New technological and social environments are rapidly altering how, when and why we communicate. Given the instant access to voice, text, gesture and image, “speech” now means many different things. The department draws on traditional rhetorical practices to address the changing nature of speech in a highly mediated society.

The department contributes to a concentration and a minor in Communication Studies. See “Communication Studies” for the appropriate requirements.

101E,S Foundations of Communication. Introduction to the major questions investigated by the discipline. Focus on selected theoretical approaches, their distinct concerns and historical roots. Exams and exercises aimed at developing analytical and practical skills. Applications and examples drawn from a wide range of communication practices in contemporary society. Helmer.

110E,S Public Speaking. Study of the nature, purposes and means of public speaking. Practice in formal expository and persuasive spoken communication. Emphasis on research, organization, ethics, audience analysis and adaptation, in preparation for effective speaking. Requirements include oral and written evaluations, conferences and videotaping. Maximum enrollment, 18. Helmer and Kaha.

[210] Rhetorical Studies. Study of the rhetorical foundations that guide the activity of speaking. Analysis of structural components of the message, presentation strategies for diverse audiences, verbal and nonverbal immediacy. Distinctions between written and spoken forms of communication highlighted in order to develop an appreciation of complexities of public presentation.

220S Persuasion. Study and practice in the ways people influence each other through oral communication. Theoretical principles applied to various subjects, audiences and situations, ranging from public communication to interpersonal bargaining and negotiation. Topics include attitudes and beliefs, identification and congruity, source credibility, strategic choices and ethics. Prerequisite, 101 or 110. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. The Department.

[222] Interpersonal Communication. Study and practice of communication behaviors of interpersonal relationships in both natural interactional and experimental settings. Topics include self-concept and impression management, interdependence and assertiveness, expression of emotions, conflict management, influences of gender and culture. Goal-oriented lessons and activities. Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor.

230S Small-Group Communication. Research on how individuals contribute to group processes. Investigates diverse communicative practices involved in identifying, maintaining and negotiating groups, in a variety of contexts. Topics include principles, rules and customs that govern group decision-making dynamics. Experiential learning in deliberation and problem solving. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 18. Mason.

[235] Orality and Literacy. Study of oral and literate cultures, focusing on new social structures that emerge with the transition to literacy. Orality is contrasted with iconographic characters, emergence of alphabet and development of Gutenberg printing press.

[245] Methodologies in Communication. Study of qualitative and quantitative methods used to evaluate and ground claims about communication. Discussion of historical perspectives, advantages and disadvantages of distinct approaches. Relevant for students planning senior projects. Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor.

[258S] Nonverbal Communication and Social Interaction. For full description, see Anthropology 258.

[260] Visual Communication. Study of visual forms as a distinct component of communication. Emphasis on psychological, philosophical and aesthetic elements of visual communication. Investigation of figure-ground gestalt, iconographic form and function, and ontological primacy of visual experience.

270F Public Affairs Journalism. For full description, see English 270.

[280] Conflict Mediation. Examines the nature of conflict in American life and offers alternatives to adversarial practices. Emphasizes individualistic and collectivistic perspectives, drawing on cross-cultural examples of mediation. Exploration of crucial role of conflict in communication. Hypothetical scenarios used requiring students to mediate conflicting needs of diverse participants. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor.

302S Communication Theory. Study of theoretical approaches for analysis of human communication. Major theorists reviewed, contrasted and applied. Discussion of problematic concepts such as meaning, intent and effectiveness. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. The Department.

310F Media Form and Theory. Investigates the impact of mass media on American Society in order to more clearly understand the problems of living in a world dominated by media technology. Examines relationships between various components of the media process, focusing on how media alters our understanding of politics, persons and communities. Maximum enrollment, 25. Kaha.

325F Cross-Cultural Communication. Theory and analysis of case studies of cross-cultural communication research. Examines how communication patterns give voice to culture through the construction and evaluation of cultural identities. Prerequisite, 101 or Anthropology 125, or consent of instructor. The Department.

[341] Organizational Communication. Survey, analysis and application of current theory and research on communication in organizations. Study of the effect of communication on member satisfaction and productivity. Topics include communication structures, functions and contexts in organizations. Development of diagnostic and evaluative instruments. Prerequisite, 101 or 230 recommended.

[360] Ethics. Investigation of explicit and implicit values that structure communication practices. Analysis of media ethics, relational ethics and organizational ethics. Topic is framed by a study of utopian societies. Students create and discuss hypothetical utopian societies that display diverse approaches to ethical dilemmas.

[375] Seminar: Communication, Language and Gender. Exploration of ways in which communicative and linguistic habits reflect societal values and stereotypical thinking in gender-related issues. Strategies and techniques for changing those habits that negatively affect the personal and professional development of women and men. (Same as Women's Studies 375.)

392S Seminar: Technology and Society. Theoretical analysis of how communication technology alters social construction of time, space, community and identity. Readings detail historical precedents in order to address future implications of emerging technologies. Prerequisite, 310 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Kaha.

[450] First Amendment: Freedom of Speech. Detailed investigation of the First Amendment. Study of case law which contributes to creation of a unique American perspective on the role of speech in a free society. Exploration of historical origins of the first amendment, political consequences and technological constraints. Legal distinctions regarding print, broadcast and electronic media focus on implications for the 21st century.

Romance Languages and Literature

Roberta L. Krueger, Chair

The Department of Romance Languages and Literature offers programs of instruction and concentrations in French and in Spanish. The foreign language is used as much as possible in the introductory courses, while all upper-level classes are conducted entirely in the foreign idiom. Because modern language study is not an abstract learning exercise limited to the classroom, the department strongly recommends study abroad and sponsors its own Junior Year in France and Academic Year in Spain programs.

Concentrators in the Classes of 2001 and 2002 may follow either the requirements listed below or those outlined in the 1999-2000 College Catalogue. A concentration in French consists of nine courses numbered 140 or higher, including 200; 211 or 212; 250 or 280; two 400-level courses; and two electives at the 300 or 400 level; an additional quarter-credit course, 395, is also required in the senior year. Any history, civilization or culture course offered by another department and concentrating specifically on France or another Francophone country satisfies the 250-280 requirement but will not count as one of the nine concentration courses.

During their senior year, concentrators in French must: 1) enroll in at least one 400-level course during both the fall and spring semesters; one of these courses must focus on literature before 1800; 2) complete a one-quarter credit course, 395; 3) complete a substantial research paper in a 400-level course, normally in the spring semester; 4) participate in an assessment of their oral proficiency in an interview conducted by outside examiners early in the spring semester. Concentrators may not normally fulfill the requirement for the major through the election of a 200-level course during their senior year. A complete description of the Senior Program is available in Christian Johnson 202.

To attain honors in French, students must have an average of A- or better in all coursework in the department and must, during the spring semester of their senior year, complete a third course (550) with an average of A- or better on both the required paper and the oral defense. Candidates for honors are exempt from writing a research paper in their required 400-level class; they will fulfill all other requirements of the class.

A minor in French consists of five courses numbered 140 or higher, including at least one literature course and one course at the 300-level or higher.

Hamilton College Junior Year in France

After a preliminary four-week orientation in Biarritz, students register at the Université de Paris III. In consultation with the director, they select a program of four courses per semester from those offered at Paris III or at other institutes such as the Institut d'Études Politiques, the Institut Catholique and the Ecole du Louvre. In addition, a number of special courses taught by French professors are arranged by Hamilton in Paris.

The Université de Paris and the special institutes announce their courses at the beginning of each academic year. The director makes specific course information available to students as soon as possible. Many various courses in art history, economics, French language and literature, history, music, philosophy, political science, sociology and theatre are offered. Students are urged to take at least one semester of a language class and are encouraged to select a balanced program of courses in different disciplines. A detailed description of selected courses offered in 2001-02 is contained in the program's catalogue.

All courses taken with the Hamilton College Junior Year count toward the graduation requirement. However, students with concentrations other than French must consult with the appropriate department before departure about transfer of credit for the concentration.

The Hamilton College Junior Year in France is for a full academic year. The department believes that far greater linguistic and cultural benefits are gained from an academic year in France, rather than from a semester. Concentrators and other serious language students are therefore encouraged to participate in the nine-month program.

110F First-Term French. A thorough grounding in speaking, writing, reading and comprehension. Textbook readings and exercises supplemented by short poems and films. (Proseminar.) Four hours of class, with additional drill and laboratory work. Intended for beginners. First-year students who follow the sequence through 140 may qualify for the Junior Year in France Program, with consent of the director. Maximum enrollment, 16. Spires.

111F Intensive French Review. A fast-paced course for students who have had some French in high school but need a thorough review of basics before continuing. Grammatical review and intensive oral and written practice. (Proseminar.) Four hours of class a week; regular lab work and weekly hour of drills with an assistant. Students who complete the class with C or better can enroll in 130 in the spring. Maximum enrollment, 16. Van de Wiele.

120S Second-Term French. Further work in aural comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. Four hours of class, with additional drill and laboratory work. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 110. Students placed in 111 should select 111F, which is a general review; 120S is a continuation of 110. Maximum enrollment, 16. Van de Wiele.

130ES Third-Term French. Review of grammar and syntax. Reading and vocabulary training. Oral practice. Three hours of class, with additional drill and laboratory work. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 111 or 120. Maximum enrollment, 16. Dalle (Fall); Krueger (Spring).

140ES Fourth-Term French. Intensive practice in oral and written expression. Reading and discussion of selected texts. Introduction to composition. (Proseminar.) Three hours of class and one hour of discussion. Maximum enrollment, 16. O'Neal (Fall); Mwantuali (Spring).

200ES Introduction to French Studies. A "bridge" course between language and content-based courses. Focus on written and oral argumentation; introduction to the analysis of literary and cultural texts; survey of social issues in France. Advanced grammar in context and vocabulary building. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Spires (Fall); Dalle (Spring).

211F Introduction to French Literature I. Study of representative works of literature from 1800 to the present within their sociopolitical and intellectual context. Special attention given to literary analysis. Oral participation required. Written and oral reports. (Proseminar.) Taught in French. Although not a prerequisite, 200 is strongly recommended. Maximum enrollment, 16. Mwantuali.

212S Introduction to French Literature II. Study of representative genres from the Middle Ages to 1800: the epic, romance, the lai, lyric poetry, theatre and prose fiction. Focus on problems and techniques of literary analysis. Class discussion, oral presentations and papers. (Proseminar.) Taught in French. Although not a prerequisite, 200 is strongly recommended. Maximum enrollment, 16. Krueger.

[237] Francophone Literature in Translation: The African Novel. Critical examination of the novel's evolution from the colonial period through independence and on to post-colonial writing. No knowledge of French required. Taught in English. Although not a prerequisite, one 200-level course in French or Africana Studies is recommended. (Same as Africana Studies 237.)

250S Exploring Contemporary France. Variety of perspectives on 20th-century France including geography and history; recent evolution of France within the European and Francophone context; social groups and popular culture. Class material includes documentaries and films. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 140; 200 is strongly recommended. Maximum enrollment, 16. Dalle.

252F Remembering the Past, Reassessing the Present. Using as a point of departure Pierre Nora's Les Lieux de mémoire, this course will focus on many of the crucial places, times and events – the memory of which have become part of the French collective consciousness. These have not only shaped France's past but also given rise to its contemporary culture. Oral presentations and written papers. (Proseminar.) Prerequisite, 200 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 16. O'Neal.

253S Cultures of the Francophone World. An investigation of the cultures and literatures of the Francophone world, with focus on the Caribbean and sub-Saharan Africa. Exploration of such issues as modernity and the family, tradition, Bantu philosophy, negritude and Voodoo, music, fashion and cuisine. These are explored in the context of multiculturalism, alienation and identity politics. Course materials include films, videos and works in translation. Taught in English. (Same as Africana Studies 253.) Mwantuali.

[260] French Women: From 1789 to the Present. Drawing upon historical documents and women's contribution to fiction, film and the periodical press, this course examines representations of women by women in France from Olympe de Gouge's 1791 "Rights of Women" to the 1990s movement for political parité. Emphasis on both the forms and concerns of women's cultural production and on its changing role in the creative arts and the social and political arenas. Class discussion, independent projects, oral and written reports. Taught in French. Prerequisite, 200 or consent of instructor. May be counted as an elective for senior concentrators. (Same as Women's Studies 260.) Maximum enrollment, 16.

[270] The Art of Translation. Study of the theory and practice of literary translation in French and English. Comparative analysis of translations of different periods and genres. Students prepare their own translations in English of selected poems or short texts. Taught in French and English. Prerequisite, one 200-level course in French or consent of instructor.

[275] Phonetics and Conversation. An introduction to the phonetic alphabet and the production of French sounds. General tendencies of spoken French, with concentration on the special problems of Americans. Pronunciation exercises and individual correction will alternate with discussion of current events in France. Prerequisite, 200 or consent of instructor. Departmental consent required for those who have studied in a French-speaking country.

[280] Francophone Cultures. An introduction to cultures of different French-speaking areas beyond the Hexagon: Africa, the Caribbean, Canada. Topics include the history of slavery, colonization and neo-colonization; literatures; sculptures, masks, paintings; fashion; and cuisines. Discussion based on readings, films and presentations by native informants. Taught in French. (Proseminar.) Although not a prerequisite, 200 is strongly recommended. Instructor's consent required for those returning from study in France. (Same as Africana Studies 280.) Maximum enrollment, 16.

[286] Women Writers of the French Middle Ages. Analysis of women's writings in France and Anglo-Norman England from Merovingian Gaul to the Hundred Years' War. Authors include Radegund, Dhuoda, Heloise, Clemence of Barking, Marie de France, the female troubadours, Marguerite Porete and Christine de Pizan. Topics include women's roles in families, courts and convents; motherhood, martyrdom, mysticism, heresy; and women's production of culture. (Writing-intensive.) Taught in translation. (Same as Women's Studies 286.)

295S Advanced Composition and Oral Practice. Readings in current events in the francophone world and viewings of films provide the basis for discussions. Oral exposes and short papers. Particularly intended for students who wish to hone their speaking and writing skills before study abroad. (Proseminar.) Taught entirely in French. Prerequisite, 200 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 16. O'Neal.

[370] Special Topics: Living Theatre. Study of selected plays dealing with social issues such as political power, class relations, love and courtship, and family values from Molière to the present. Emphasis placed on orality and performance. Students participate in a public performance. Other playwrights studied include Marivaux, Dumas fils, Rostand, Jarry, Apollinaire, Anouilh, Sartre and Ionesco. Taught in French. Prerequisite, 211 or 212 or consent of the instructor. May be counted as an elective for senior concentrators but not as one of the required advanced seminars.

372S Special Topics: Histoire(s) du Grand Ecran: Introduction to French Cinema. Introduction to selected major films of French national cinema, from classics of the acknowledged canon to more popular mainstream films. Focus on developing critical skills for active viewing; learning about economic, social and political factors that have contributed to this major form of French art; examining what French cinema has been saying about France as a cultural institution for more than 100 years. Papers, exams and student presentations. Prerequisite, any 200-level course or consent of instructor. May be counted as an elective for senior concentrators but not as one of the required advanced seminars. Taught entirely in French. Spires.

395F Stylistics, Critical Approaches, Research Methods. Review of essential elements of French style, examination of selected critical approaches used in the writing of cultural and literary studies, survey of methods of library and electronic research and bibliography. A quarter-credit course that prepares senior concentrators to write a major paper in a 400-level course in the Spring. Limited to senior concentrators. Optional in 2000-02 and required thereafter. The Department.

403F In Her Own Voice: French Women Writers of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. Analysis of works by women in France during the first 1,000 years of French literary history. Authors include Radegund, Dhuoda, Héloïse, Marie de France, the female troubadors and trouveres, Marguérite Porète, Christine de Pizan and Louise Labé. Topics include the problem of female voices in manuscript culture; women's roles in convents, courts and the family; spirituality and heresy; sexuality and desire; changing ideas of honor; female authors' critique of misogyny; and their rewriting of courtly and clerical models. Oral presentations and written projects. Taught in French. Prerequisite, 211 or 212. Course designed for senior concentrators. Krueger.

[405] Medieval Lovers. An examination of the "faces of love" through different medieval literary genres. Authors and works read include Marie de France's Lais, Tristan et Iseut, Chrétien de Troyes, Guillaume de Lorris, Aucassin et Nicolette, Adam de la Halle's Le jeu de la feillée and fabliaux. Prerequisite, 211 or 212 or consent of instructor. Limited to juniors and seniors or consent of instructor.

[406] Comic Visions in French Literature from the Fabliaux to Figaro. Analysis of comic perspectives on society, language and literature from Old French farce through the early modern period. Works and authors include Aucassin et Nicolette, selected fabliaux, the Farce de Maistre Pathelin, Marguérite de Navarre, Rabelais, Molière and Le Mariage de Figaro. Taught in the original French or in modern French translation when appropriate. Prerequisite, 211 or above, or consent of instructor.

[408] The Masters of French Classical Comedy. Discussion of the comical elements in several dramatic masterpieces by Molière, Marivaux and Beaumarchais serves as the point of departure for an analysis of the society and culture of 17th- and 18th-century France. Prerequisite, 211 or 212. Course designed for senior concentrators.

410S Bewildered, Befuddled and Benighted: The Enlightenment's Poetics of Confusion. Paradoxically and for a variety of reasons, 18th-century French literature often represents order through disorder, sociability through confinement and clarity of thinking through confusion. Authors include Prévost, Voltaire, Graffigny and Diderot. Rousseau and Laclos will be used to illustrate the possible consequences of this kind of enlightenment. Prerequisite, one 300- or 400-level literature class. Limited to juniors and seniors or consent of instructor. O'Neal.

[415] Writing the City: Literary Paris. Examination of the ways in which an increasingly modern Paris looms large in the 19th-century literary imagination. Topics include money, licit and illicit pleasure, alienation, flânerie, fashion, urban renewal and decadence. Attention to the historical and social geography of 19th-century Paris complements close readings of Balzac, Girardin, Flaubert, Baudelaire, Zola and Verne. Prerequisite, 211 or above, or consent of instructor.

[425] Powers of Desire: The Nineteenth-Century French Novel. Examination of how desire fuels French fictional narrative, from the Romantic "mal du siècle" to the Decadent "fin du siècle." Topics include sexuality and selfhood, prostitution, consumerism, fetishism and vampirism. Attention given to contemporaneous non-literary discourses taking up these topics such as medicine and the law. Authors studied may include Chateaubriand, Duras, Sand, Balzac, Flaubert, Zola, Verne, Rachilde. Emphasis on student-run discussion, oral presentations, written papers and a final exam. Prerequisite, 211 or 212. A course designed for senior concentrators.

431S Novel and Society: Spectacle and Celebration in the Nineteenth Century. Among the many social phenomena that the 1789 revolution gave rise to, theatricality and festivity went on to be fundamental elements of French culture in the 19th century. Focus on novels of social commentary and aesthetic experimentation in which these two closely related cultural practices play a major role. Topics include the carnivalesque, intoxication, the grotesque, folklore, ritual, masking, performance, transgression and taboo, decadence, definitional ceremonies and the construction of identity. Authors studied may include Hugo, Balzac, Flaubert, Sand, Maupassant, Zola. Emphasis on student-run discussion, oral presentations, written papers and a final exam. Prerequisite, one 300- or 400-level literature class. Limited to juniors and seniors or consent of instructor. Spires.

[435] Reality as Fragment: Surrealism, the Absurd and Commitment Between the Two Wars. Artistic reactions to World War I and anticipation of World War II. Focus on Surrealist movement and on authors/thinkers who systematically questioned social and political assumptions about coherence and meaning. Dream, idealism, the self and ideology. Readings from Aragon, Breton, Yourcenar, Giraudoux, Michaux and Malraux. Class material includes poetry, narratives and visual art with work on Surrealist painting and cinema and Renoir's La Règle du jeu. Prerequisite, 211 or above, or consent of instructor.

[440] Lessons Learned: Education in Twentieth-Century Literature. Exploration of literary and cinematic portrayals of youth and the passage to adulthood, with a focus on the role of the school. Topics include the adolescent body, gendered identity, social structures and narrative strategies. Authors studied include Colette, Alain-Fournier, Gide, Sagan, Ernaux and Duras. Prerequisite, one 300- or 400-level literature class. Taught in French. Limited to juniors and seniors or consent of instructor.

[445] War in Twentieth-Century Literature. Exploration of various ways of writing about war, with an emphasis on novel and film. Textual analysis will be used to examine the notion of commitment, parody, the writing of history and the treatment of reality in modern fiction. Introduction to narrative technique and theories of the novel. Authors studied include Cocteau, Duras, Leduc, Gracq and Modiano. Taught in French. Prerequisite, one 200-level course or consent of instructor.

455F Studies in Francophone Literature: The African Novel. Critical examination of the novel's evolution from the colonial period through independence and on to post-colonial writing. The search for authenticity and answers to problems of narrative technique, oral and written traditions, audience, African feminism, politics and the role of the writer. Authors include Lomani Tshibamba, Sembene Ousmane, Nafissatou Diallo, Andrée Blouin, Valentine-Yves Mudimbe, Ahmadou Kourouma, Henri Lopes, Calixthe Beyala, Aminata Sow Fall and Mariama Bâ. Taught in French. Prerequisite, one 200-level course in French or consent of instructor. Course designed for senior concentrators. (Same as Africana Studies 455.) Mwantuali.

550S Honors Project. Independent study program consisting of the preparation and oral defense of a paper for students who qualify as candidates for departmental honors. Only students having an average of A- or better in courses counting toward the concentration at the end of the first semester of the senior year may qualify. In order to earn honors, other requirements must be fulfilled as outlined above. The Department.

The Spanish program offers a diverse Hispanic curriculum that includes Spanish language study for both non-natives and native speakers, and Latin American, Spanish and U.S. Latino/a literature and culture studies. The Spanish concentration consists of nine courses numbered 140 or higher, including 200, 210 or 211, two electives in the 200 series, three electives at the 300 or 400 level – including at least one in both Latin American and Peninsular fields (one of these must focus on literature before 1800). Any history, civilization or culture course offered by another department that focuses specifically on Latin America, Spain or U.S. Latino studies may satisfy the 200-level requirement but will not count as one of the nine concentration courses. Concentrators may include one course in translation as one of the required courses for either the major or the minor. In order to complete the Senior Program, senior concentrators in Spanish must: 1) enroll in a 300- or 400-level course during both the fall and spring semesters; 2) complete a substantial research paper in a 300 or 400-level course, either in the fall or spring semesters; 3) participate in an assessment of their oral proficiency in an interview conducted by outside examiners early in the spring semester; 4) pass a three-hour comprehensive examination in the spring semester that covers three selected areas of Hispanic literature or culture studies (Spanish and Latin American fields required; U.S. Latino/a literature may be chosen as the third area but is not required). Concentrators may not normally fulfill the requirement for the major through the election of a 200-level course during their senior year. A complete description of the Senior Program is available in Christian Johnson 202. To attain honors in Spanish, students must have an average of B+ (88) or better in the nine courses required for the major, must enroll in 400 during fall semester and must complete 550 (Senior Thesis) with an average of A- or better during the spring semester of the senior year. (Candidates for honors are exempt from writing a research paper in one of the 300- or 400-level courses; they will fulfill all other regular course requirements.)

The Spanish minor consists of five courses numbered 200 or higher, including 210 or 211, and at least one course at the 300 level or higher (excluding courses in translation).

All students wishing to concentrate or minor in Spanish are strongly encouraged to study abroad in a Spanish-speaking country, either in Spain, Latin America or the Spanish-speaking Caribbean.

Hamilton College Academic Year in Spain

The Academic Year in Spain was established in 1974 to offer the highest possible academic standards (distinguished professors, small classes and the speaking of Spanish only), along with careful attention to the intellectual, cultural and social needs of each student. Directors-in-residence are drawn from Hamilton, Williams and Swarthmore colleges. The program is administered at Hamilton by a general director and by the Programs Abroad Committee of the Department of Romance Languages. Also affiliated with the program are Amherst and Haverford colleges. All courses are taught entirely in Spanish and encompass a wide variety of linguistic and cultural areas, including advanced language, the art of translation, the history of Spanish art, cinema, analysis of poetic texts, Cervantes, contemporary theater, 19th- and 20th-century narrative, contemporary Spanish and Latin American history, the economy of Spain, anthropology, sociology, contemporary Spanish politics, folklore and music, and the role of Spain within the current European context. The courses are given by members of the Facultad de Filosofía y Letras of the Universidad Complutense de Madrid or by other authorities in the field of letters, history, social science or the arts. Language and civilization classes form part of a fall orientation program in the northern coast village of Comillas, while a similar arrangement for spring students takes place in the town of Nerja on the southern coast. Frequent group excursions to all parts of Spain serve to complement the rich academic and social opportunities of the capital city. The program is open to sophomores, juniors and first-semester seniors. Although it is in principle a full-year program, application may be made for either the fall or spring sessions. To be eligible, students must normally have completed at least one 200-level Spanish course and have a strong academic average.

110F First-Term Spanish. Intended for beginners. Thorough grounding in aural comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. Interactive study of Spanish grammar with strong emphasis on oral and written production. First year students who follow the sequence through 140 may qualify for study abroad. (Proseminar.) Four hours of class, with additional TA session and laboratory work. Taught in Spanish. Maximum enrollment, 16. Landrón.

[115] Spanish Immersion I. Designed for exceptionally motivated beginning students who wish to accelerate their acquisition of Spanish. Intensive and interactive study of all of the basic grammatical structures of Spanish, with particular emphasis on writing and speaking. Successful completion will place students into 130 or 135. (Proseminar.) Three 50-minute and two 75-minute classes a week, plus an additional three hours of laboratory work and TA session. Taught in Spanish. Two course credits. Maximum enrollment, 16.

120E,S Second-Term Spanish. Continuing interactive study of Spanish grammatical and lexical structures begun in 110, with special emphasis on speaking and writing. (Proseminar.) Four hours of class, with additional TA session and laboratory work. Taught in Spanish. Prerequisite, 110 or placement. Maximum enrollment, 16. Swarthout (Fall). Carrero Peña (Spring).

130E,S Third-Term Spanish. Intensive review of grammar and syntax at the intermediate level, with key emphasis on writing and speaking. Selected readings and in-class activities form the basis for further work in all the language skills. (Proseminar.) Four hours of class with additional laboratory work and TA session. Taught in Spanish. Prerequisite, 120 or placement. Maximum enrollment, 16. William.

135S Spanish Immersion II. Designed for exceptionally motivated intermediate students who wish to accelerate their acquisition of Spanish. Continuation of Spanish 115. Intensive training in grammar and syntax with special interactive emphasis on speaking, writing and reading. A thorough review of all grammar at the intermediate level is followed by cultural readings and small group activities similar to those of 140. Successful completion will place students into 200. (Proseminar.) Two course credits. Three 50-minute and two 75-minute classes a week, plus an additional three hours of laboratory work and TA session. Taught in Spanish. Prerequisite, 115 or 120 or placement. Maximum enrollment, 16. Solano.

140E,S Conversation on Hispanic Cultures. Intense focus on speech emergence and oral presentation. Study of diverse cultural readings and other aesthetic productions as a basis for refinement of grammar comprehension and as a means to further improve writing, reading and listening skills. (Proseminar.) Three hours of class, with additional activities, TA sessions and laboratory work. Taught in Spanish. Prerequisite, 130 or placement. Maximum enrollment, 16. Solano (Fall); Swarthout, William (Spring).

200E,S Exploring Hispanic Texts. Study of diverse cultural readings selected from the work of Latin American and Peninsular writers. Focus on written and oral argumentation; introduction to the interpretation of literary texts. Advanced grammar in context and vocabulary building. Course emphasizes writing, oral presentation and the refinement of speech and pronunciation. (Writing-Intensive.) (Proseminar.) Three hours of class and TA session. Taught in Spanish. Prerequisite, grade of C+ or better in Spanish 135 or 140, or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 16. Tejerina-Canal, William (Fall). Tejerina-Canal, Landrón (Spring).

201F Spanish for Native Speakers. Integrated review of the grammatical structure of Spanish for bilingual students, with intense emphasis on writing. Major emphasis placed on anthropological linguistics, with special focus on the political and cultural history of U.S. Latinos/as and related issues of immigration, bilingualism, English-Only and political resistance. Literary and prose readings by Latin American and U.S. Latino/a authors, as well as videos. Intense interaction focused on discussion and oral and written argumentation. (Writing-Intensive.) (Proseminar.) Three hours of class and TA session. Prerequisite, placement exam or consent of instructor. Taught in Spanish. Maximum enrollment, 16. Carrero Peña.

Honor concentrators must normally take the Senior Seminar (400) during the fall of their senior year. The Department.

Russian Studies

Faculty Program Committee

Franklin A. Sciacca, Chair (Russian)
John Bartle (Russian)

Shoshana Keller (History)
Sharon W. Rivera (Government)

Russian Studies is an interdisciplinary program focusing on the language, literature, culture, historical development and politics of Russia. The concentration in Russian Studies consists of nine courses: the core courses Russian Studies 221, 222 and 370; five other courses from the list below; and the Senior Project (550), which must include use of Russian language sources. Completion of the Senior Project requires registration in 550. A copy of the description of the Senior Program is available in Christian A. Johnson 208. Study in Russia may be counted toward the concentration. Honors will be determined by excellence in coursework and the Senior Project. A minor in Russian Studies consists of Russian 210 and three other Russian Studies courses.

The program also offers instruction in Russian language. Beginning in the first-year course, attention is paid to the cultural context of the language. Emphasis is placed on the language of contemporary Russian media at the second-year level, followed by close readings of Russian literature in the original at the third-year level. Study in Russia is strongly recommended for those interested in Russian Studies.

Courses in Translation

100S Introduction to Russian Civilization: The Silver Age. A team-taught introduction to the civilization of Russia through an examination of its historical, cultural, artistic and political development. The Silver Age was a period of explosive cultural change. Russian music, dance, literature and fine arts in this period astonished the world, while Russian political and social experiments terrified it. We will study Russia at its most glorious and its most bloodthirsty, and try to understand how such creativity and destruction can co-exist. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Keller.

[101S] The Rise and Fall of the European Empires: Culture and Society in Berlin, Moscow, St Petersburg and Vienna at the Turn of the Century. Focus on the artistic renaissance of the great urban centers of Central and Eastern Europe at a time of social upheaval and political decline, 1890-1917. Particular attention paid to cross-cultural artistic interaction. Conducted in English, but optional discussion groups in original language offered. (Same as German 101.)

169S Images from the Stage and the Silver Screen: Russian Theater and Film. Survey of 20th-century theatrical and cinematic productions from Russia and Eastern Europe. A concentration in Theatre consists of 11 credits. The performance track consists of 101, 102, 105, 141 or 142, 201, 202, 301, 307; two of the following: 211, 235, 238, 245, 255; 500 and 560. Performance track majors must audition for all mainstage productions. The directing, theory and playwriting track consists of 101, 105, 110, 141 or 142, 201, 224, 303, 307, two of the following: 211, 235, 238, 245, 255; 500, 550 or 560. Directing, theory and playwriting majors must participate in at least one main-stage production in a non-performance capacity. Students are encouraged to elect additional courses in art, music and dance.

The Senior Program requirement in Theatre may be fulfilled through a satisfactory completion of one of the following options: a Senior Thesis (550), which may be a research paper or the composition of a play; or Senior Performance/Production (560), which may be an acting showcase, the directing of a play or designing for a departmental production. No student who has completed the requirements and maintained an 85 average in Theatre courses will be prohibited from selecting a performance/production as the Senior Project. Students falling below the 85 average will be required to take the research option, or to register for an independent study prior to the project as preparation.

Departmental honors may be earned through outstanding achievement in coursework, a history of distinguished contribution to the Theatre program and excellence in the performance, composition or production component of the Senior Program, as judged by the department.

A minor in Theatre may be acquired in performance (101, 102 or 201, 110, 307 and one elective) or design/production (105, 110, 212, 213 or 215, 307).

101F Introduction to Stage Performance. Exploration of the basic elements of theatrical performance and stage presence. Introduction to theatre vocabulary, performance concepts and skills, and the creative process through kinesthetic, vocal, sensory and imaginative exercises, as well as improvisation and stage action. An ensemble approach that relies on individual and group commitment and collaboration. (Proseminar.) Not open to juniors and seniors except with permission of the department. Maximum enrollment, 16. Cryer.

110F Public Voices: American Multicultural Theatre and Drama, An Introduction to Theatre. A study of theatre and drama as it reflects, represents and interprets diverse American cultures, focusing on selected contemporary plays and productions. Readings and discussions of plays, selected short readings in theory, history and criticism, and attendance at local performances. Consideration of the issues of texts, production, performance, meaning, context and style. No knowledge of theatre required. Not open to seniors. Bellini-Sharp.

141-142ES Production. The study of theatre through participation (performance and/or technical work) in a faculty-directed production. Casting by audition. One-half credit. Latrell (Fall); Bellini-Sharp (Spring).

201F Intermediate Acting. Exploration of physical, vocal, emotional and creative resources. Textual study, improvisation and performance. Focus on Brecht and other epic playwrights like Kushner and Soyinka. Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 16. Bellini-Sharp.

202S Intermediate Acting Workshop: Character and Language. Scene and monologue work, textual analysis and characterization. Focus on Shakespeare. Prerequisite, 102 or 201 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 16. Bellini-Sharp.

211F Dreamings and Tellings. A course in dreams, voice and performance, including the study of dream-based art and literature and the creation and presentation of original dream-based stories and performance pieces. Vocal work emphasizing breathing, centering and toning. Study of dream-based art and stories, and related theory and criticism, from diverse cultures to re-locate dreams and dreaming as both personal and cultural acts. Students' own dreams serve as "first-drafts" for stories and theatre pieces to be developed and performed. Maximum enrollment, 16. Bellini-Sharp.

213F Lighting Design. A lecture/laboratory course in lighting for the stage. Study of principles of composition, graphic notation, electrical practice and its control, eventuating in practical lighting designs with plots, sections and control charts. Prerequisite, 105. Burd.

[215S] Scene Painting. Study of the art and craft of painting for the theatre. Research into period designs and execution of examples of a variety of styles.

224F Playwriting. Introduction to the techniques of realistic and non-realistic playwriting through a variety of exercises and improvisations, culminating in the writing and staging of a one-act play. Prerequisite, 102, 110 or English 150. While no prior acting experience is required, students participate in staged readings of works. (Same as English 224.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Latrell.

235S Outrageous Acts: Avant-Garde Theatre and Performance Art. An examination of experimental art's capacity to shock and to force us to recognize ourselves from new and unexpected perspectives. The historical, cultural and philosophical origins and influences, as well as exemplary works from the early avant-garde movements (1890-1940) and more contemporary avant-garde theatre and performance art (1950-1990). Discussion of the art, music, literature, theatre and film of Surrealism, Symbolism, Expressionism, Dada, Futurism, Constructivism, Epic, Apollinaire, Breton, Artaud, Jarry, Meyerhold, Brecht, Stein, The Living Theatre, Grotowski, Monk, Robert Wilson, Foreman, The Wooster Group, Hughes, Finley, Neu. (Same as Art 235.) Latrell.

238F African-American Theatre. Study, discussion and oral performance of selected works of drama by African-Americans from the 1860s to the present. Focuses on themes within the plays in relation to the current social climate and how they affect the play's evolution in the context of changing U.S. cultural and political attitudes. Prerequisite, 110 or Africana Studies 255. Open to sophomores and juniors. (Same as Africana Studies 238.) Cryer.

[245] Modern European Theatre: Theory, Practice and Dramaturgy. An examination of 20th-century Western theatre in relation to its historical and cultural contexts. The course will focus on key figures and movements in modern theatre, including the study of selected dramatists, theoreticians, directors, designers and performers and their roles in the creation of modern theatre vocabularies. Prerequisites, one course in Comparative Literature or Theatre or consent of instructor. Oral and written work required. (Same as Comparative Literature 245.) (Next offered 2002-03.)

255S Asian Theatre: The Exotic Body. An exploration of major Asian theatre and dance forms and their representations in the West. Focus on elite, popular and hybrid forms arising out of the cultures of China, Japan, India and Southeast Asia, and the way these forms have functioned as tokens of exoticism in the West. No prior performance experience necessary, but students will be expected to participate in all workshops offered as part of the class. Prerequisite, one course in Theatre or Asian Studies, or consent of instructor. Latrell.

300E,S The Study of the Theatre through Production and Performance. Performing a major role, stage management, dramaturgy or design of scenery, lighting or costumes for a faculty-directed production. Prerequisite, invitation of the department. The Department.

303F Directing. Fundamentals of play direction and script analysis; study of selected directors and directorial problems; the direction of exercise scenes; and direction of a final scene or one-act for public presentation. Prerequisite, two semesters of acting and two other courses in Theatre or dramatic literature or consent of the department. Latrell.

[307] History of the Western Theatre. Against a background of social and intellectual movements, a study of design, architecture, costume, acting and dramatic literature that distinguish periods in the history of the theatre that have exerted the most influence on the Western theatre of the 20th century. Focuses on the theatres of classical antiquity through the Baroque and Rococo periods. Prerequisite, 110, any 200-level Theatre course, English 206, Comparative Literature 244 or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2002-03.)

345S Modern European and American Drama. For full description, see Comparative Literature 345.

[355] Crossings: Globalism in Contemporary Performance. For much of the 20th century, theatre artists have drawn inspiration from the performance of other cultures, incorporating "foreign" theoretical and formal elements into their own works. Such artists include Brecht (Chinese opera), Artuad (Balinese dance), Brook (Indian literature) and Yeats (Noh theatre), as well as non-Western theatre artists such as Suzuki and Riantiaro. Through an understanding of the connections between artistic forms and the cultures from which they arise, we will examine various types of artistic crossings as well as the issues raised by the phenomenon. Prerequisite, 245, 255 or 307, or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2002-03.)

500F Senior Seminar. Practice in developing theatrical ideas, projects and proposals. Research and production methodologies. Completion of a senior project proposal. Open to senior concentrators only. One-half credit. Bellini-Sharp, Cryer and Latrell.

560E,S Senior Performance/Production. An acting showcase, the directing of a play, costume, set and/or lighting design for a departmental production. Substantial written component comprising research into the historical, theoretical and socio-cultural contexts of the chosen work. Following submission of the monograph and completion of production, each student will participate in the evaluation of her/his project with an evaluating committee. Open to senior concentrators only. The Department.

Richard G. Lloyd

A concentration in Dance consists of 201, 203, 205, 305, 307, 550 or 560, and four semesters of Intermediate (213, 215) and/or Advanced Dance (313, 315). The Senior Program in Dance may be fulfilled through satisfactory completion of one of the following options: a Senior Thesis (550), which may be a research paper or a field study in movement behavior and its analysis/notation, or Senior Performance/Choreography (560), which may be a performance of dance works, the choreography of dance works or both. No student who has completed the requirements and maintained an 85 average in Dance courses will be prohibited from selecting the Performance/Choreography option as the Senior Project. Students qualifying for and electing Dance 560 (Senior Performance/Choreography) as their Senior Program in Dance must be enrolled in technique class during the semester in which they are enrolled in Dance 560. Students falling below the 85 average will be required to register for an independent study as preparation for the project.

Departmental honors may be earned through outstanding achievement in coursework, a history of distinguished contribution to the Dance program and excellence in the performance, composition, research or production component of the Senior Program, as judged by the department.

A minor in Dance consists of three courses selected from 201, 203, 205, 305 and 307, and two semesters of Intermediate Dance (213, 215) or Advanced Dance (313, 315).

103F Introduction to Dance as a Performance Medium and Healing Art. An overview of dance as a performing art, its role in culture/communication and as a source of health and well being. Lectures, discussions and introduction to several dance/movement forms including contemporary, ballet, tap, African-based jazz and various health-based movement techniques (yoga, Pilates, Bartenieff Fundamentals). Introduction to motif writing included. Not open to students who have taken 101. Maximum enrollment, 20. Heekin.

104F Introduction to Dance in its Social and Theatrical Forms. A survey of the evolution of dances from their folk/social manifestations into forms of classical status: forms which are not merely old, but encode the values and ideals of the cultures from which they sprang. Among a myriad of examples, three will be highlighted: the development of the folk and court dances of the Renaissance and Baroque into classical ballet; the development of Kabuki from a sensual, "outlaw" theatre to a highly venerated classical form in Japan; and the development of African-American social dances from the slavery era to the signature dances of the '20s and '30s (particularly swing dance) into classics of American musical theatre. Lectures, discussions and technique classes in the dance forms cited above. Not open to students who have taken 101. Maximum enrollment, 20. Norton.

[112S] Elementary Dance. Fundamentals of ballet, contemporary, African and martial arts, incorporating technique, theory and criticism. No previous dance training required. Maximum enrollment, 20.

141-142FS Performance. The study of dance through performance of a role in a main stage dance concert. Prerequisite, invitation of the department. One-quarter credit per semester. The Department.

180S Sound, Performance and Creativity. An introduction to the development and use of sound in its relationship to performance. Topics include creation of original sound structures, using vocal and body sounds as well as found objects; introduction to sound recording, editing and playback; aural analyses of material created in the class, as well as material from various historical periods, to develop a common musical language and to understand the structures and aesthetics of sound and music; creation of different types of non-traditional visual scores and their application for movement. Individual and group projects. No previous musical, dance or theatre experience required. Maximum enrollment, 16. Lloyd.

201S History of Dance. Study of the theatrical, social and ritual aspects of dance through cross-cultural comparisons among dance forms. Exploration and analysis of such historical issues as the evolution of dances, the struggle to preserve traditional dances and dance fusions in a global society. Lectures, discussions and films. (Writing-intensive.) No previous dance training required. Maximum enrollment, 20. Norton.

203S Movement Analysis. Observing, analyzing and recording movement using Laban's principles. Emphasis on cultural and aesthetic concepts of movement as a system of communication. Investigation of alignment techniques, movement behavior and kinesiological principles. No dance training required. Maximum enrollment, 15. Heekin.

[205S] Kinesiology. An investigation of the musculo-skeletal system and use of biomechanical principles to improve efficiency of motor behavior. Emphasis is placed on muscular and alignment analysis. Lectures, discussions and practical application of movement concepts. No prior dance training required. Maximum enrollment, 30.

208S Martial Arts and Dance. An investigation into the relationship between martial arts and dance emphasizing the abstraction of movements of self-defense into dance. This approach relies on many cultures that utilize body awareness and movement efficiency through several systems including aikido, capoeira, chi kung, jeet kune do, kali, muay thai, northern shaolin, pa kua chang, silat and tai chi chuan. Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Walczyk.

213F Intermediate Contemporary Dance and Theory. Continuation of the study of contemporary dance through a multicultural viewpoint incorporating technique and theory. Emphasis is placed on alignment, muscle analysis and movement behavior. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite, 101, 102, 103 or 104 or consent of the instructors. Heekin and Walczyk.

215S Intermediate Ballet. Continuation of the study of ballet. Technique classes are combined with studies in kinesiology, dance theory and dance criticism. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite 101, 102, 103, 104 or consent of the instructor. Norton.

[305F] Composition. A study of the elements of choreography, emphasizing personal development in movement invention, phrasing and design. The use of improvisation, music and technical theatre introduced. Prerequisite, 211 or equivalent, or consent of the instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12.

307F Choreography. The application of fundamentals from 305 to more complex choreographic work, incorporating set, props, costume and text. Exploration and analysis of other art forms as related to dance composition. Prerequisite, 305 or consent of the instructors. Heekin and Walczyk.

313S Advanced Contemporary Dance and Theory. The study of contemporary dance through a multicultural viewpoint incorporating technique and theory. Emphasis on performance techniques and ability to comprehend the conceptual framework of movement. Ability to analyze joint action, muscular contraction, personal alignment and musculo-skeletal imbalances expected. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite, 213 or consent of the instructors. Heekin and Walczyk.

315F Advanced Ballet. The study of classical ballet emphasizing style and performance quality in addition to technical mastery of the ballet vocabulary. The course meets five times weekly. While out-of-class assignments are minimal, daily attendance, effort and consistent improvement in the technical and stylistic aspects of this art form are of critical importance. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite, 215 or consent of the instructor. Norton.

320F The Ballets Russes: Globalization of a Russian Classical Art. Study of the history of the Ballets Russes dance company and its cultural context. Follows the development of the company's roots within the Imperial Ballet of the Tzars, artistic achievements and international fame from 1909-1929, aesthetic principles, including Wagnerian total theatre and influence on the development of modern ballet. Examines the dancers, choreographers, composers and visual artists associated with it, including Picasso, Miro, Matisse, Stravinsky, Ravel and others. No previous dance experience required. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Dance, Russian Studies, Music or Art History. (Same as Russian Studies 320.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Norton.

550E,S Senior Thesis. A research paper or a field study in movement behavior and its analysis/notation. Open to senior concentrators only. The Department.

560E,S Senior Performance/Choreography. A performance of dance works, the choreography of dance works or both. Substantial written component comprising research into the historical, theoretical and socio-cultural contexts of the chosen work. Following submission of the monograph and completion of production, each student will participate in the evaluation of her/his project with an evaluating committee. Open to senior concentrators only. The Department.

The concentration in Women's Studies consists of nine courses in Women's Studies, including 101, 201, 301 and 550, two courses selected from among 314, 327, 401, 402 or 405, and three electives. With the approval of the concentrator's advisor, one course focused on women or gender that is not cross-listed with Women's Studies may be counted toward the electives required for the concentration.

The Senior Program (550) is an interdisciplinary project culminating in a thesis or performance. Students who have an average of 90 in the concentration may receive honors through distinguished work in 550. A complete description of the Senior Program is available from the program director.

A minor in Women's Studies consists of 101, 201, 301 and two courses selected from 314, 327, 401, 402 or 405.

101ES Introduction to Women's Studies. An interdisciplinary investigation of past and present views of women and their roles, treatment and experiences in institutions such as the family, the state, the work force, language and sexuality. The diversity of women's experiences across age, class, ethnic, sexual, racial and national lines introduced, and theories of feminism and of women's studies discussed. (Writing-intensive.) (Proseminar.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Gentry and Mohanty (Fall); DeMuth and Gentry (Spring).

190F Women and Madness. Examination of historical, cultural, literary, artistic and psychological constructions and representations of women as "mad." Uses feminist sociopolitical perspectives to explore how these representations are connected to topics such as anger, violence, sexuality, race, class, conformity and resistance to female roles, and the psychiatric and psychological communities. Gentry.

201S Introduction to Feminist Thought. An interdisciplinary examination of the history and contemporary practice of feminist thought. Topics include the history of feminist thought in Western culture, the broadening and complication of that canon to include examinations of race, class, gender, sexuality, ableism and ageism, and the implications of global feminist thought. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. DeMuth.

[208F] Women in Music. For full description, see Music 208.

Analyzes rhetorical complexities operative in the formation of a black/woman/self. Texts drawn from a variety of literary genres of self-expression, including spiritual autobiography, slave narrative, travel memoir, poetry and essays. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Women’s Studies. (Same as Africana Studies 288 and English 288.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Moody.

301F Feminist Methodological Perspectives. An interdisciplinary exploration of feminist methods of social analysis. Emphasis on how feminist inquiry has transformed how we think about and study gender in the sciences, social sciences, arts and humanities. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Gentry.

314F Feminist Perspectives of Class in the United States. An interdisciplinary seminar that examines class as it is associated with race, gender and sexuality in the United States. Focuses on representations of class throughout history and in contemporary literary, cinematic, social policy and academic texts. Prerequisite, one course in Women’s Studies or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. DeMuth.

[316S] Globalization and Gender. For full description, see Economics 316.

326S Women’s Slave Narratives. Seminar focusing on accounts of enslaved women in the United States and other parts of the African diaspora. Examines dictated and written firsthand accounts of bondage, accounts of descendants of slaves, and fictionalized works such as Beloved. Addresses concepts such as “historical truth,” “authenticity,” “blackness,” “womanhood” and “freedom” in the context of the literature of slavery. Primarily literary approach, but with attention to additional disciplines, including aesthetics, history, anthropology and sociology. Prerequisite, one course in Women's Studies. (Same as Africana Studies 326 and English 326.) Maximum enrollment, 12. Moody.

327S Seminar on Women and Aging. Focuses on women's experiences of aging across the lifespan with attention to midlife and beyond. Examines age and images of women in literature and the media; ageism and the impact of race, class and sexual identity on aging; continuity and change across age in women's experiences of the body, reproduction, health, economic issues, and social and familial relationships. Considers how the radically changing age distribution in the United States will influence inter-generational relationships and social policy. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Women's Studies or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Gentry.

Federal and State Assistance Programs

Federal Awards

All federal assistance programs are constantly under review. The statements below were accurate as of June 2000, but subsequent legislation may have altered some of the programs. Please contact the Office of Financial Aid if you have any questions.

A candidate's eligibility for the following federal aid programs is based on a formula developed by the Congress of the United States and referred to as the Federal Methodology. The College may amend FM results in the awarding of institutional funds.

Federal Pell Grants

The former Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program was renamed in 1980 after Senator Claiborne Pell in honor of his efforts to help establish the program. Grants for full-time study currently range between $400 and $3,750. Grant amounts may be adjusted annually to reflect amounts authorized and appropriated by the federal government.

The amount of an individual's award is determined by the Office of Financial Aid based on the results of a candidate's Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

In order to continue receiving awards, a student must make satisfactory academic progress, and must not owe any refunds to the Federal Pell Grant or other federal student aid programs or be in default on repayment of any student loan.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG)

Supplemental grants range between $100 and $4,000 annually and are awarded to students who demonstrate need, with preference given to recipients of Federal Pell Grants. The College's annual federal allocation of FSEOG funds is adequate to make only about 80 awards. Candidates who demonstrate need continue to be eligible for FSEOG assistance during the period required for the completion of the first undergraduate baccalaureate course of study.

Federal Perkins Loans

All candidates who apply for assistance are considered for Federal Perkins Loans. The number of Perkins Loans awarded annually may vary, depending upon repayments received by Hamilton from past borrowers, as well as federal appropriations. Aggregate maximum Federal Perkins Loan debt is $20,000 through completion of the baccalaureate degree, but not more than $4,000 in any one year. The current interest rate on Federal Perkins Loans is 5 percent on the unpaid balance. Repayment normally begins after graduation. Deferments are possible for several reasons, including military service and work in the Peace Corps or VISTA.

Federal Family Education Loan Program

The Higher Education Amendments of 1992 extended borrowing opportunities to all families, regardless of income or need. Students are eligible to borrow through the Federal Stafford Loan Program, and parents may borrow through a program called Federal Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS). Interest subsidy for Federal Stafford Loans, however, is restricted to those borrowers who demonstrate eligibility as based on the Federal Methodology. All student borrowers must file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to receive Federal Stafford Loan funds. The combined Federal Stafford, PLUS loan and other student aid cannot exceed the cost of attendance. Federal Family Loans are available only to United States citizens or to noncitizens who have permanent resident status. Lending institutions such as banks and credit unions provide funds for both the Federal Stafford and Federal PLUS loans. Hamilton recommends certain lenders for their excellent service and the Office of Financial Aid may be contacted for the names of these lenders.

Robert T. Stafford Federal Student Loan Program

Loans of up to $2,625 for first year, $3,500 for second year, and $5,500 for third- and fourth-year students are available for study at Hamilton through the Federal Stafford Loan Program. Maximum dependent undergraduate indebtedness cannot exceed $23,000. The average indebtedness at Hamilton is much less than the statutory maximum. The interest rate on Federal Stafford Loans is established at the time the first loan is made. The rate for those who borrowed for the first time on or after July 1, 1994, is variable, but cannot exceed 8.25 percent.

Even though the statutory maximum may be borrowed, interest subsidy is available only on that portion for which the borrower has demonstrated need. It is necessary, therefore, for all applicants to file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). An origination fee of up to 4 percent may be deducted from all loans at the time of disbursement.

Federal PLUS Loans

Federal Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students are available only to creditworthy borrowers who seek assistance in meeting expected family contributions. There is no current maximum loan except that the amount borrowed cannot exceed the cost of education, less other financial assistance received by the student.

The interest rate for a Federal PLUS is variable, but cannot exceed 9 percent. Variable interest rates are set each June. Lenders are charged with the responsibility of notifying borrowers of interest rate changes.

An origination fee of up to 4 percent may be deducted from all loans at the time of disbursement. Federal PLUS borrowers are generally expected to begin repayment within 60 days after the final loan disbursement. Deferments or postponements of payment on the principal are available in limited instances.

Federal Work-Study Program (FWSP)

For students in financial need, Hamilton arranges jobs on-campus or off-campus with public or private non-profit agencies such as hospitals. Application is made through the Office of Financial Aid. Hamilton gives preference to students who have the greatest financial need and who must earn a part of their educational expenses. Class schedule, academic progress and health are also considered in determining eligibility. Wage is determined by the nature of the job and the qualifications of the applicant.

United States Bureau of Indian Affairs Aid to Native Americans

Students who are at least one-fourth Native American Indian, Eskimo or Aleut and are enrolled members of a tribe, band or group recognized by the Bureau of Indian Affairs may qualify for aid under this program. Application forms may be obtained from the Bureau of Indian Affairs Office.

Veterans Administration (VA) Educational Benefits

Persons who served more than 180 days between January 31, 1955, and January 1, 1977, and continue on active duty, were honorably discharged at the end of their tours of duty, or who qualify because of service-connected disabilities are eligible for benefits. Veterans are entitled to benefits for one and one-half months of study for each month of service, up to 45 months.

Children, spouses and survivors of veterans whose deaths or permanent total disabilities were service-connected, or who are listed as missing in action, may be eligible for benefits under the same conditions as veterans.

State Awards

In compliance with the New York State Education Department regulations, eligibility for the continuation of funds awarded through the Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) or Regents Awards for Children of Deceased or Disabled Veterans requires the following minimal levels of academic progress:

Pursuit of the program of study toward the baccalaureate degree requires the completion of at least two courses during both the fall and spring terms of the first year, and the completion of at least three courses during the fall and spring terms of each succeeding year.

Satisfactory progress toward the completion of the degree requirements must be achieved. Satisfactory progress is not made by students who fail to pass at least half of the courses carried, who accumulate failures in a total of five courses, or who incur a third probation. Satisfactory progress includes the following minimal number of courses passed for the respective semi-annual TAP payments: first payment = 0 units, second payment = 3 units, third payment = 7 units, fourth payment = 10 units, fifth payment = 14 units, sixth payment = 17 units, seventh payment = 21 units, eighth payment = 24 units.

Failure to maintain these minimal standards of academic progress will result in the loss of funds from the TAP program. Any questions regarding this requirement should be addressed to either the registrar or the director of financial aid.

Tuition Assistance Program (TAP)

The Tuition Assistance Program is available to any New York State resident who is enrolled full time in an approved educational program in New York State. The amount of TAP is based on the amount of tuition charged and family taxable income (income after deductions). Taxable income is adjusted for additional family members enrolled in college full time, or for child support received from a non-custodial parent.

The maximum adjusted taxable income for TAP eligibility for dependent applicants is $80,000. Awards range from $275 to $5,000 per year, depending on income and the year in which the first award was received. After a candidate has received payment for four semesters of study, his or her award is reduced by $150 for each subsequent year of study. Undergraduate students generally will be eligible for no more than eight semesters of TAP payments, although students in certain pre-approved programs may be eligible for up to 10 semesters.

Applications for TAP must be filed annually with the New York State Higher Education Services Corporation, 99 Washington Ave., Albany, NY 12255. Application status may be viewed on-line, and detailed information about all programs administered by HESC can be obtained at <http://hesc.state.ny.us/index.html>.

Vietnam Veterans Tuition Award Program

The Vietnam Veterans Tuition Award Program provides financial assistance to veterans enrolled in undergraduate degree programs on either a full- or part-time basis. A listing of the institutions having approved degree programs is included in the supplemental application.

To be eligible under this program, the veteran must:

- have served in the armed forces in the United States in Indochina between January 1, 1963, and May 7, 1975;
- have been discharged from the service under other than dishonorable conditions;
- have been a resident of New York State on April 20, 1984, or have been a resident at time of entry into the service and resumed residency by September 1, 1987;
- apply for a Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) award and a Federal Pell Grant if applying as a full-time student or for the Federal Pell Grant only if applying as a part-time student.

Duration: Full-time Study—Awards are available for up to eight semesters for a four year program, or 10 semesters if a degree program is specifically approved as requiring five years. (Programs of remedial study are considered to be programs normally requiring five years.) Part-time Study—Awards are available for students taking 6 to 11 hours (or the equivalent per semester) for up to 16 semesters (eight years), or 20 semesters (ten years) in an approved program which would normally require five years if the study were full-time.

Amount: Full-time awards are $500 per semester or tuition, whichever is less. If the veteran also receives a Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) award, the combination of the two awards cannot exceed tuition. Part-time awards are $250 per semester or tuition, whichever is less. The total of all awards for full- and/or part-time study received cannot exceed $5,000.

Regents Awards for Children of Deceased or Disabled Veterans

An award of $450 per year is available to students who are the children of veterans who have died, have a current disability of 50 percent or more, or had such a disability at the time of death, resulting from United States military service during one of the following periods: April 16, 1917-November 11, 1918; December 7, 1941-December 31, 1946; June 25, 1950-July 27, 1953; or October 1, 1961-March 29, 1973. This award, available to New York State residents, is independent of family income or tuition and is made in addition to other grants or awards to which the applicant may be entitled.

State Aid to Native Americans

Awards of $1,100 per year for a maximum of four years of study are available to members of Native American tribes located on reservations within New York State. Additional information can be obtained by writing to the Native American Education Unit, New York State Education Department, Albany, NY 12234.

Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP)

HEOP awards are given to academically and financially disadvantaged students admitted to the HEOP. Such awards are packaged with other needed assistance.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act Annual Notice

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) affords students certain rights with respect to their education records. They are:

1. The right to inspect and review the student's education records within 45 days of the day the College receives a request for access. Students should submit to the registrar, dean of students, academic department head or other appropriate official, written requests that identify the record(s) they wish to inspect. The College official will make arrangements for access and notify the student of the time and place where the records may be inspected. If the records are not maintained by the College official to whom the request was submitted, that official shall advise the student of the correct official to whom the request should be addressed.
2. The right to request the amendment of the student's education records that the student believes are inaccurate or misleading. Students may ask the College to amend a record that they believe is inaccurate or misleading. They should write the College official responsible for the record, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate or misleading.

If the College decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the College will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of his or her right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.

3. The right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in the student's education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.
 - a. One exception which permits disclosure without consent is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interests. A school official is a person employed by the College throughout in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); a person or company with whom the College has contracted (such as an attorney, auditor or collection agent); a person serving on the board of trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another school official in performing his or her tasks.

A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility. Upon request, the College discloses education records without consent to officials of another school, upon request, in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.
 - b. Another exception that permits disclosure without consent is the disclosure of directory information, which the law and the College define to include the following: a student's name, home and campus address, e-mail address, telephone listing, parents' name and address(es), date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, photograph and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended. This information is generally disclosed only for College purposes, such as news releases and athletic programs, and not to outside vendors.

This exception is subject to the right of the student to object to the designation of any or all of the types of information listed above as directory information in his or her case, by giving notice to the dean of students on or before September 15 of any year. If such an objection is not received, the College will release directory information when appropriate.

4. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the College to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, S.W.
Washington, DC 20202-4605

5. Questions regarding FERPA and the procedures followed by the College to comply with the act may be referred to the dean of students or the registrar.
